D117 to drug test student drivers

By Tara Clifton

Staff Reporter

Starting Feb. 13, unless students in school district 117 want to give up the privilege of driving to school, they must be drug tested.

The district will spend roughly $35,000 for mandatory testing of student drivers and those involved in extra-curricular competitive activities, said Nathan Bylsma, student assistance program coordinator for the district.

"The whole idea is to prevent students from using drugs," Bylsma said. "Drug testing is prevention. If they're tested, students won't use, and if they test positive we have the chance to get them help."

This will be the third year student athletes have been tested, said Jay Sabatino, district superintendent.

Hair samplings are used, Sabatino said, which can detect substances used during the past three months.

Student parkers were told in November that they would be tested in February to give them fair warning, Sabatino said.

If tested positive, urinalysis will be used next, Bylsma said. Offending drivers could face up to 20 school days of suspension.

Athletes that test positive could face up to 35 school days of suspension, Bylsma said.

Drivers must sign a contract which allows them to be randomly tested, Bylsma said. They can choose not to sign it and not be tested, but then driving privileges will be revoked.

After initial testing, students are thrown into a pool for possible testing in coming years, Bylsma said.

For example, students playing football for the first time will be automatically tested, Bylsma said. After that they are placed in a pool and randomly selected for testing during their second year on the team.

This system will be used for student drivers as well, Bylsma said.

"The theory is that is 15 people (for example) are caught this year, it will be 10 next year and keep getting smaller," Sabatino said. "Students can now say 'I'm going to be tested and I don't want to do it and have my parents find out (about drug use).'"

Sabatino said the district has tried to keep the public informed of its drug testing decision with flyers and public meetings.

Only a few angry phone calls have been received, but many parents seem to support the initiative, Sabatino said.

Bylsma said some parents are upset that the entire student population is not being tested, and feel that certain groups are being targeted.

Under state law, Bylsma said, schools cannot test general populations, only those in privileged activities, such as belonging to a competitive team or driving.

The district has also been granted more than $700,000 over the next three years as part of a $10 million U.S. Department of Education project to allow schools nationwide to expand or implement random or voluntary drug testing.

Testing of student drivers is separate from the study, Bylsma said.

"The grant allows us to try different things and have data to look at to know where we want to spend the district's money, where the largest issues are," Bylsma said.

Students who test positive for a drug will be sent for assessment at various agencies in the community, Bylsma said, where a professional would create a treatment plan.

"We want to create a safe environment to get them help or keep those students who don't use drugs safer," Bylsma said.

AUGS band works hard to get to NYC

By Tara Clifton

Staff Reporter

This year's marching band season has been a lot of hard work, said Sarah and Michael Beckman of Lake Villa, but in the end it will all pay off.

The two belong to Antioch Upper Grade School's senior band, which was invited to march in New York City during the St. Patrick's Day parade in the middle of March.

The school year has been a flurry of practicing and fund raising, the Beckmans said.

Mr. Earl Bush leads The Antioch Upper Grade School band in practice for the St. Patty's day parade in New York City.

Kathleen, Sarah and Michael's mom and an active part of the parents group garnering funds to cover the cost of the trip, said the goal is to raise $21,000. They hope to raise $30,000 so no band members have to share the costs.

If the latter goal is missed, Kathleen said, each band student will have to pay roughly $100 each to pay the rest of the price.

But band parents are not too worried. Michael, 13, a seventh-grade tuba player, said the band has run 10 to 15 fundraisers since October. Students have sold candy, wristbands, newspaper subscriptions and more, he said.

Nobody even knew the band was going to New York until October, Kathleen said.

"That's been the challenge," to get enough money in time," Kathleen said. "But the community has really been wonderful. It's exciting and we're doing OK."

Sarah, 14, an eighth-grade flute and piccolo player, said she and her brother have practiced much more than usual to memorize the three songs the band will play for the parade.

The entire AUGS band practices every day for 40 minutes, Sarah said. Each section works together once a week and the senior band, about 45 members, rehearses every Tuesday night.

Lions ask businesses to pitch in for fundraiser

By Tara Clifton

Staff Reporter

The Lake Villa Township Lions Club is asking businesses to buy advertising space for its ad book fundraiser.

Money raised from the campaign will help keep costs of the 2006 Lions Club District Convention down, said Patrick J. Dunham, first vice president of the Lake Villa Township Lions, in a press release.

The ad books will be set up for display at the convention for hundreds of people to see, said Robert Amburgey, president of the Lake Villa Township Lions.

The convention will be held March 17, 18 and 19 at the Renaissance Chicago North Shore Hotel, Amburgey said.

Lions from District 1F, which contains most of the upper half of Lake County, will gather to hear various speakers, commemorate Lions who have died and have fun with fellow club members, Amburgey said.

"There is a lot of interconnection between the clubs," Amburgey said.

Nationwide, the Lions' biggest goal is to help those with hearing and sight problems, Dunham said, and Lake Villa Township's Lions hold that same focus.

Dunham said the club collects old glasses frames that are distributed to those in need. Collection sites are at various eye centers, he said, including the Wal-Mart eye center in Gurnee.

Hearing aids are also collected and recycled, Dunham said.

But the Lions public works projects don't end there, Amburgey said.

Many club members are a part of another charitable organization, Amburgey said. He volunteers for LaCasa regularly.

And the club also puts on a Christmas party every year for Shriner's Hospital, Amburgey said.

The group will have a pancake breakfast April 1 and 2 at Lakes Community High School, Amburgey said, and the list of activities goes on.

"The best thing about this is nobody gets paid for anything," Amburgey said. "Every dollar goes back."

All money collected from the public will be given to a public cause, Amburgey said.

Lake Street to get makeover

By Tara Clifton

Staff Reporter

Possibly within a year, residents might think they took a wrong turn when they visit Lake Street.

Village officials are giving the street a new look, hoping to match how Main Street looks.

Smith Engineering presented a plan for the makeover to village officials that slates the project to be done by the holidays.

Officials were so pleased with the proposal they are sending a recommendation to the village board to approve Smith's plan, said Candi Rowe, village clerk. The village board will consider it at its meeting at 7:30 p.m. at Village Hall, 487 Main St., Feb. 6.

Tim Hartnett, vice president of Smith, and Steve Crede, project coordinator, detailed their vision of what Lake Street could look like.

Hartnett said new sidewalks with a brick inlay could be installed, along with putting lights in trees, adding trash cans, a sound system and more.

"Lake Street will be another feather in the village's cap of the downtown revitalization project," Hartnett said.

Smith was behind the Main Street renovation, which began construction in 1997 and was completed in 1999.

The project will be funded with money from the village's tax increment financing fund, the motor fuel tax and other village funds.

In addition to making Lake Street more visually appealing, Crede said his firm would install handicap-accessible ramps with railings where steps now exist.

A stormwater pipeline could also be replaced, Crede said. Right now the pipe is an eight to ten inch diameter clay pipe that is cracked, Crede said. Smith would install an RCP reinforced 12 inch diameter concrete pipe from Hillside Ave. to Main St.

Village officials seemed very pleased with the proposed plan, with their concerns of business disruption dissipating.

Hartnett and Crede explained that wooden ramps with carpeting would be set up at each business to allow customer entry. Parking would be interrupted temporarily, and alternate parking would have to be found, they said.

But Smith will not add or subtract from the current number of parking spaces.

Roger Sorensen of the redevelopment commission clapped his hands lightly and smiled when he heard this.

In order to keep the project construction's impact on businesses as minimal as possible, Hartnett said Smith would try to work quickly within its Holiday '06 deadline.

Officials had other questions and concerns, ranging from the cost of installing more trees along the street to possibly getting a bigger storm water pipe.

Village Trustee Mary J. Turner's concern also centered on trees.

Turner suggested trimming from the bottom up to preserve the canopy and was hoping for an arborist to do the work.

Smith officials said they would make an effort to follow her recommendations.

Program helps Alzheimer's patients, caregivers

By Tara Clifton
Staff Reporter

When Jack Frost walked into an upstairs room at Wildwood Presbyterian Church, Margaret Banwart jokingly said she would buy him a cup of coffee.

Frost agreed, and Banwart walked over to a full pot sitting in one of the church's coffee makers and poured the brown liquid to the brim of a foam cup. When she gave it to him, Frost got out his wallet to pay her back.

"Oh no," Banwart, of Lake Villa, said smiling. "This is on me."

Playfulness between clients and workers abounded when Frost and other "guests" of Extra Care began piling into the room one morning.

And that's what Extra Care, based near Grayslake, is all about: Giving Alzheimer patients' caregivers a break and giving the patients a chance to get out and meet new, friendly people. People with any sort of memory loss are accepted.

George Naegele of Antioch was on a Wildwood Presbyterian Church committee that created the program about 10 years ago.

This cause was close to Naegele's heart. Two of his grandparents had the disease.

Naegele, who is president of Extra Care's board, said he did the research that was necessary to get the township grants that help fund the program. Naegele said he discovered that about 6,000 people in Lake County suffer from Alzheimer's. That number is most likely much higher now.

Donations from United Way and other churches and organizations also help make the program possible. Clients and their families are charged $25 per day.

Right now Extra Care is helping four of those 6,000 patients and the ones who care for them, Banwart, program director, said.

The program runs from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesdays and Fridays, Banwart said. Activities are centered on what guests, workers' name for Alzheimer's patients, want.

The day usually begins with a cup of coffee, the newspaper and chit chat, Banwart said. After everyone is acquainted, guests do some light exercises, such as throwing a ball from their chairs.

After that the rest of the afternoon is up for grabs.

"We always offer them a different activity," said Anna Dziejma, executive director of Extra Care.

They do everything from making crafts, such as morphing old greeting cards into Chinese paper lanterns, to watching old television shows and listening to old music, Dziejma said.

Volunteers and workers have as much fun as the guests do, said Dee Weinhandl, a volunteer from the program's inception.

"Like the day we played ping pong," Weinhandl said, chuckling.

"Even I was tired that day."

The moods of many guests and caregivers improve through the program, Weinhandl said.

"One caregiver said he had a bad weekend with his wife," Weinhandl said. "When she left she was in such a better mood."

Program workers have a good time also.

"It's a joy to see them have such a good time," Naegele said. "And it's a little easier for caregivers when they go home."

Weinhandl said one of her favorite guests loves to dance to the 1940s music that is regularly played. One time she grabbed Weinhandl's hands and pulled her out of her seat to dance.

Dziejma said she feels proud to have a job that actually makes a difference.

"When I talk to friends that work in a bank (for example) they make good money but they always say they feel empty," Dziejma said. "We are doing something that's not just about making money."

Banwart, who has been a part of the program for four years, said she finds joy in seeing her guests' have fun.

"I like knowing that the day I planned for them made them happy," Banwart said. "I like seeing them laugh like they've never laughed before."

Rescue Squad's fundraiser helps former member

By Tara Clifton
Staff Reporter

Ralph Antonelli's life has taken an unexpected turn recently, said Wayne Sobczak, chief of the Antioch Rescue Squad.

After 15 years on the squad, Antonelli was ready to retire and move with his wife to Costa Rica, Sobczak said.

But shortly before traveling out of the country, Antonelli developed a bad cough and soon was coughing up blood.

A doctor gave him a shocking diagnosis: Antonelli had late-stage cancer that had spread to his lungs, kidneys and abdominal region.

Not only did he face the disease, but his COBRA insurance policy and his wife's insurance had lapsed, Sobczak said.

But Antonelli's friends and former co-workers stepped in to help a comrade in need.

Last weekend the rescue squad and Antioch Rotary Club, of which Antonelli was a long-time member, teamed up to hold a fundraiser to help defray the cost of his medical bills, Sobczak said.

And the event went even better than Sobczak had hoped.

About 130 people gathered at Antioch Bowling Lanes for an afternoon of fun, drinks and a dinner in the evening. With the $50 ticket price and other donations, about $10,000 was raised for Antonelli and his wife, Sobczak said.

A bank account has also been set up for Antonelli at First National Bank Employee Owned, 485 Lake St.

The community is welcome to make a donation at any time.

People streamed in and out of the bowling alley throughout the evening, Sobczak said, including JoAnn Osmond (R-Antioch).

"It was a charitable night, and everyone had fun doing it," Sobczak said.

Photos and videos of well-wishers were taken to send to Antonelli and his wife in Costa Rica, Sobczak said.

Rather than making the gathering a somber event, Sobczak said, the aim was to have a good time.

"We did not want to make it a downer for anyone," he said. "So we decided to have a party."

Antonelli was well worth their efforts, Sobczak said.

"Here's a guy that gave to the community, and it was time to help him," Sobczak said.

Sobczak, who e-mails Antonelli often, was told that Antonelli might try a new cancer drug that has not been approved by the Food and Drug Administration. In Costa Rica, FDA approval is not necessary.

"He wrote me and said, 'At this point, nothing ventured, nothing gained,'" Sobczak said.

Antonelli just hopes to still be alive in May to attend his son's wedding, Sobczak said.

Antonelli is taking chemotherapy treatments that, he hopes, will reduce the size of his tumors and stop the cancer from spreading, Sobczak said.

Sobczak speaks fondly of working with his friend.

"He was just a genuine community servant and a good patient-care advocate," Sobczak said. "These people who have had the opportunity of being taken care of by him, well, it's a hard thing to explain unless you were the one being taken care of. 'He made a difference in the community.'"

LCHS holds first musical

Here's an event that could fill an otherwise dull night. Lakes Community High School will present its first musical production at 7 p.m. Feb. 9, 10 and 11 and at 2 p.m. Feb. 12 at the high school, 1600 Eagle Way in Lake Villa.

Tickets cost $5 for students and $7 for everybody else.

Bridget Sundin, director of theater at the high school, said she is extremely excited about presenting "The Music Man" to the community.

She is also getting a kick out of teaching students new to the art of acting.

"We're learning the tricks," Sundin said. "It's a wonderful experience across the board."

Freshmen through juniors are participating, with 40 in the cast, 20 in the backstage crew and about 17 in the pit orchestra, Sundin said.

They've been practicing for eight weeks, she said.

Going to see the show and giving the students a huge crowd would be a good way to reward them for all their hard work.

Kacie Griffith, a sixth-grader at Hooper School, must really know how to spell. Griffith will represent her school in the sectional spelling bee Feb. 21 at Antioch Community High School. At Hooper's spelling bee Griffith took the first place rank in the fourth to sixth grade category. Connor Somgynari was first runner up and is an alternate for the sectional bee. A huge congrats to both of you!

Make sure you go out and see Susan Russell's art display at the Antioch Fine Arts Foundation. Russell is this month's featured artist, and you can study her paintings of beautiful waves. She sent me some samples of her art, and I must say it's pretty good. Get out to see it before the end of the month.

Another artist, Lake Villa resident Patricia Rodgers, will be featured at Polyhedron, Musical Education and Performance at 34757 Augustana Ave. in Ingleside. Rodgers' work is paint on canvas or charcoal on paper, and features a musical theme. Get cultured and see this display also.

Zach Coles, a senior at Antioch Community High School, was just recently given a spot on Monmouth College's golf team for the next school year. The liberal arts college is in Monmouth, IL, go figure. Coles is the son of Richard and Ann Coles of Lake Villa. Good job!!

SCHOOLNOTES

Students need physicals

Hooper school parents are reminded to schedule appointments for their fourth-grade children to visit the doctor for a full physical. Forms proving children have been examined need to be on file when they enter fifth grade.

Dental exams are required for kindergartners, second and sixth graders. Medical forms must be on file in the school office.

New schedule approved

The District 117 school board approved the calendar for the 2006-2007 school year during a recent meeting.

The last day of first semester will be Dec. 22. Exams will be given Dec. 20, 21 and 22. The first day of second semester will be Jan. 8, 2007.

LECC holding enrollment

Calling all kindergartners

Parents are welcome to enroll their kindergartners at the Lindenhurst Early Childhood Center at 309 Granada Blvd. for the 2006-2007 school year.

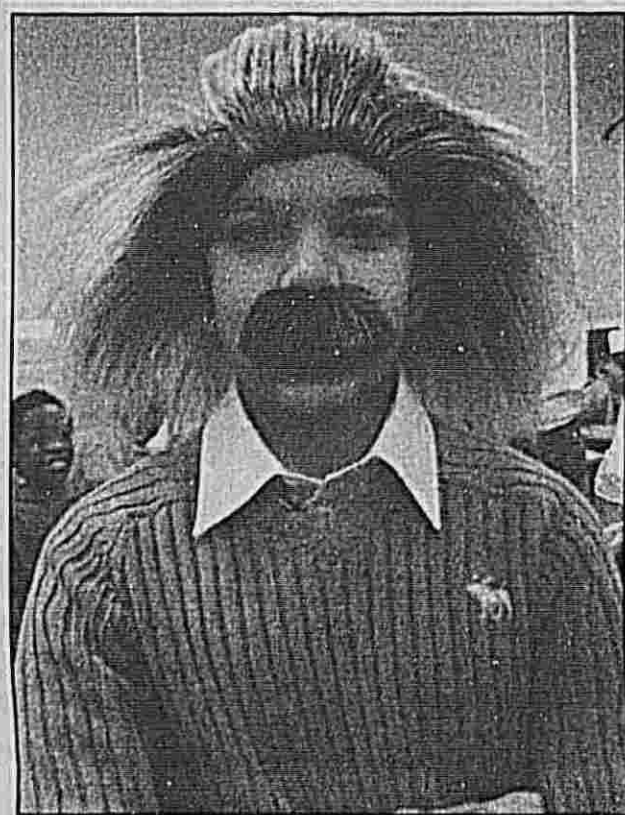

Children are taught by a certified kindergarten teacher and two co-teachers. The school day runs from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. so kids have time to absorb lessons of math, language arts, social studies, reading, computers and more. Kindergartners at LECC have a reading rate of 85 to 90 percent.

LECC kindergarten classes have a student to teacher ratio of 10 to 1. In public schools this same ratio is 20 to 1. The program flows into any local first-grade program.

Rather than getting Martin Luther King Jr. Day, Columbus Day and other such holidays off, children will be in school learning about the reasons behind these holidays.

To register or get more information, visit the LECC. Parents can also call the center at 847-356-2288.

DRESSING THE PART

Sohail Kahn, an eighth-grader at Millburn West, dresses as Albert Einstein for a biography project. Students read a biography on historical figures, wrote a report and dressed up as the person they studied. In costume, students answered questions from teachers and second-graders, and were graded on the accuracy of their responses.

D36 brings back programs

Initiative part of five-year plan

By Tara Clifton

Staff Reporter

Grass Lake School District 36 plans to bring back two more programs it was forced to eliminate five years ago.

The school board voted last week to return the gifted and music programs, both part-time positions.

The school board also decided to add a new program, hire new staff, and increase the positions of current ones.

These changes, which will be implemented for the 2006-2007 school year, are part of what the district calls its five-year improvement plan, aiming to make Grass Lake School one of the best in northern Illinois.

"We're evolving and adjusting to meet community needs," Superintendent Terry O'Brien said.

A referendum passed last April enabled the district to have enough money to bring back programs it cut about five years ago during a financially tough time, O'Brien said.

Besides the gifted and music programs, kindergarten will grow from half day to full day, a first for Grass Lake kindergartners.

Students will have more time to absorb information and add activities such as physical education and music, O'Brien said.

The switch to full-day also allows the school to increase curriculum, which will help students develop more intellectually, and to meet the standards of the No Child Left Behind Act, O'Brien said.

The board also voted to hire a part-time technology staffer to oversee the school's technology program. Also, the social worker and media specialist positions will increase from part time to full time.

Because the media specialist will be full time, a full-time librarian aide position was cut.

The funds realized from the referendum let the school bring back for the current school year its sports programs, teachers aides, and support staff, including a social worker, O'Brien said.

The district is posting job notices for the positions that are coming back in the next school year, O'Brien said, and the search will be statewide.

O'Brien said he hopes to have every job filled before the end of this school year.

O'Brien, in his first year as district superintendent, said he is happy about those changes and thinks residents will be, too.

"The community should be happy about the programs coming back that directly affect student performance," he said.

Our region needs new energy in our fight to resolve the school funding crisis, ease road congestion and establish a hospital in the northwestern part of Lake County. I want to lead us toward that future in which we get things done."

Bartels went on the offensive. "While all who are running are honorable people, with good intentions, I believe that I can be electable because of my community service and business background, and I believe that I won't have any political baggage," Bartels said. Bartels' family runs Manpower, Inc. "I'm committed to you all in the Eighth Congressional District. I am running a campaign of substance and creative solutions," Arnold, of Gurnee, said.

Arnold said that his major issues are health care reform for a true, free-market system via a "CHIP" program for providing relevant consumer information. An effective and efficient system will save lives and taxpayers and individuals money, retirement income plan reform, fair foreign trade by immediately insisting on fair trade treaties, with developing countries and labor laws that we ourselves are under and secure our borders, a topic he said he was first to support. "As President Calvin Coolidge once said in the 1920s, what is good for General Motors is good for America. I say, what is bad for GM is bad for America."

Churchill mentioned that his family has been in Lake County since the 1840s. He has had a leadership role in the state House of Representatives, in the two years that GOP was in the majority. "My family has been here since the 1840s. I think that Bean should decide to move here," he said. "We should have a consistent, conservative, pro-life, pro-gun and low tax and limited government message. As Reagan said, government should run beside us, not be on our backs," Churchill said. "I have a track record, a Republican track record."

Lincoln is a fourth generation Wauconda resident. "We will take back the office of the Eighth Congressional District," Salvi said. "I am a lifelong resident of Lake County, living in Mundelein for the last 17 years with my husband Al and our six children. I believe I can use my skills as an attorney to become an effective legislator in D.C. "I could not stand by and let the chance to defeat Bean go by." She favors making President George Bush's tax cuts permanent, battle wasteful government spending, secure our borders from illegal immigration, support the war on terror, limit government's role in education and work to reduce gridlock, "sitting in traffic is not one of our family values," Salvi said.

McSweeney mentioned the nation's $8.2 trillion deficit that it is going to pass on to children and grandchildren. "I think that the federal government should set an example. I am for a 25 percent cut in operations, end former Congressman being lobbyists, and end the trips," McSweeney stated.

He would vote to make President Bush's tax cuts permanent, offer tax cuts to companies that create new jobs and cut the burden of unnecessary regulations. He would vote to freeze the total level of federal spending excluding national and homeland security. He said he would "fully support President Bush in the war on terror. A strong national defense is the backbone of our message of the basics. The Democrats have no answers." McSweeney, 40, and his wife Margaret, have two daughters.

Illegal immigration and what to do about it was a much-discussed candidates' topic. Bartels said she would favor the guest worker program, something most of her opponents were against.

"We have got to protect our borders, but it is the responsibility of the federal government," McSweeney said.

Another key area was transportation. "It went great. There were a lot of questions answered," said audience member Ray Card.

"It was very well laid out," said audience member Pat Subinjen.

*The Baytree Prime Index Money Market is a money market checking product with a rate structure based on the Prime rate for the life of the account. Prime rate is 7.25% as of December 13, 2005. If the average monthly balance of the account falls below $25,000, a monthly fee of $15 will apply. Annual Percentage Yield (APY) assumes interest remains on deposit; fees and withdrawals will reduce earnings. Interest is calculated daily and posted and compounded monthly on the last day of the month. Personal accounts only. Money Market rules, as determined by the Federal Reserve apply. No more than six (6) preauthorized, automatic, or telephone transfers may be made from this account to another account of yours or to a third party in any month. And no more than three (3) of these six (6) transfers may be made by check, draft, or debit to a third party. If you exceed these limitations, your money market account may be subject to a fee or be closed. The fee for exceeding transaction limitations is $20 per statement cycle. The rate may change after the account is opened – this is a variable rate product tied to the Prime Rate. Offer available for a limited time. Prime Rate can be found in the Money Rates section of the Wall Street Journal.

BAND

In addition to that, Sarah said, their band director, Earl Bush, requires each student to practice their instruments at home for at least 100 minutes total each week.

Bush could not be reached for this story.

But it doesn't end there. Michael said members must "check off" before they are allowed to play in concert. This goes for every song, whether it is for the parade or not.

Each musician must play each piece of music in front of Bush, and if it is up to his standards, he will "check off" that student, which approves him or her to perform in public, Michael said.

But the long hours of preparing will seem like years away when they arrive in New York City, the Beckmans said.

The band will leave after practice March 14 and hop on a coach bus for a 19-hour ride, Kathleen said.

After the massive and extravagant parade, the kids will get a small tour of the Big Apple, the Beckmans said.

The students will be housed four to a room in a hotel on Times Square, Michael said. Sarah said the band will attend a gala celebration for parade participants and then go see the Statue of Liberty at night.

Sarah Nelson practices for the St. Patty's day parade.

But for all the practicing, all the fundraising and the glamour of going to New York, Michael said it is his love of music and his friends that have kept him in band since the fourth grade.

"It was natural," he said of playing an instrument. "I didn't have a hard time doing it."

"And the friends I have in band, that's what makes it worthwhile."

Twisting into Disney World

By Tara Clifton

Staff Reporter

Qualifying for the Universal Cheerleading Association's 2006 National All-Star Cheerleading Championship in Walt Disney World was a huge honor, said Ronna Levin.

But now the Twisters, a Lake Villa cheerleading group, will have to pay for the trip. And the price tag is hefty: $52,000.

To help with the costs, the Twisters are hosting a Valentine's Dance from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Feb. 11 at the Antioch Senior Center, said Levin, co-coordinator of the fundraiser.

Admission is $5 at the door, Levin said. Dancers will be treated to food, drinks, prizes and music by Xtreme Sound with Dave the DJ.

The sixth through ninth grade girls in Twisters have been raising money since November mostly through selling things like cookie dough and pizza, said Tonia Sewell, head coach and founder.

Hopefully a good amount of money will be raised and the community will be able to have fun, Sewell said.

The cost of the trip is for both of Twisters' teams to go, Sewell said, and does not include airfare. The Twisters Junior Elite were invited to compete March 10 through 13 at Walt Disney World, Sewell said, and the Twisters Elite Mini (grades one through 3) are going along for the ride.

"We're very proud of what we've done," said Levin, whose daughter cheers for the Junior Elite squad.

Levin said her daughter's confidence level has increased since joining the team.

"She's changed immensely," Levin said. "And I think it's done a lot for the girls. It gives them confidence and gives them somewhere to go."

Receiving the bid to compete in the UCA Nationals was the end to an "amazing season," Sewell said.

The girls practiced at least two to three times every week and earned first place in every competition this season except one, where they received second place, Sewell said.

Sewell started Twisters two years ago with her husband Dave (also known as the DJ) and had three girls on the squad.

Now 103 girls belong to the group, Sewell said.

Membership costs $70 per month.

"It's such a privilege to work your butt off and have the UCA say 'You did a great job, come on down here,'" Levin said.

Miss Teen Illinois candidate seeks donations

Kylie Hartness, 17, is offering local businesses the chance to buy advertising space and help her enter the Miss Teen Illinois International pageant.

The Lakes Community High School junior, of Lindenhurst, needs to raise a $300 entry fee to compete in the pageant. She is selling advertising space in the state pageant's program to handle this cost. Different prices and sizes are available for various advertisements.

If Hartness wins the Miss Teen Illinois International title, she said her platform will be educating preteens on the dangers of alcohol, drug and inhalant abuse. She will also focus on encouraging students to be leaders and not followers.

Hartness said she believes that because she is closer to preteens' age, she would be more effective than an adult teaching these ideas.

If interested in buying advertising space, contact Hartness at 847-280-1326. She will visit businesses personally to provide additional information.

NOW AT A STATION NEAR YOU

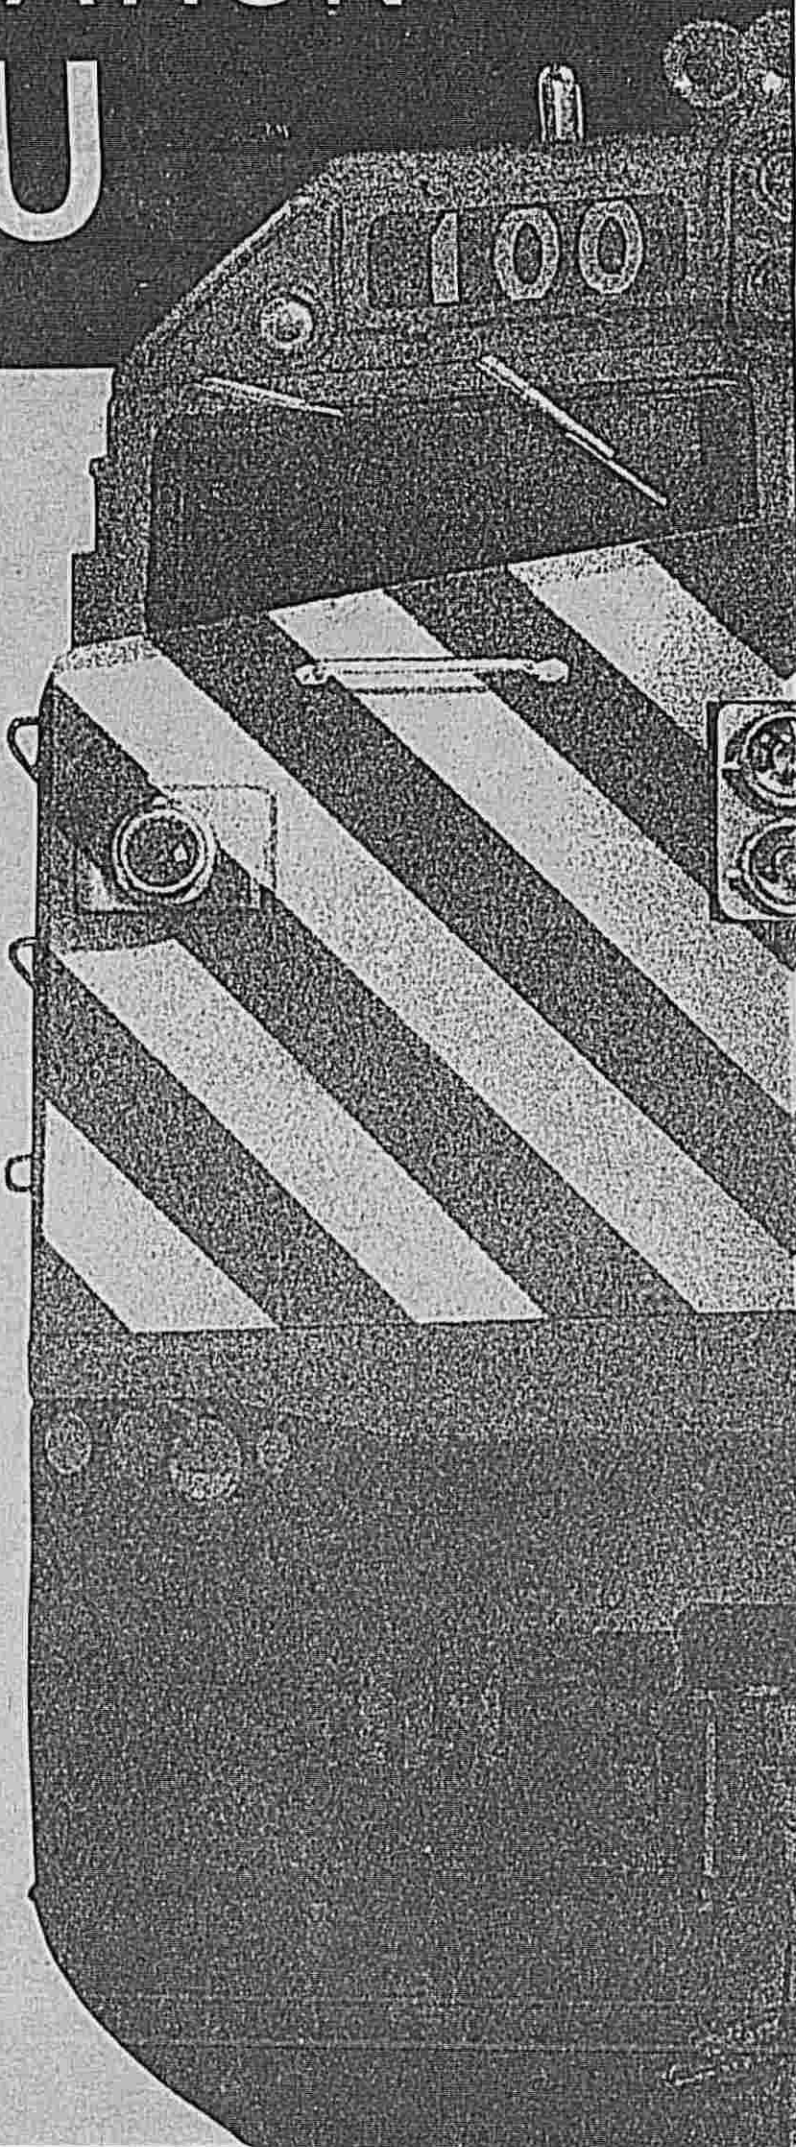

Introducing expanded North Central Service.

Metra's North Central Service is now more convenient than ever. The completion of our extensive double tracking rail project has significantly increased the number of trains, to provide better service options throughout the day.

The increased service also provides greater flexibility for suburban northern Cook and Lake County residents to access O'Hare Airport. In addition, four new station locations — Grayslake, Schiller Park, Franklin Park and Rosemont — provide more suburb-to-suburb transportation options.

So if Metra's an option for you, why drive? For fare and schedule information, call 836-7000, city or suburbs, or visit metrarail.com.

Hotline offers tips for financial future

By Tara Clifton
Staff Reporter

Sometimes handling finances can be a frightening thing. But there are people out there who want to help.

And plenty of people who want it, said Mary Erl of Lindenhurst.

Erl answered phone calls last week for a financial advice hotline formed by the partnership of Kiplinger's Personal Finance magazine and the National Association of Personal Financial Advisors.

This is the second year for the hotline.

Erl was kept pretty busy, she said. Overall, hotline workers received 4,700 phone calls from people wanting advice on everything from pension funds to college planning.

"I could barely catch my breath," Erl said. "The phone didn't stop ringing," Erl said. "I wasn't off the phone for more than five minutes."

Two weeks earlier another hotline night was held, and that was just as hectic, Erl said. That night, she said she received 20 to 25 phone calls for three hours straight.

Kiplinger's and NAPFA dubbed the service "Jump Start Your Retirement Days."

Erl is owner and founder of Nestegg Financial Advisors based in Gurnee. The company delves out tidbits of money wisdom on a regular basis.

By acting as a hotline financial advisor, Erl didn't step too far out from her everyday role.

"It was good to be able to answer some people's questions and give them direction," Erl said.

She is also a NAPFA member, a fee-only organization for financial advisors. Members, totaling 1,200, are held to high standards. According to a press release, they must be competent and knowledgeable in investments, insurance, estate planning, tax planning, retirement planning and more. Their services normally cost between $100 to $250 an hour.

But Erl received no monetary compensation for her-hotline services.

Callers mainly gave her their financial situation and asked if they were saving enough money and what they could do to be more stable, Erl said.

"They don't know who they can trust, and here are two nationally recognized resources giving them advice," Erl said.

Erl said she tries to help people everyday through her business. She is planning on doing a retirement seminar if she can find a group that is willing to participate, she said. Also in the works is a college planning seminar in a month or two.

Answering calls for the hotline is another way to be involved with the community in the meantime, she said.

"I entered into this field so I could help people," Erl said. "What a great way to do it."

POLICEBEAT

Persons charged with a crime are innocent until proven guilty in court. Information in Police Beat comes from police departments.

ANTIOCH

No valid driver's license

Juan A. Garcia, 18, 2330 Chinook in Waukegan, will appear in court at 9 a.m. March 8 in Round Lake Beach on charges of driving without tail lights or a valid driver's license.

Police stopped Garcia at the intersection of Deep Lake Road and Route 173 around 11:25 p.m. Jan. 24 in his white 1996 Nissan truck. Garcia was arrested and later released on a personal recognizance bond pending his court date.

Cynthia Lara, 18, 707 Lake St. was stopped by police around 5:59 a.m. Jan. 27 at Ida Street east of Bishop Street. Lara was traveling 40 miles per hour in a 25 mph zone in her red 1999 Dodge two-door. The officer who pulled her over recognized her from a previous traffic stop Jan. 19. Lara was arrested and remains in custody at the Antioch Police Station.

Driving while revoked

Lisa M. Clayton, 34, 23384 Lake Shore Drive, will appear in court at 9 a.m. March 8 in Round Lake Beach for driving with a revoked license.

Police stopped Clayton around 11:52 p.m. Jan. 26 at the 1000 block of Route 173 in her silver 1987 Buick Century. Clayton was arrested and released on a personal recognizance bond pending her court date.

Suspended driver's license

David F. Smolarek, 37, 363 Holiday Lane in Hainesville, will appear in court at 9 a.m. Feb. 22 in Round Lake Beach on charges of speeding and driving with a suspended license.

Police stopped Smolarek around 3:19 a.m. Jan. 27 on Route 173 east of Route 45 in his red 1995 GMC Jimmy. Smolarek was clocked going 71 miles per hour in a 55 mph zone.

Smolarek was arrested and later released on a personal recognizance bond pending his court date.

LAKE VILLA

Criminal damage to automobiles

In the hours around midnight of Jan. 28, Lake Villa Police received several calls regarding vandalism to automobiles parked in residential driveways. Between 11 p.m. on Jan. 27 and 1:35 a.m. on Jan. 28 an unknown person smashed the rear windows of vehicles on Charlton, Red Cedar Road, Fieldstone Drive, Winddance Drive, Northwind Drive and Northwood Drive. No one reported seeing suspects, although several of the victims reported hearing a "loud bang" around 11:30 p.m. No arrests have been made.

Battery, resisting police

Douglas R. Giroux, 25, of 24985 W. Forest Ave., Lake Villa, was arrested by Lake Villa Police on Jan. 19, at 8:11 p.m., in the parking lot of Bright Eyes Lounge, 1701 N. Milwaukee Ave. A police officer observed a man kicking the side of a brown Crown Victoria in the lot. He appeared intoxicated, and appeared to be attempting to enter the vehicle from the passenger side. When ordered to stop, the man, later identified as Giroux, refused. A pregnant woman sitting in the driver's seat of the car, who was later identified as Giroux's girlfriend, told police she wanted to sign a complaint charging Giroux with battery. Giroux was handcuffed, but slipped out of the cuffs, requiring four officers to subdue him and get him restrained again. He told police he had gotten drunk, and when he was drunk, got angry. He said he was angry at his girlfriend. He had gotten into a bar fight. No one at the bar, including the owner, called police about the fight. A male victim said Giroux struck him "without warning." He was later taken to Condell to treat injuries allegedly inflicted by Giroux. Giroux was charged with battery and resisting a police officer. He was released on a $1,000, I-bond pending appearance in Waukegan courtroom C-405, on Feb. 13, at 9 a.m.

No valid driver's license

Angel Salazar, 30, of 9966 Holly Lane, Des Plaines, was arrested by Lake Villa Police on Jan. 25, at 2:39 p.m., while driving a green 1997 Chevrolet Blazer eastbound on Route 132 near Cedar Avenue. He was observed driving 42 mph in a 30-mph zone. He presented a Mexican driver's license. Police found a white ceramic pipe in the car's console. The bowl of the pipe had a residue on it. Salazar was charged with speeding, no valid driver's license and possession of drug paraphernalia. He was released on an I-bond pending appearance in Round Lake Beach Branch III court on March 8, at 3 p.m.

Jose E. Guerrero-Cabrera, 33, of 407 Rollins road, Round Lake Beach, was arrested by Lake Villa Police on Jan. 24, at 1:00 p.m., while driving a silver 1994 Toyota Previa westbound on Route 132 near Cedar Avenue. The driver's license was suspended for emissions, and had expired in Dec. 2005. The driver, who said he'd been in the country for two years, said he did not have an Illinois license because he had no social security number. He was charged with no valid driver's license and driving with a suspended registration. He was served a notice to appear in Round Lake Beach Branch III court on March 8, at 1:30 p.m.

LINDENHURST

Driving with a suspended license

Sharon M. Wagner, 26, of 3804 W. 86th St., Chicago, was arrested by Lindenhurst Police on Jan. 29, at 7:38 p.m., while driving a silver 1996 Oldsmobile sedan eastbound on Route 132 near Emerald Lane. She was charged with improper lane use, driving with a suspended license and driving an uninsured motor vehicle. She was released on a $2,000 I-bond pending appearance in Round Lake Beach Branch

DUI ARRESTS

The following people have been arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs

Joseph C. Perrone, 45, 23836 W. Lake Vista Ave., was stopped by police around 9:12 p.m. Jan. 26 on Route 83 near Chestnut Ave.

According to reports Perrone was swerving into oncoming traffic in his white 1998 Ford Ranger. Police stopped him and administered sobriety tests and a breathalyzer test, which revealed a blood alcohol content of .20.

Perrone was arrested and charged with DUI, disobeying a traffic signal, failure to yield to an emergency vehicle, driving without a seat belt on, driving with a defective windshield and driving while uninsured.

Perrone remains in custody at the Antioch Police Station.

Cheryl A. Smitie, 48, of 376 Gatewood Lane, Grayslake, was arrested by Lindenhurst Police on Jan. 29, at 1:38 a.m., while driving a white 2005 Chevrolet envoy westbound on Route 132 near Deep Lake Road. The driver failed field sobriety tests and a breath test yielded a result of .083 BAC. She was charged with improper lane use, failure to yield to an emergency vehicle, DUI and DUI over .08 BAC. She was released on a $3,000 I-bond pending appearance in Waukegan courtroom C-402, on Feb. 28, at 9 a.m.

III court on March 1, at 10:30 a.m.

Javier A. Buentil, 26, of 2819 S. Austin Blvd., Cicero, was arrested by Lindenhurst Police on Jan. 27, at 6:20 p.m., while driving a green 1995 Dodge Dakota truck on Penn Boulevard near Monroe. He was seen driving 38 mph in a 20-mph zone. He was charged with driving with a suspended license, driving an uninsured motor vehicle and speeding. His vehicle was towed and he was released on a $2,000 bond pending appearance in Round Lake Beach Branch III court on March 1, at 10:30 a.m.

Fishing derby may have alternate plans Feb. 11-12

By Steve Peterson
Staff Reporter

For 45 years, fishermen have been coming to the Chain O' Lakes and participating in the annual Northern Illinois Conservation Club's Ice Fishing Derby and Winter Festival.

Ice or no ice, the derby will take place, in its 46th year, on Feb. 11 and 12. Fishing hours are from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Feb. 11 and from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. Feb. 12, followed by an auction and announcement of raffle winners.

"If there is no ice, then they fish off the shore or from row boats," said Laura Golonka, president of NICC. "It is a different challenge. We have had to do that a couple of times, and they might like it better because there are fewer people and a better chance to win."

Headquarters is at the Thirsty Turtle off Channel Lake, off Route 173, off Lake Avenue and Woodbine. Satellite fishing sites will be at the Sand Bar at Lake Marie, off Route 59; JR Fennagan's off Petite Lake and Oak Park Lounge at Pistakee Lake in McHenry.

Grand prize will be $1,000 cash. First prize will be a Minnkota Boat Mount Electric Drive Trolling Motor donated by C. Haling & Sons Marina. There will be several $250 prizes.

For the youngsters, there will be a coloring contest sponsored by Greater North Bank of Antioch and kids and carnival games and an auction.

For more information, call the NICC at 847-35-NICC (6422), or visit www.lake-online.com/nicc.

Argentinian Pianist visits Lake County

Ana Fau will perform a solo concert, "Great Masterpieces for Keyboard," at 4 p.m. Feb. 19 at Lakes Community High School, 1600 Eagle Way in Lake Villa.

Fau will showcase works that include pieces by Handel, Chopin, Debussy, Scriabin, Albeniz and Ginastera.

Fau is a piano teacher at Lake County Music, and her performance is sponsored by the Lake County Music Fine Arts Alliance.

Fau was born in Buenos Aires, Argentina, and began studying piano at six years of age.

She studied with Maestro Aldo Antognazzi and recorded with Municipal Radio of Argentina.

In 1992 she was awarded with a merit scholarship to the Eastman School of Music. She studied under Professor Barry Snyder and later traveled with his class to Russia.

Fau was so inspired by Russia's rich traditions, she decided to make the country her home. She received her degree from St. Petersburg State Conservatory in Leningrad.

Fau's favorite composers, Tchaikovsky, Shostakovich and Prokofiev, also graduated from St. Petersburg.

Tickets cost $20 at the door and $15 if ordered early. To find out more information or buy tickets, call Lake County Music at 847-265-5713.

Speed racers tweak their wooden cars, keep Scouts' Derby going strong

Some last minute hammering and glue gun pointing were going on in the corner of Lakefront Park building in Fox Lake. Yes, it was time for the world of wheels fun, also known as the Pinewood Derby for Fox Lake Cub Scout Pack 83. Members from Tigers to Webelos competed, with all cars the same specs by the rules, no more than 5 ounces, with wheels three-eighth of an inch.

"The rules are the same for everyone. My son, Avery, loves it," said Ian Garrett, there early for set up.

"They have their own ideas for the cars," said Kyle Keturoskey, who was with his son, Matt, of Fox Lake.

Frank Ukleja remembered competing in Pinewood Derby in Bensenville. His sons' car was blue in color, with a Pontiac Firebird logo.

"I remember doing this when I was a kid," said Dan Gorski. His son, Jake, said it took about 4-5 days to make the car. Jake said putting the wheels on loose and at an angle were the keys.

"We've got it down to a science," said Frank Broz.

A Scout, Matt Neckame, said he painted his with a spider look to it. Participating Scouts received photo ID badges. Then it was time for the cars to start shooting down the track, with the watchfulness of a computer entered time system.

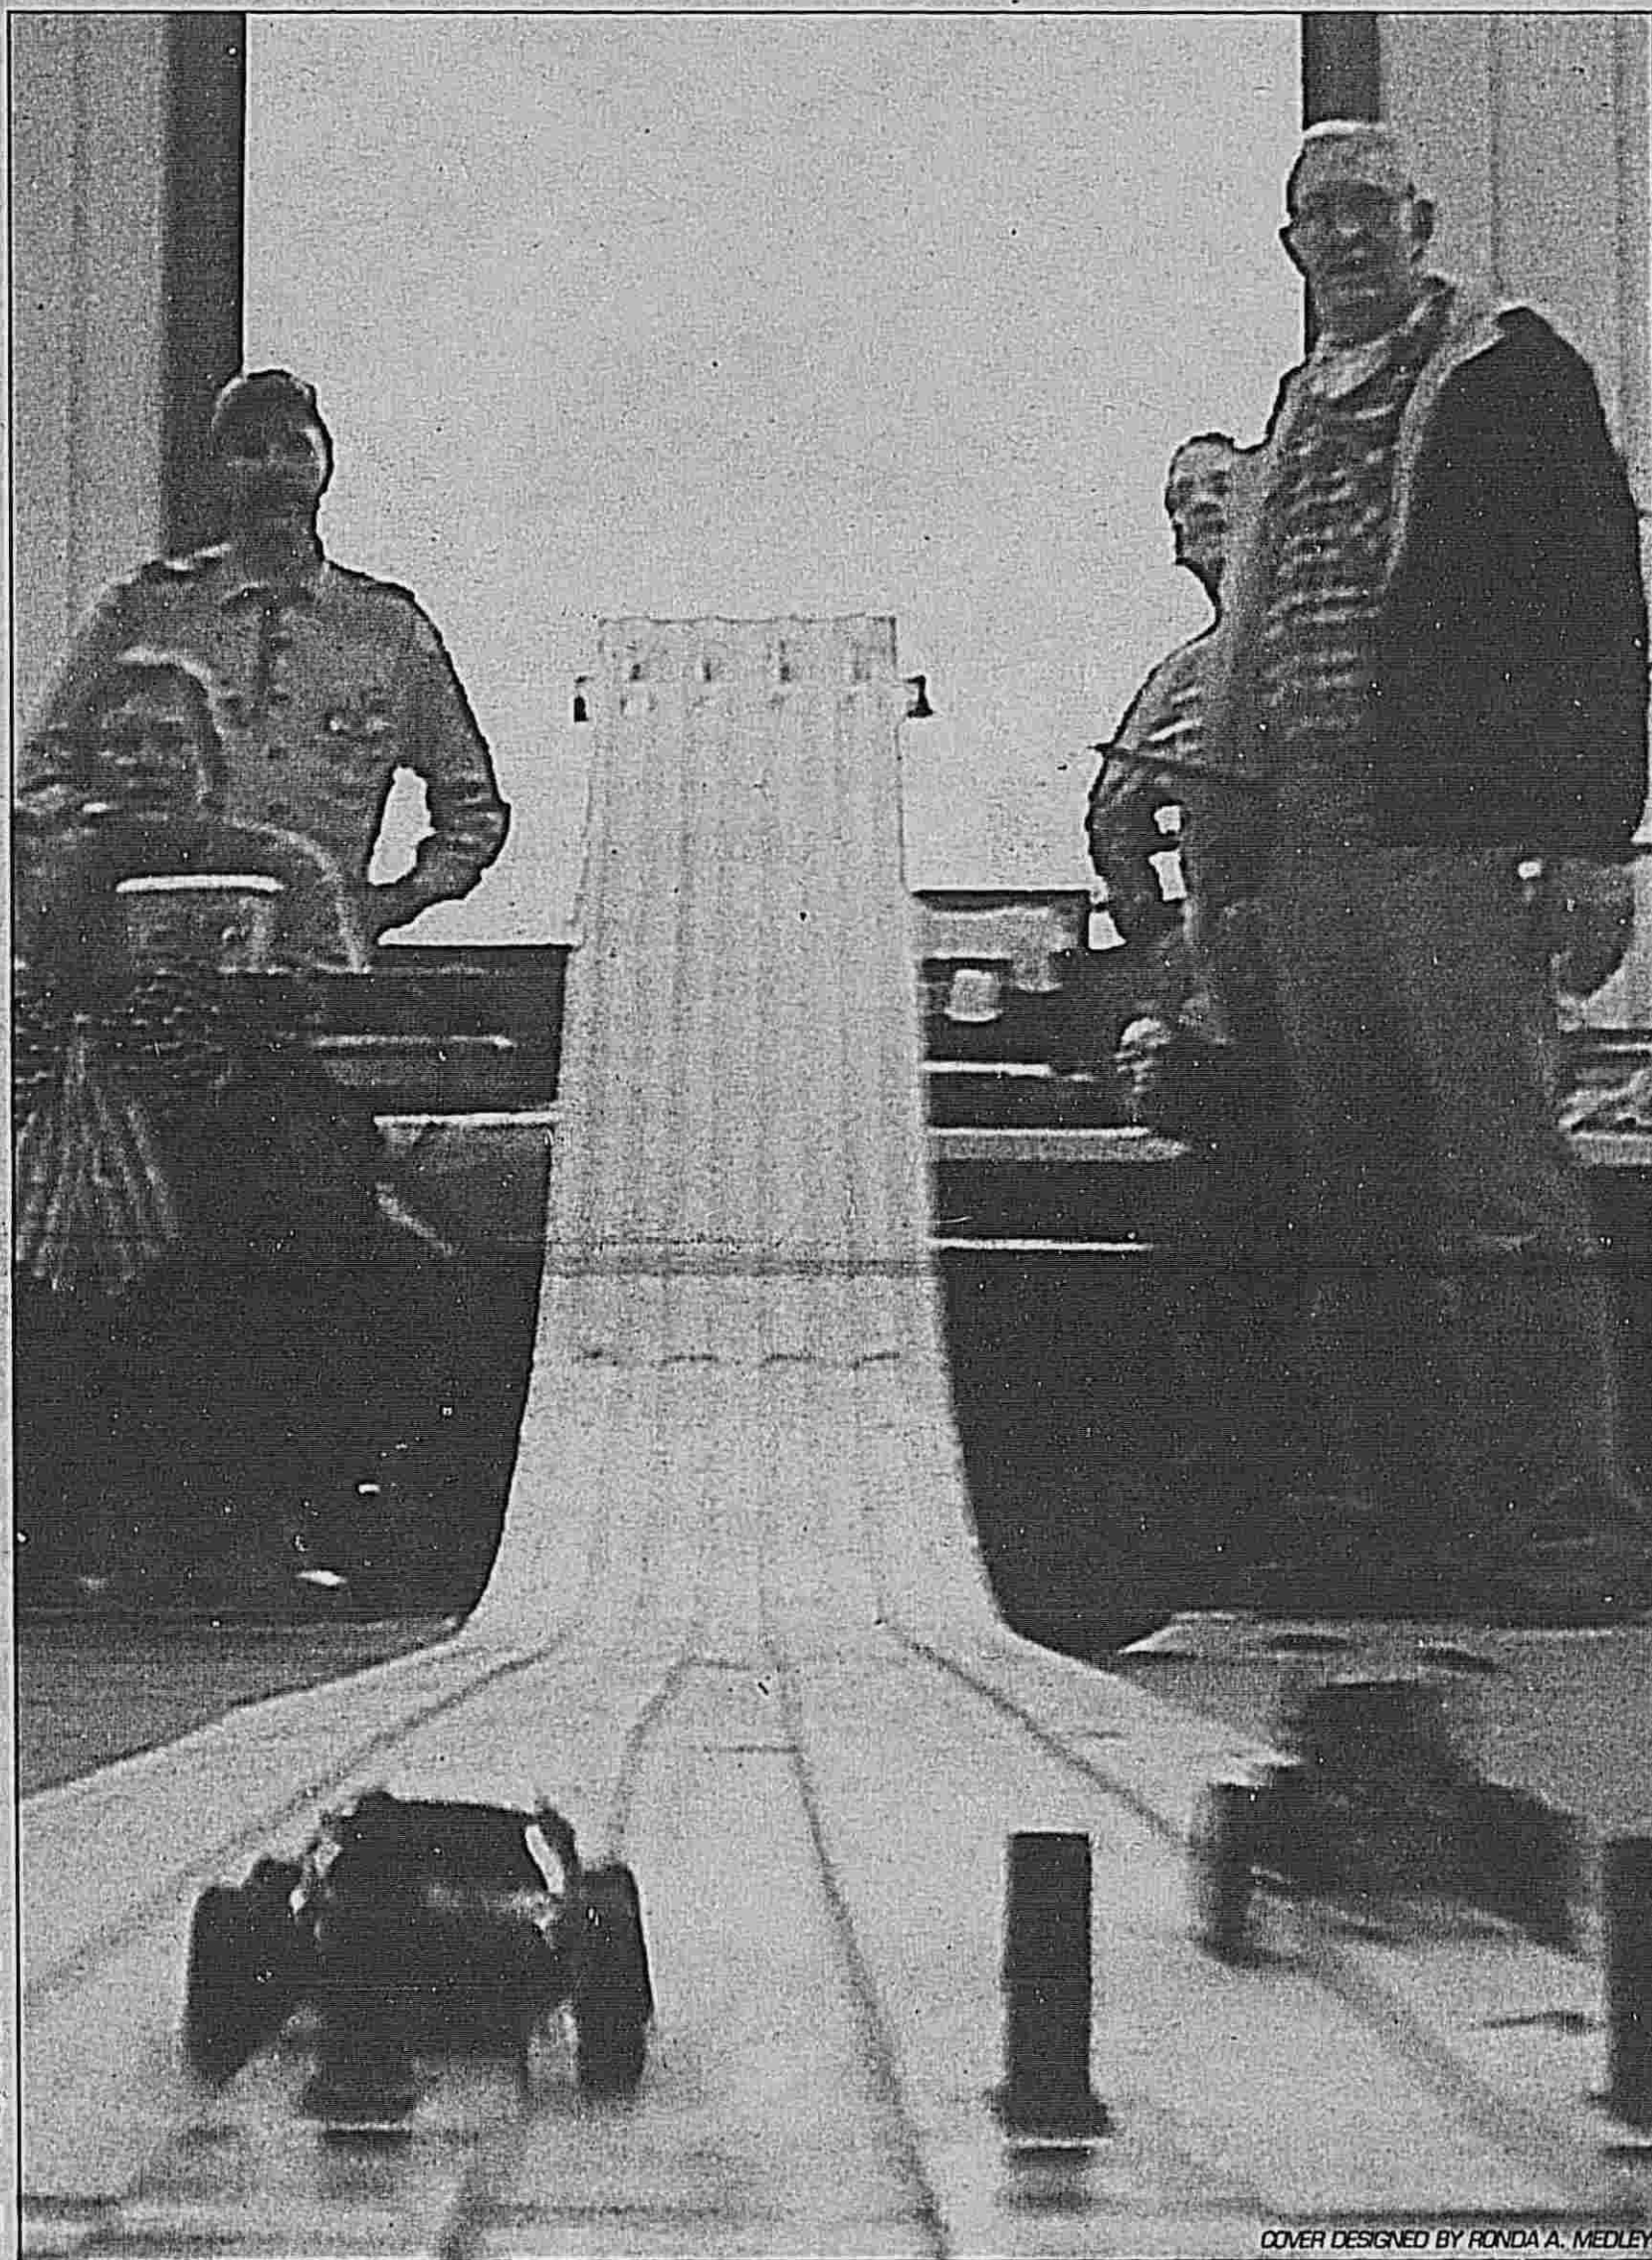

"Most Packs choose to do it, and we have 150 packs in the Northeast Illinois Council. The great thing is that it is a block of balsa wood and the boys work on it with a family member, friend, or someone from church. That has not changed over the years," said Matt Ackerman, scout executive.

Some packs use four lane tracks while others have six lanes. The results have improved from just "eye-balling" the race to electronic timers and entered on laptops.

On Feb. 8, the Scouts and adult leaders of the Northeast Illinois Boy Scouts of America mark Scouting's Year No. 96.

Several towns, including Grayslake and Volo, tabbed Feb. 5-11 as Scouting week. There are more than 22,000 Scouts, leaders and volunteers in Northeast Illinois Council. "Investment in Character and Stronger Communities" is this year's theme. "We continue to focus on helping the Scouts establish patterns for lifelong learning, health living and serving others," according to Highland Park-based Northeast Illinois Council No. 129.

On Stage Noble Fool's dizzy 'Accomplice' keeps audiences off-balance

By Tom Witom

"Accomplice," the over-the-top 1990 murder mystery-farce by Rupert Holmes, has found a temporary home at the mainstage of Pheasant Run Resort, where it's being presented by Noble Fool Theatricals under the direction of Matthew Reeder.

The two-act whodunit may be too clever for its own good, though it has had a successful Broadway run and garnered the Edgar Award from the Mystery Writers of America. Holmes' earlier work, "The Mystery of Edwin Drood," won a Tony Award and the Outer Critics Circle Award for Best Musical.

The energetic cast of "Accomplice," given to overblown performances, includes Jason Kae, Laura Fisher, Mark Ulrich and Amanda Christensen.

Very quickly, audiences learn how appearances can be deceptive. In fact, a recurring chord in "Accomplice" is just that. The plot has so many twists and turns, it's impossible to provide a succinct summary.

And to do so would spoil the fun.

The first scene takes place in England in the moorland cottage of Derek and Janet Taylor during the mid-1970s. Derek, the anthesis of a workaholic, relies heavily on his business partner John, even thought the two - outwardly, at least - are at odds. When Derek's sex-starved wife Janet asks what would happen if she unexpectedly were to become a widow, he quickly answers: "That's not going to happen during my lifetime."

Derek (Mark Ulrich) and Janet (Laura T. Fisher) play a mysterious couple in Rupert Holmes' "Accomplice," presented by Noble Fool Theatricals at Pheasant Run Resort in St. Charles.

Stuffy Derek appears to be onto Janet's murderous intentions and flatly refuses to accept the doctored drinks she offers.

As one scene shifts to another, there's a lot of play-acting and relationship shifting. Suffice it to say that by Act II the tables are turned on Janet.

John and his flaky wife Linda, who later is called upon to bare more than her soul, are due to arrive for a visit. But by the time of their arrival, things have gone completely awry.

The complicated plot twists keep audiences guessing who did what to whom. Silliness is the order of the day, and it continues to the final curtain.

Brian Bembridge has created an effective set and lighting, while Joseph Fosco does well as sound director and Kimberly Morris as costume and makeup designer.

Auditions set for Snoopy, the Musical

PM&L will hold auditions for the musical, Snoopy, at the theatre on Monday, Feb. 6, and Tuesday, Feb. 7, from 7 to 10 p.m.

Snoopy is the sequel to the Broadway production, You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown, and tells a day-in-the-life story about one of the most recognizable comic characters in the world. The cast is made up of 7 main characters, Snoopy, Charlie Brown, Lucy, Linus, Sally, Peppermint Patty, and Woodstock, and 4 chorus members.

The score for this engaging musical was written by Larry Grossman, best known for scoring The Muppet Show, and Hal Hackaday in a big-band jazz style.

Director Tom Hausman is looking for talented, energetic actors who can portray a stage age of 20-something. Those auditioning should come prepared to read from the script and sing from the score; an accompanist will be provided.

Those interested in auditioning may contact Tom Hausman at 847-395-7489 for more information.

PM&L Theatre, a non-profit, community-based volunteer organization with an open audition policy, is located at 877 Main Street, Antioch, IL.

Parking is available on Main Street as well as behind the theatre in a community parking lot.

Award winning vocalist Joan Curto stars in 'Of Thee I Sing, Ira'

Following her recent debut at New York's Lincoln Center, After Dark Award winner Joan Curto returns by popular demand to the Chicago music scene in her SRO tribute to Ira Gershwin: Of Thee I Sing, Ira. Curto pays homage to George's brother Ira, one of the most significant contributors to the great American songbook. Perhaps not as well known as his older brother, Ira wrote lyrics with many of the great composers in an era unmatched in songwriting: Harold Arlen, Jerome Kern, Kurt Weill and of course his brother George. A showcase for Joan's musical versatility, this one woman musical presentation will feature many classics such as Fascinating Rhythm, Embraceable You, The Man That Got Away and S'Wonderful, as well as lesser known gems.

Directed by Ron Cohn, providing the musical backdrop to what the Milwaukee's Shepherd Express calls Joan's "powerhouse of a voice," is Bobby Schiff on piano and Stewart Miller on bass. The show plays for three nights only at Davenport's, 1383 N. Milwaukee Ave., Saturdays, March 4, 18 and 25. Show times are 8 p.m. and admission is $15 with a two-drink minimum. As Joan's previous engagement was sold-out, reservations are highly recommended for this limited run by calling 773-278-1830.

Joan will be a featured performer at the upcoming third Mabel Mercer Foundation Chicago Cabaret Convention on Saturday, March 10.

had been featured at many Chicago Humanities Festival ASCAP concerts and has performed at The Empire Room, The Harris Theater, Park West, Thorne Auditorium and Maxim's.

Establishing herself as one of the new premier female interpreters of the American popular songbook, Joan has played to SRO audiences at some of the nation's top venues. Most recently touring with her acclaimed debut CD May I suggest?, which was named "One of the Year's Ten Best" by After Dark Chicago Magazine, Joan has performed at New York City's The Duplex, Helen's and Judy's, The Royal Room in Palm Beach, Odette's in Pennsylvania and Milwaukee's Stackner Theater and the Sharon Lynne Wilson Center for the Performing Arts. You may visit www.joancurto.com for further information.

Bill Staines

Off Square Music presents Bill Staines in concert on Feb. 18, at 8 p.m. at the Congregational Unitarian Church, 221 Dean Street in Woodstock.

For over 25-five years, Bill Staines has traveled back and forth across North America, singing his songs and delighting audiences. He has become one of the most popular singers on the folk music circuit today.

He has written hundreds of songs, to include "All God's Critters Got a Place in the Choir," "Roseville Fair," and "River." His performances intersperse originals with traditional folk tunes and contemporary country ballads. In between them all, he weaves a magical blend of wit and gentle humor.

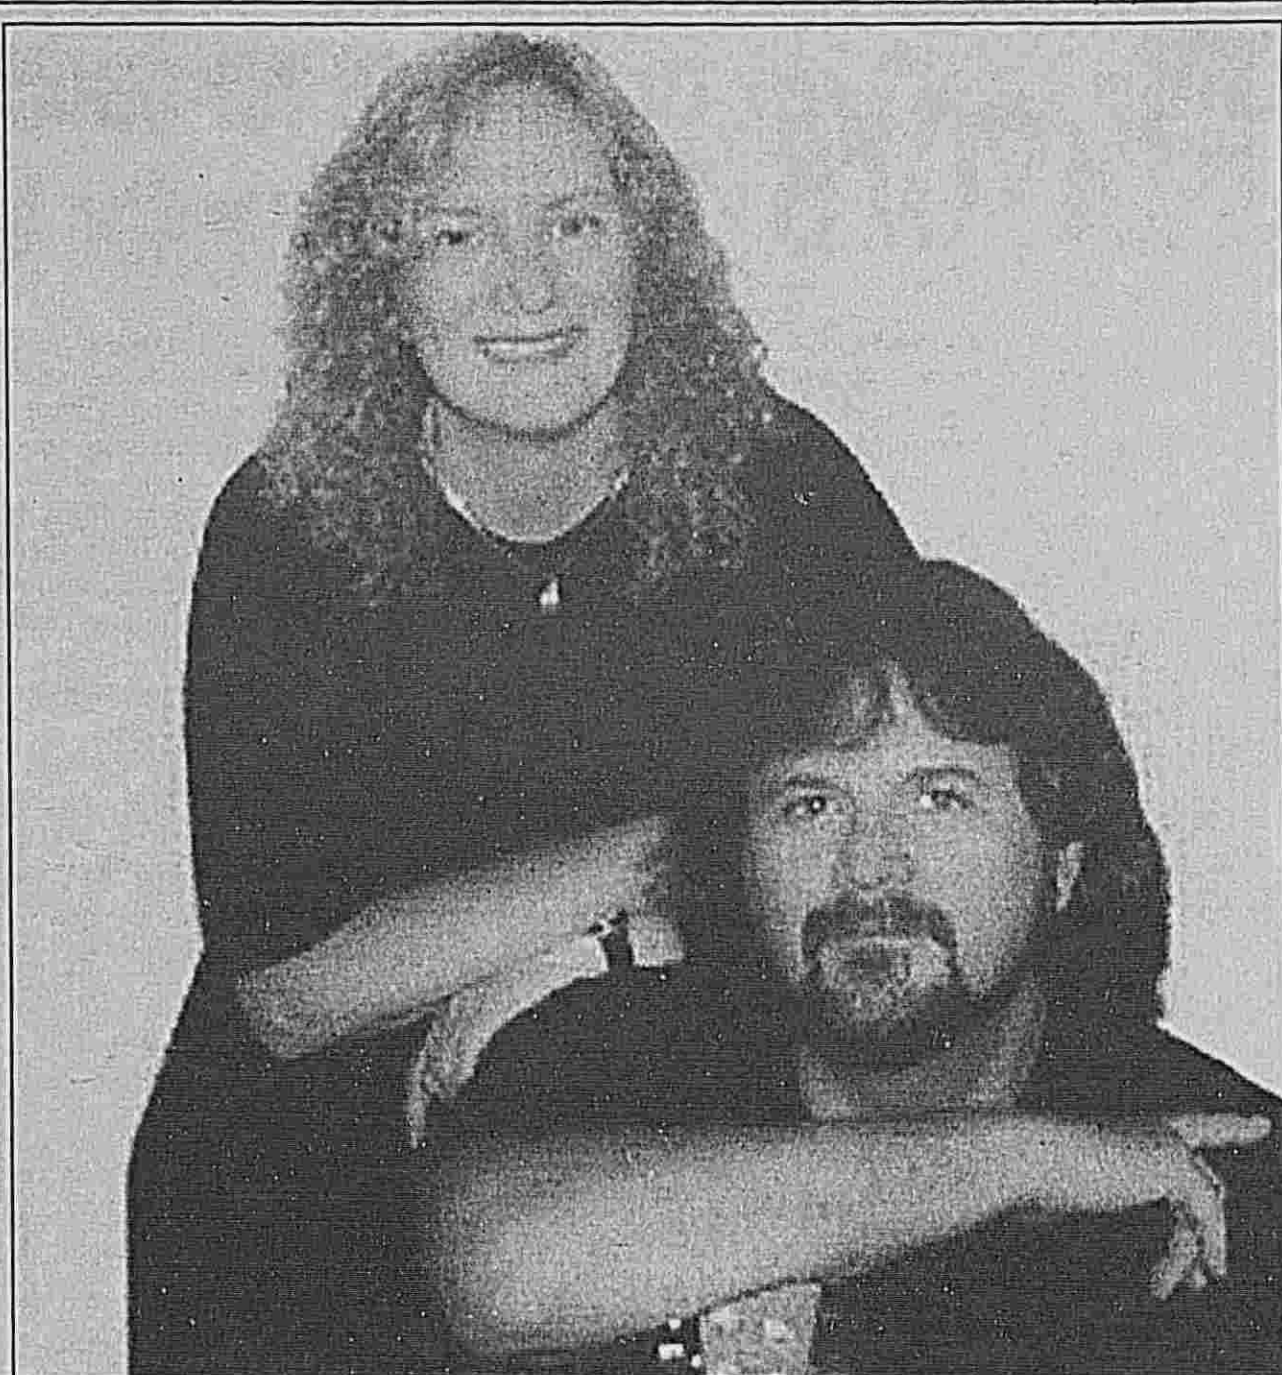

For Reservations or information, call Keith at 815 338-5164 or e-mail him at blueloom@sbglobal.net

Admission is $10. Doors open at 7:30 p.m.

Audition notice for One-Act Festival

Citadel Theatre of Lake Forest is holding auditions for their One-Acts Festival running March 23 through April 15. 6 women and 6 men, of all ages, will be cast. Auditions are Feb. 4 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Chicago Theatre Building and Feb. 5, from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. at the Gorton Center, 400 E. Illinois in Lake Forest. Prepare a 2 minute contemporary monologue. For more information or to make an appointment, call 847-735-8554.

Tom and Chris Kastle

Lake County Folk Club presents Tom & Chris Kastle in concert

The Lake County Folk Club's 2006 Showcase Stage season brings touring folk performers Tom & Chris Kastle to its stage on Sunday night, Feb. 5 at 7 p.m. at The Greenleaf Grill, 301 Greenleaf in Park City. The musical event is open to the public and to all ages. Food and beverages are served at The Greenleaf Grill.

Tom & Chris Kastle's songs and stories reflect their lives as singers, sailors, songwriters, and storytellers. Their folk music celebrates the bounty and beauty of both the land and the sea.

"When you think of Tom & Chris Kastle, think of old sailing ships," says the Milwaukee Journal. "The two Chicagoans who have served as crew members on Great Lakes sailing vessels, have combed through old journals and records for songs and stories of the Great Lakes. They blend this material with humor into their music."

Their performance credits span the local region and the globe. While Tom & Chris Kastle have performed as close to home as the Illinois Storytelling Festival, the Fox Valley Folk Festival, and tall ship events all around the Great Lakes; their performing travels have also taken them as far away as the Shanties Festival in Krakow, Poland; the University of Trondheim in Norway; the Folk House in Kinsale, Ireland; and, the National Maritime Museum and Devonport Folk Music Club in

New Zealand.

Tom and Chris both sing and provide a wide assortment of instrumentation in their music. Tom plays guitar, octave mandolin, and concertina. Chris plays guitar, tin whistles, and percussion.

Their music catalog includes the CD releases Familiar Waters, Rivers, Me For the Inland Lakes, Strike the Bell, Burnham Harbor, and many other fine recordings.

The Chicago Tribune and SingOut! Magazine praise Tom & Chris Kastles' recordings. The Tribune says, "Their vocals are warm and inviting and their differences in style play off each other quite nicely." SingOut! Magazine describes their music as "graced with fine instrumental work and equally strong vocals..."

The Kastles are founders and directors of the Chicago Maritime Festival and host numerous Great Lakes tall ship events. Tom is a captain of Navy Pier's tall ship Windy and together the Kastles have administered programs for the Folk Alliance, Shedd Aquarium, the Forest Park Nature Center, and are founders of the folk arts organization, Common Times.

Admission is $6 adult, $5 for Lake County Folk Club members, $5 students and seniors. For additional information call The Lake County Folk Club at 847-295-7228 or visit: www.thelakecountyfolkclub.org

COOKING BY THE BOOK

Teriyaki Chicken with Sticky Rice

Sushi rice

4 large boneless chicken breasts, sliced
Splash of sesame seed oil
3 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 bottle EZ Marinader Teriyaki

Toasted sesame seeds

2 packages frozen chopped broccoli
1 large onion, sliced chunky
nonstick cooking spray
Salt and pepper to taste

Cook 2 cups rice. Cook sliced chicken in a splash of sesame seed oil and 3 tablespoons vegetable oil. Drain chicken, then put it back in the skillet. Add marinade to the chicken. Sprinkle 3 tablespoons of sesame seeds on chicken. In a separate pot, cook broccoli. In a separate skillet, spray nonstick cooking spray and lightly sauté onions with salt and pepper. In individual serving bowls, place rice, then broccoli, onion and chicken. Spoon sauce over top, garnish with cashews and serve immediately.

Makes 4 servings

Barbecued Chicken Quesadilla with Avocado Salsa

1 cup Jack Daniel's(r) Original No. 7
Recipe(tm) Barbecue Sauce
2 chicken breasts-boneless and skinless
Salt and pepper to taste
3 6-inch flour tortillas
1/4 cup grated Monterey Jack cheese
1/4 cup grated white cheddar cheese

Avocado salsa:

1 ripe avocado-coarsely chopped
1 tablespoon finely chopped red onion
1 tablespoon minced jalapeno
2 tablespoons fresh lime juice
Salt and pepper to taste

Prepare Jack Daniel's Barbecue Sauce to medium-high heat. Brush the chicken with the barbecue sauce and season to taste with salt and pepper. Grill the chicken for about 4 minutes per side or until done. When the chicken is cool enough to handle, slice it and set it aside. Place 2 tortillas on an ungreased baking sheet. Spread 1/2 of the cheeses and the chicken on each tortilla and season to taste with salt and pepper. Stack the 2 layers, cover with the remaining tortilla. Brush the tortillas lightly with olive oil. Grill for 3 minutes on each side or until the tortillas are crisp and the cheese is melted. Cut into quarters and serve hot, garnished with the avocado salsa.

To make the salsa:

Combine all of the avocado salsa ingredients together in a bowl and season with salt and pepper.

Serves: 4 as an appetizer

TIP: Always add lemon or lime juice to any recipe with avocado. This will help prevent the avocado from turning brown in the recipe.

Pulled Pork with Root Beer BBQ Sauce-a great classic for sports fans

An easy way to score big with sports fans is to present them with a tailgating feast. From football season to spring training and every sporting event in between-a new cookbook by Heinz helps you do just that. Called "Touchdowns to Tailgating" ($9.95, available at most major outlets), the book is filled with fun facts about football, brain-teasers and 57 delicious recipes. Here's an unusual recipe to delight sports fans:

Pulled Pork With Root Beer BBQ Sauce

- 8-pound pork shoulder
Salt and pepper
- garlic cloves, separated and peeled

Root beer BBQ sauce:

Reduce 1 2-liter bottle root beer to 1 cup

- 1 1/2 cups Heinz Apple Cider Vinegar
- 1/2 cup Heinz Ketchup
- 1/2 cup Heinz Yellow Mustard
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire Sauce
- 1 tablespoon Tabasco
- 1 teaspoon kosher salt
- 1 teaspoon black pepper

To finish sauce:

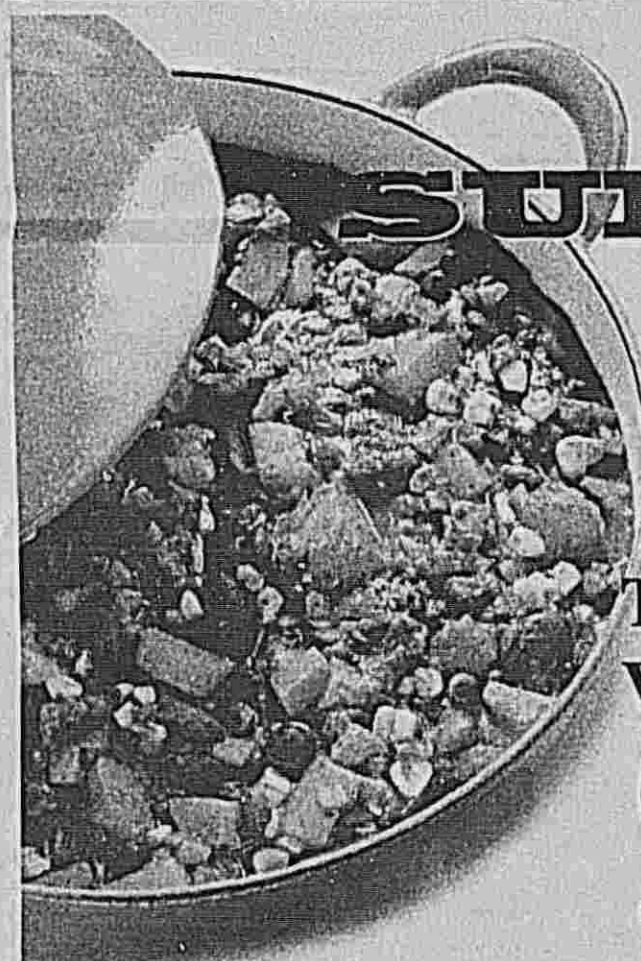

2 tablespoons cold, unsalted butter

Preheat oven to 225 degrees. Place the pork shoulder, fat side up, in large roasting pan and season well with salt and pepper to taste. Toss 2 heads of garlic cloves that have been peeled, but leave cloves whole around the pork. Cover well with heavy-duty aluminum foil. Slow-cook in the oven until tender and falling apart, and the internal temperature reaches 160 degrees. This should take about 6 to 8 hours. Remove from oven and let pork rest for 20 to 30 minutes. With two forks, pull apart meat into small chunks. Toss with the root beer BBQ sauce and serve. Root beer BBQ sauce: Reduce the root beer to 1 cup over medium heat in a large saucepan-this takes about 1 hour. Add the vinegar, ketchup, mustard, lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce, Tabasco, salt, and pepper. Stir well and simmer for 20 minutes. Finish the sauce by whisking in the cold butter for extra body and flavor. Serves: 6-8
TIP: Never use diet root beer in this recipe!

Tangy Sports Man Mushrooms

- 2 pounds large mushrooms (about 18-20)
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 1/4 cup Ore-Ida Chopped Onions
- 1/2 pound ground pork sausage
- 1 (3-ounce) package cream cheese, softened
- 2/3 cup Jack Daniel's Original No. 7 Barbecue Recipe Sauce
- 1/4 cup Heinz 57 Steak Sauce
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Preheat oven to 350°F. Remove stems from the mushrooms, leaving caps intact; chop the stems; set aside. In a medium skillet, melt the butter; lightly brush the mushroom caps with some of the melted butter. In the remaining butter, over medium heat, cook and stir the chopped mushroom stems, onions and sausage until fully cooked. Mix the cream cheese, barbecue sauce and steak sauce into the sausage mixture. Heat, stirring constantly, until cream cheese is melted. Spoon the warm sausage mixture into the mushroom caps. Arrange in a shallow baking pan; sprinkle with Parmesan cheese; bake 8 to 12 minutes. Yield: 18 - 20 appetizers

Oh-So-Sweet SUPER SUNDAY CHILI PARTY

Traditional Texas, Cincinnati Turkey and Vegetarian Chili score big with football fans

Chili originated as a way to make great-tasting, tough cuts of meat tender, so it's easy on the budget and tastes even better if made ahead. Just about the only thing chili fanciers agree on is that chili originated in Texas, not Mexico. For fresh, juicy crunch, top chili with chopped sweet onions. To sop up those delicious juices, serve with warm cornbread.

Fire up a big "bowl of red" on Super Sunday with zesty Sweet Onions, in peak season just in time for the big game — no tickets needed for this chili-lovers feast.

Texas Beef Chili

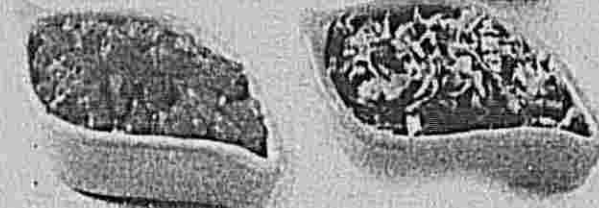

Serves 8

- 8 dried ancho chiles, trimmed and seeded
- 3 pounds ground beef, preferably coarse-ground chuck
- 1/4 cup canola oil, divided
- 1 Sweet onion, diced
- 1 tablespoon chopped garlic
- 2 tablespoons sweet paprika
- 1 tablespoon ground cumin
- 1 tablespoon oregano
- 1 teaspoon ground allspice
- 2 (15-ounce) cans pinto beans
- Salt to taste
- Chopped colorful bell peppers for garnish

Soak dried chiles in 1 quart warm water to soften about 15 minutes. In blender, puree chiles with their liquid. In large Dutch oven over medium-high heat, heat half of oil and brown beef. Remove and reserve.

Add remaining oil to same pan, and lightly brown onion and garlic. Stir in paprika, cumin, oregano and allspice. Add chile puree, beef, beans and salt to taste, and bring to boil. Cover and simmer 1 hour, or until chili is rich and concentrated. Offer chopped bell peppers to garnish.

Chef's Tip: One secret to great chili is to use coarsely ground beef. Ask the butcher to coarse-grind beef chuck. Dried chile anchos can be found in the Mexican section of supermarkets.

Vegetarian Chili

Serves 8

- 2 tablespoons canola oil
- 1 Sweet onion, chopped
- 3 carrots, diced
- 1 tablespoon chopped garlic
- 1 (28-ounce) can chopped tomatoes
- 1 butternut squash, peeled and diced (or 1-pound package diced butternut)
- 1 small celeriac (celery root), peeled and diced
- 1 (1-pound) bag frozen corn
- 2 (15-ounce) cans dark red kidney beans
- 2 (15-ounce) cans black beans
- Salt to taste
- 1/4 cup chili powder
- 2 chipotle chiles in adobo, chopped

Heat oil in large Dutch oven. Add onions, carrots and garlic and cook over medium heat 5 minutes, until crisp-tender. Add tomatoes, butternut squash and celery root and bring to boil. Cover and simmer 20 minutes.

Stir in remaining ingredients, bring to boil, reduce heat and simmer 20 minutes, stirring occasionally, until chili has thickened.

Five-Way Cincinnati-Style Turkey Chili

Serves 8

- 1/4 cup canola oil, divided
- 3 pounds ground turkey (dark meat preferred for moistness)
- 1 Sweet onion, chopped
- 2 teaspoons chopped garlic
- 2 tablespoons cider vinegar
- 1 (12-ounce) can tomato paste, diluted in 1 quart water
- 2 tablespoons chile powder
- 1 tablespoon cinnamon
- 4 bay leaves
- 1/2 teaspoon allspice
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- Salt and black pepper to taste
- 1 pound spaghetti

Garnishes:

- 1 (15-ounce) can dark red kidney beans, rinsed, drained and heated
- 1/2 pound sharp cheddar, shredded

In large Dutch oven over medium-high heat, heat half of oil and brown turkey. Remove and reserve.

Add remaining oil to same pot, and lightly brown onion and garlic. Stir in remaining ingredients, seasoning to taste with salt and pepper, and bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer 45 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Bring large pot of salted water to boil. Add spaghetti and cook until "al dente." Drain well and place in large serving bowl. Top with chili (discarding bay leaves).

Serve with beans, cheese and onions as garnishes.

A cat's cries fall on deaf ears

A woman called me saying a cat was hanging around her neighborhood in Grayslake for the past week. The entire neighborhood was talking about the cat and even brought up the situation at their homeowners association meeting. She said the cat "kept trying to get into everyone's houses and garages."

As I was talking with her I kept hearing this cat meowing frantically in the background from outside her front door. "If you call Animal Control it is a possibility he will be put to sleep." I could still hear the meowing and my heart hurt more with each passing second. "Won't anyone take this cat in, even temporarily?" I asked in frustration. She said no.

I couldn't stand it anymore, "I'll be right over." I called a fellow volunteer, Rhiannon, and we headed out. I couldn't believe NOBODY would open his or her home to him, even temporarily. I pulled into the woman's driveway and we got out.

The woman came out of her home. "He's at the neighbors in a box with milk. Rhiannon approached the tabby cat and scooped him up and I led the way to the van where we placed him in a cat carrier and closed the door.

What the heck was I going to do with this cat? I had nowhere to take him and no open foster homes. Ugh! The cat was very skinny so I decided the first order of business was to call Care Animal Hospital, our regular vet,

By Sandy Wisniewski

and get him in for an exam. At least that would buy me some time until I could find a foster home. While driving to the vet I called Danny and Laura, a volunteer foster family, who said no. I tried a few more people without luck.

The animal hospital agreed to keep the cat overnight and neuter him the next morning. I spent a little while with the cat before I left and assured him that he would never be alone again.

At my office I sent out a plea via e-mail for someone to foster the cat. I included a photo of the cat. Shortly I got a call from Danny. He said that he and Laura are, "suckers for a cute face" and would foster the cat. Yes! I thought. How wonderful!

Danny and Laura picked up the cat they later named Marvin. I placed Marvin in their arms. Tired from a tough couple of weeks but so very grateful for the help, Marvin curled up contently in Danny's arms. An hour later Marvin was in a comfy bedroom with two people who stepped up and said I care.

opening this week

Something New: A romantic comedy about love as an adventure, embarked upon by Kenya Denise McQueen (Sanaa Lathan of "Love and Basketball"). A beautiful LA career woman, Kenya works as senior manager at a prestigious accounting firm, and is on the verge of making partner. But she has yet to find her own partner and a fulfilling personal life. After another Valentine's Day spent working late, Kenya agrees to a blind date with Brian Kelly (Simon Baker), a sexy and free-spirited landscape architect that turns out to be not exactly what she'd pictured for herself. But she does need the yard of her new house fixed up. Kenya's socially prominent parents Joyce and Edmond (Alfre Woodard and Earl Billings) and womanizing younger brother Nelson (Donald Faison) also voice their own opinions. But it's when her perfect match, Mark (Blair Underwood), enters the picture that Kenya is truly thrown into confusion. Ultimately, Kenya has to decide for herself and follow her heart - no matter where it takes her. (PG-13)

takes an unflinching look at racism and despair in a small Texas-Mexico border town.

Mike and Lou Ann (Barry Pepper and January Jones) are a young married couple who've moved from Ohio to work in this border town. She stays at home with nothing to do in a funky trailer park while he is an immigration officer with major anger management issues. He's physically abusive to the illegals and emotionally distant from his wife.

The wife of the owner of the local greasy spoon, Rachel (Melissa Leo) will not leave her short order cook husband because he is literally her meal ticket. Her sexual desires cause her to sleep with Sheriff Belmont (Dwight Yoakam) on certain days and Pete on others. After Lou Ann and Rachel become friends, they rendezvous in a local motel with Melquiades and Pete. Rachel has no hesitation and Lou Ann is a fast learner.

The film has the cinematic style and social tone of the John Sayles masterpiece "Lone Star," as it shares points of view on how North Americans see Mexicans and vice versa. With the immigration issue on the US southern border, the film probably hits close to home on what's really going on. (R)

Lena Headley and Matthew Goode

In London, Rachel (Piper Perabo) is on the way to her wedding to marry Heck (Matthew Goode of "Match Point"). In the limo her father Ned (Anthony Head) expresses his concerns about his own long-term marriage. While you see the doubt in her eyes, Rachel proceeds as planned. She loves Heck but at the reception she shares a surprising love at first sight moment with the florist, a woman named Luce (Lena Headley of "The Brothers Grimm").

As Rachel and Luce come to terms with their feelings, Heck knows that something is wrong with his marriage. Nobody wants to do anything immoral, but when the heart calls, what can one do? Somewhere there is a line between passion and common sense.

Some might say this is the female version of "Brokeback Mountain." Its theme is similar in that it's a love story about following your heart. However, this is a romantic comedy along the lines of "Lovely and Amazing" and the other is serious drama. The press release information is deceptive in that you think that Rachel will fall for a guy while at the altar ready to marry Heck. While this is a spoiler of sorts, we think this is so fundamental to the story that one should know that before they decide to see the film.

"Imagine Me and You" begins with an uneven attempt at comedy and what is happening is not that funny. Once Luce and Rachel begin to come to grips with the issue at hand, the film becomes much better. It appears the studio is still trying to trade off of Piper's image from "Coyote Ugly." That's too bad as Piper turns in a career enhancing performance that's somewhat discounted because of unclear expectations of the film. This is a decent film that may be sabotaged by misguided advertising.

Be sure to stop in and see the new exhibit "Hearts Touched With Fire," featuring Civil War prints and artifacts from the Frank A. Palumbo Collection. This event is free and open to the public. For more information call the museum at 262-653-4140.

'Harriet Tubman' at the Kenosha Public Museum

Actress Pam Welcome brings Harriet Tubman to life at the Kenosha Public Museum on Saturday, Feb. 25 at 1 p.m. This is a free family program.

Listen to "Harriet" as she tells of the hardships she endured as a slave, and how she became free. Learn how she helped other slaves to freedom through the Underground Railroad. Free tickets are available on the day of the performance. Advance registration not available.

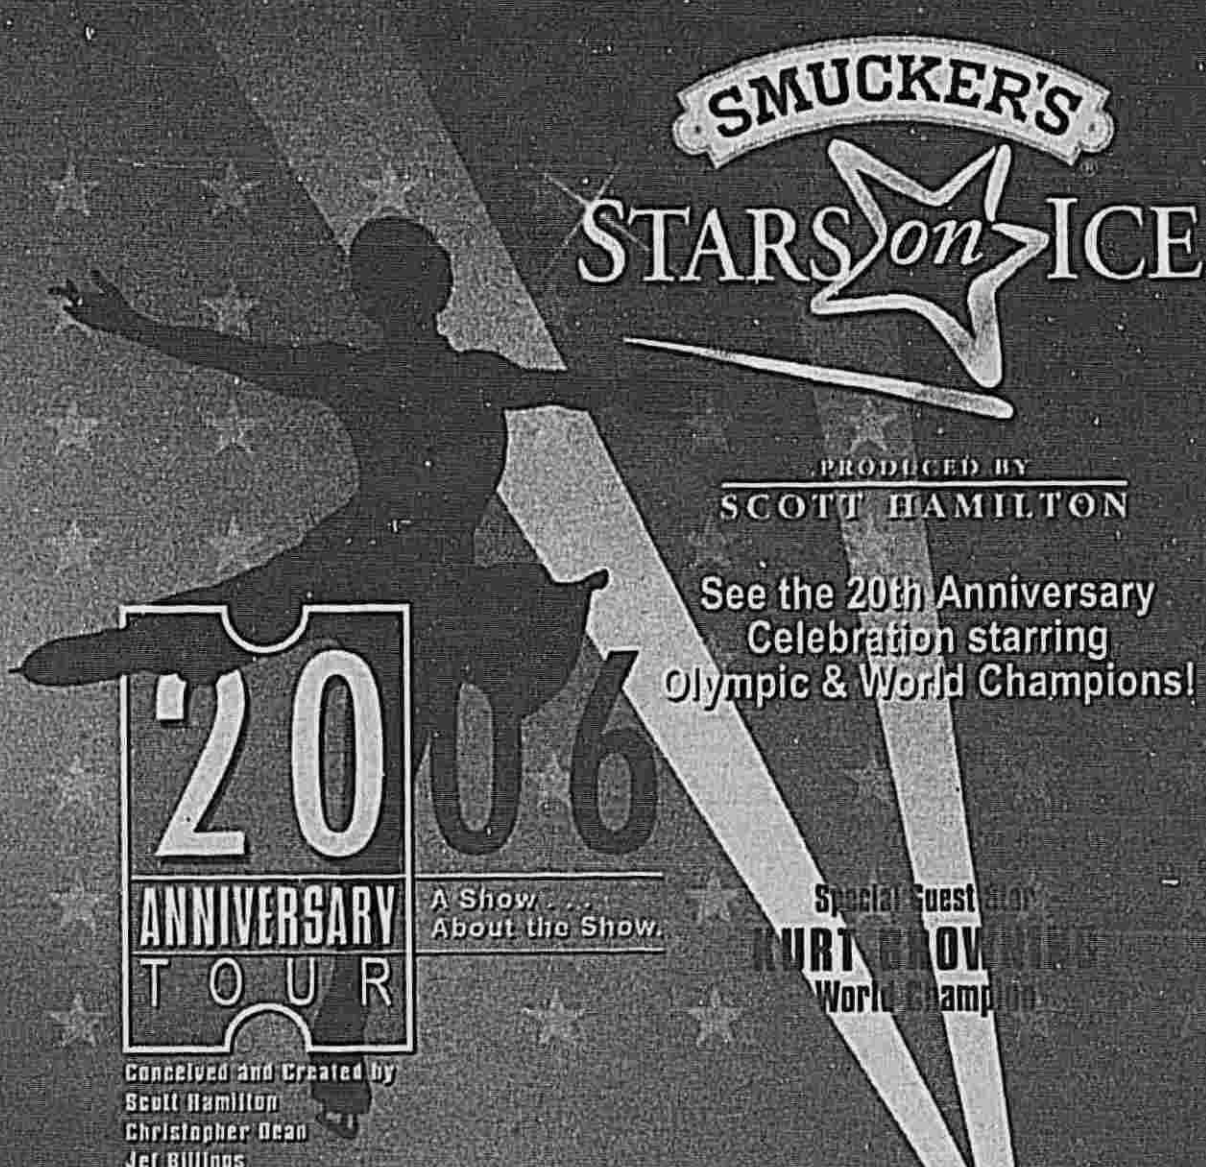

For more information, call the Kenosha Public Museum at 262-653-4140.

Experience an extraordinary exhibition

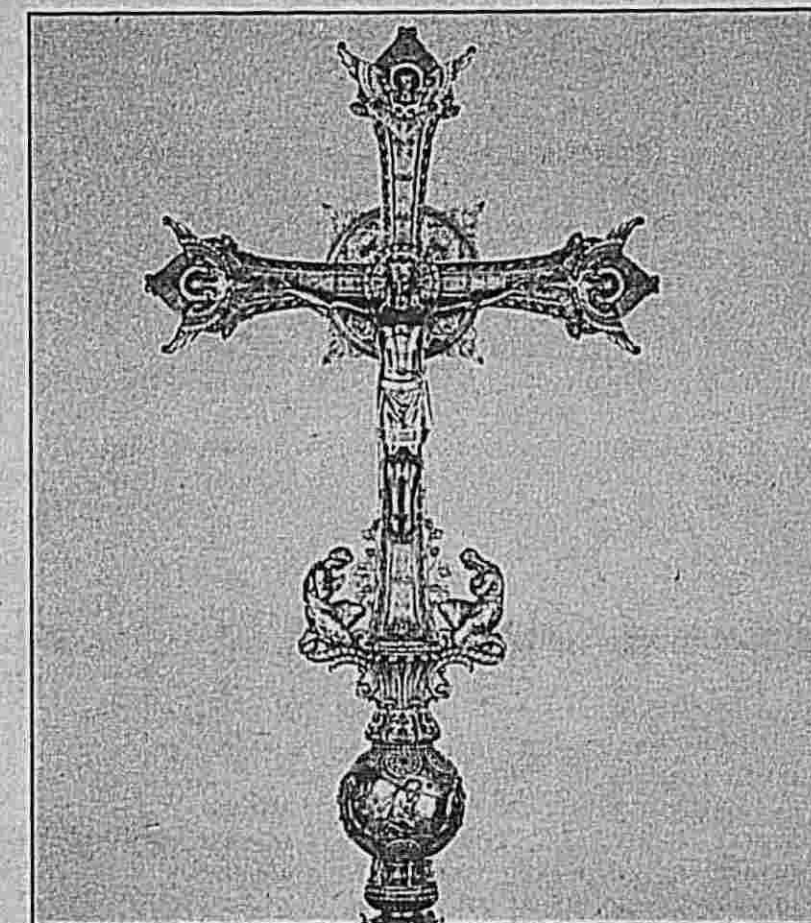

Experience the powerful history and exquisite beauty of Saint Peter and the Vatican: The Legacy of the Popes presented by the Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation at the Milwaukee Public Museum showing Feb. 4 through May 7. Witness more than 300 decorative art pieces and historical objects, many never before publicly displayed.

Trace 2,000 years of church leadership through rare documents, liturgical objects and ceremonial vestments from the Vatican Museums. See historical letters and extraordinary artwork documenting the Vatican's impact on world history and missionary work. Works by Bernini, Giotto, Canova and others provide a fascinating insight into Vatican history. Follow the 176-year construction of Saint Peter's Basilica and walk through a re-creation of the primitive scaffolding Michelangelo used to work on the paintings of the Sistine Chapel ceiling.

Witness extraordinary art, dating back to the third century

and follow the fascinating history of one of the world's most influential institutions. The blend of art, culture and history will awe visitors of all faiths. Highlights include a fifth century fresco of Saint Peter; the Mandylion of Edessa, a fifth century linen painting of the face of Jesus; the original ring of Saint Pius X; the first known map of Australia; a Buddhist devotional cloth or Thanka, presented by the Dalai Lama to Pope John Paul II; and a crucifix-adorned silver pastoral staff of Pope Paul VI and Pope John Paul II. See several ceremonial items from the recent election of Pope Benedict XVI and end your visit by touching a bronze cast of the late Pope John Paul II's hand.

All tickets are timed entry. Advance tickets are strongly recommended. Price includes general Museum and exhibition admission: adults (16-61), $18.50; senior (62+) $17.50; child (3-15), $11.50. Order tickets online at www/mpm.edu or call 414-278-2728 or 888-700-9069.

Stop in the name of love

The candles are lit and your radio tuned to "Mr. Mellow and his Love Moods" as he opens the phone lines for schmaltzy song requests. This is it. Your heart pounds against the engagement ring in your pocket as you lift a glass to your beloved, "Drink to me only with thine eyes..."

MR. MELLOW: "Welll nowww, here's our first caller..."

CALLER: Huh, am I on the air? BERT! Turn down Mel Tillis...I can't hear over that stuttering!

MR. MELLOW: Noywww, howwww can I help you?

CALLER: Gawdarnit, I'm fed up. This here bum Bert only shows up when he wants a clean bed and a shower. I've thrown him out upteen times, but I can't shake him...cuz he cleans up kinda good!

MR. MELLOW: Welll nowww, you've certainly got a problem...

And so do you...By now your girlfriend is wondering if you're a potential Bert, which kind of rhymes with a poem I read about a princess and a frog, "kiss me, just kiss me once on the nose; well I screams, 'Ya little green pervert'; and I hitsm with my mop."

After all, she should be worried. Experts say infatuation lasts at most two years, leaving a couple with a cold reality as spicy as creamed corn. Now it doesn't happen all at once. It's a slow progression from exciting to exhausted, pretty much like these excerpts from actual want ads:

BEFORE: "I am determined to find a life partner, upscale professional with integrity,

Leslie Glazier-Werner

who've slugged through love struck to real love. After 26 years of marriage to my own frog prince, we've reached the point where we're nice and comfy with each other, warts and all. And we're not the only ones who've avoided having their marriage turn into a St. Valentine's Day Massacre...

Even conservative President Reagan was liberal in describing his true love for wife Nancy. After thirty years of marriage Reagan still sent endearing love letters to her, this one on White House stationery:

Dear Mommie, Poo Pants, 1st Lady, Nancy, (How did I get so many wives?) Never mind. I love them each and every one...I know it's not Feb. 14 but I can't stand it any longer. Happy Valentine's Day!

I love you,
Poppa, Poo Pants,

1st Guy, Ronnie.

And to my "Poo Pants"...ditto.

Award winning vocalist Joan Curto stars in 'Of Thee I Sing, Ira'

Following her recent debut at New York's Lincoln Center, After Dark Award winner Joan Curto returns by popular demand to the Chicago music scene in her SRO tribute to Ira Gershwin: Of Thee I Sing, Ira. Curto pays homage to George's brother Ira, one of the most significant contributors to the great American songbook. Perhaps not as well known as his older brother, Ira wrote lyrics with many of the great composers in an era unmatched in songwriting: Harold Arlen, Jerome Kern, Kurt Weill and of course his brother George. A showcase for Joan's musical versatility, this one woman musical presentation will feature many classics such as Fascinating Rhythm, Embraceable You, The Man That Got Away and S'Wonderful, as well as lesser known gems.

Directed by Ron Cohn, providing the musical backdrop to what the Milwaukee's Shepherd Express calls Joan's "powerhouse of a voice," is Bobby Schiff on piano and Stewart Miller on bass. The show plays for three nights only at Davenport's, 1383 N. Milwaukee Ave., Saturdays, March 4, 18 and 25. Show times are 8 p.m. and admission is $15 with a two-drink minimum. As Joan's previous engagement was sold-out, reservations are highly recommended for this limited run by calling 773-278-1830.

Joan will be a featured performer at the upcoming third Mabel Mercer Foundation Chicago Cabaret Convention on Saturday, March 10.

had been featured at many Chicago Humanities Festival ASCAP concerts and has performed at The Empire Room, The Harris Theater, Park West, Thorne Auditorium and Maxim's.

Establishing herself as one of the new premier female interpreters of the American popular songbook, Joan has played to SRO audiences at some of the nation's top venues. Most recently touring with her acclaimed debut CD May I suggest?, which was named "One of the Year's Ten Best" by After Dark Chicago Magazine, Joan has performed at New York City's The Duplex, Helen's and Judy's, The Royal Room in Palm Beach, Odette's in Pennsylvania and Milwaukee's Stackner Theater and the Sharon Lynne Wilson Center for the Performing Arts. You may visit www.joancurto.com for further information.

Tom and Chris Kastle

Lake County Folk Club presents Tom & Chris Kastle in concert

The Lake County Folk Club's 2006 Showcase Stage season brings touring folk performers Tom & Chris Kastle to its stage on Sunday night, Feb. 5 at 7 p.m. at The Greenleaf Grill, 301 Greenleaf in Park City. The musical event is open to the public and to all ages. Food and beverages are served at The Greenleaf Grill.

Tom & Chris Kastle's songs and stories reflect their lives as singers, sailors, songwriters, and storytellers. Their folk music celebrates the bounty and beauty of both the land and the sea.

"When you think of Tom & Chris Kastle, think of old sailing ships," says the Milwaukee Journal. "The two Chicagoans who have served as crew members on Great Lakes sailing vessels, have combed through old journals and records for songs and stories of the Great Lakes. They blend this material with humor into their music."

Their performance credits span the local region and the globe. While Tom & Chris Kastle have performed as close to home as the Illinois Storytelling Festival, the Fox Valley Folk Festival, and tall ship events all around the Great Lakes; their performing travels have also taken them as far away as the Shanties Festival in Krakow, Poland; the University of Trondheim in Norway; the Folk House in Kinsale, Ireland; and, the National Maritime Museum and Devonport Folk Music Club in

New Zealand.

Tom and Chris both sing and provide a wide assortment of instrumentation in their music. Tom plays guitar, octave mandolin, and concertina. Chris plays guitar, tin whistles, and percussion.

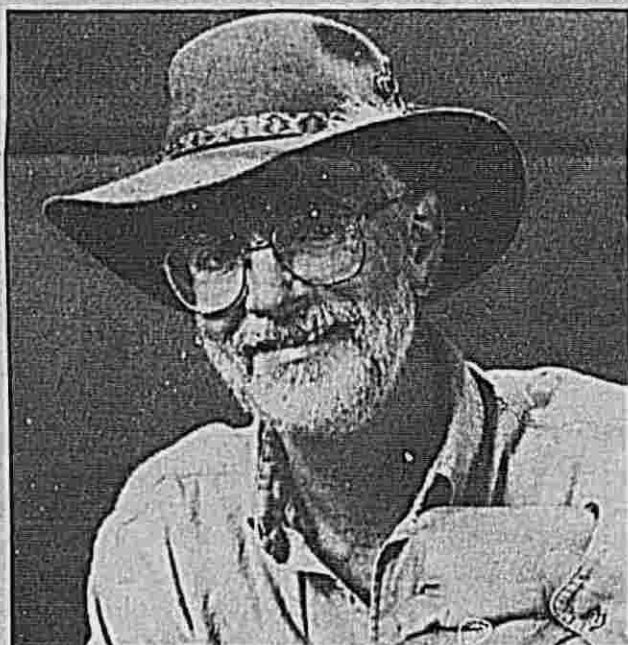

Their music catalog includes the CD releases Familiar Waters, Rivers, Me For the Inland Lakes, Strike the Bell, Burnham Harbor, and many other fine recordings.

The Chicago Tribune and SingOut! Magazine praise Tom & Chris Kastle's recordings. The Tribune says, "Their vocals are warm and inviting and their differences in style play off each other quite nicely." SingOut! Magazine describes their music as "graced with fine instrumental work and equally strong vocals...."

The Kastes are founders and directors of the Chicago Maritime Festival and host numerous Great Lakes tall ship events. Tom is a captain of Navy Pier's tall ship Windy and together the Kastes have administered programs for the Folk Alliance, Shedd Aquarium, the Forest Park Nature Center, and are founders of the folk arts organization, Common Times.

Admission is $6 adult, $5 for Lake County Folk Club members, $5 students and seniors. For additional information call The Lake County Folk Club at 847-295-7228 or visit: www.thelakecountyyfolkclub.org

Off Square Music presents Bill Staines in concert

Bill Staines

Off Square Music presents Bill Staines in concert on Feb. 18, at 8 p.m. at the Congregational Unitarian Church, 221 Dean Street in Woodstock.

For over 25-five years, Bill Staines has traveled back and forth across North America, singing his songs and delighting audiences. He has become one of the most popular singers on the folk music circuit today.

He has written hundreds of songs, to include "All God's Critter's Got a Place in the Choir", "Roseville Fair", and "River". His performances intersperse originals with traditional folk tunes and contemporary country ballads. In between them all, he weaves a magical blend of wit and gentle humor.

For Reservations or information, call Keith at 815 338-5164 or e-mail him at blueloom@sbcglobal.net

Admission is $10. Doors open at 7:30 p.m.

COOKING
BY THE BOOK

It's no secret that football tailgate cuisine doesn't usually extend much beyond the usual hot dogs, hamburgers, baked beans and potato salad, while pizza, wings and chips often seem to be standard living-room fare. Now it can be easy to score a touchdown with an innovative menu and enhance your Sunday afternoon gatherings.

Whether you opt to throw a tailgate party outside the stadium of your home team or decide to party indoors by the light of the big-screen TV, a little culinary creativity will go a long way. That's why Chef Jim Coleman recommends crowd-pleasing recipes from the "Heinz Field Cookbook."

Each recipe features some of Heinz's grilling favorites such as ketchup, grilling sauce or a premade marinade.

Teriyaki Chicken with Sticky Rice

Sushi rice

- 4 large boneless chicken breasts, sliced
- Splash of sesame seed oil
- 3 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1 bottle EZ Marinader Teriyaki

Toasted sesame seeds

- 2 packages frozen chopped broccoli
- 1 large onion, sliced chunky
- nonstick cooking spray
- Salt and pepper to taste

Cook 2 cups rice. Cook sliced chicken in a splash of sesame seed oil and 3 tablespoons vegetable oil. Drain chicken, then put it back in the skillet. Add marinade to the chicken. Sprinkle 3 tablespoons of sesame seeds on chicken. In a separate pot, cook broccoli. In a separate skillet, spray nonstick cooking spray and lightly sauté onions with salt and pepper. In individual serving bowls, place rice, then broccoli, onion and chicken. Spoon sauce over top, garnish with cashews and serve immediately.

Makes 4 servings

Barbecued Chicken Quesadilla with Avocado Salsa

- 1 cup Jack Daniel's(r) Original No. 7 Recipe(tm) Barbecue Sauce
- 2 chicken breasts-boneless and skinless
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 3 6-inch flour tortillas
- 1/4 cup grated Monterey Jack cheese
- 1/4 cup grated white cheddar cheese

Avocado salsa:

- 1 ripe avocado-coarsely chopped
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped red onion
- 1 tablespoon minced jalapeno
- 2 tablespoons fresh lime juice
- Salt and pepper to taste

Prepare Jack Daniel's Barbecue Sauce to medium-high heat. Brush the chicken with the barbecue sauce and season to taste with salt and pepper. Grill the chicken for about 4 minutes per side or until done. When the chicken is cool enough to handle, slice it and set it aside. Place 2 tortillas on an ungreased baking sheet. Spread 1/2 of the cheeses and the chicken on each tortilla and season to taste with salt and pepper. Stack the 2 layers, cover with the remaining tortilla. Brush the tortillas lightly with olive oil. Grill for 3 minutes on each side or until the tortillas are crisp and the cheese is melted. Cut into quarters and serve hot, garnished with the avocado salsa.

To make the salsa:

Combine all of the avocado salsa ingredients together in a bowl and season with salt and pepper.

Serves: 4 as an appetizer

TIP: Always add lemon or lime juice to any recipe with avocado. This will help prevent the avocado from turning brown in the recipe.

Order up! Pulled Pork with Root Beer BBQ Sauce-a great classic for sports fans

An easy way to score big with sports fans is to present them with a tailgating feast. From football season to spring training-and every sporting event in between-a new cookbook by Heinz helps you do just that. Called "Touchdowns to Tailgating" ($9.95, available at most major outlets), the book is filled with fun facts about football, brain-teasers and 57 delicious recipes. Here's an unusual recipe to delight sports fans:

Pulled Pork With Root Beer BBQ Sauce

- 1 8-pound pork shoulder
- Salt and pepper
- 2 garlic cloves, separated and peeled

Root beer BBQ sauce:

Reduce 1 2-liter bottle root beer to 1 cup

- 1 1/2 cups Heinz Apple Cider Vinegar
- 1/2 cup Heinz Ketchup
- 1/2 cup Heinz Yellow Mustard
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire Sauce
- 1 tablespoon Tabasco
- 1 teaspoon kosher salt
- 1 teaspoon black pepper

To finish sauce:

2 tablespoons cold, unsalted butter

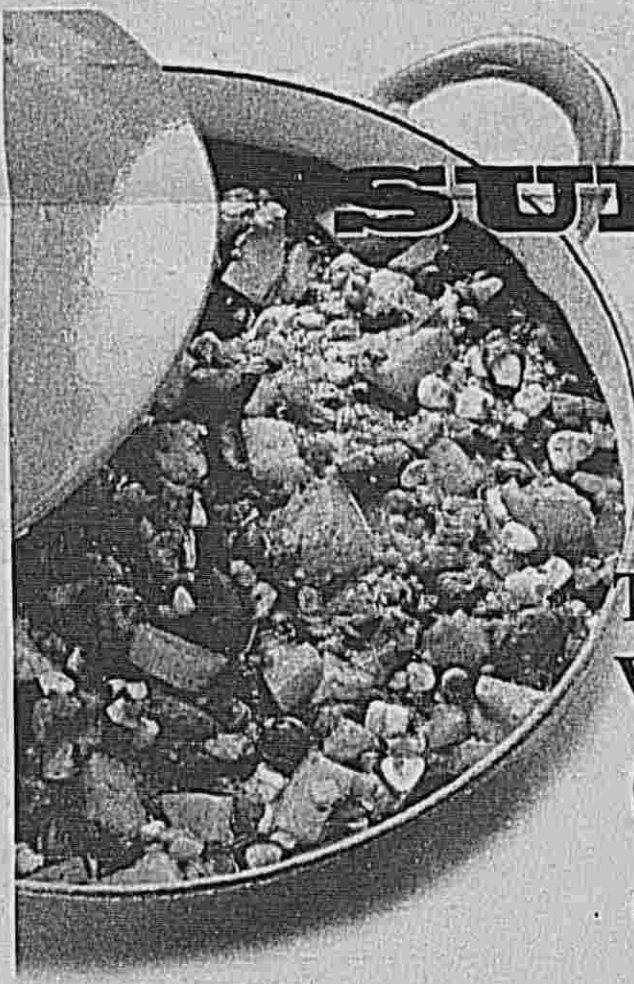

Preheat oven to 225 degrees. Place the pork shoulder, fat side up, in large roasting pan and season well with salt and pepper to taste. Toss 2 heads of garlic cloves that have been peeled, but leave cloves whole around the pork. Cover well with heavy-duty aluminum foil. Slow-cook in the oven until tender and falling apart, and the internal temperature reaches 160 degrees. This should take about 6 to 8 hours. Remove from oven and let pork rest for 20 to 30 minutes. With two forks, pull apart meat into small chunks. Toss with the root beer BBQ sauce and serve. Root beer BBQ sauce: Reduce the root beer to 1 cup over medium heat in a large saucepan-this takes about 1 hour. Add the vinegar, ketchup, mustard, lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce, Tabasco, salt, and pepper. Stir well and simmer for 20 minutes. Finish the sauce by whisking in the cold butter for extra body and flavor. Serves: 6-8

TIP: Never use diet root beer in this recipe!

Tangy Sports Man Mushrooms

- 2 pounds large mushrooms (about 18-20)
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 1/4 cup Ore-Ida Chopped Onions
- 1/2 pound ground pork sausage
- 1 (3-ounce) package cream cheese, softened
- 2/3 cup Jack Daniel's Original No. 7 Barbecue Recipe Sauce
- 1/4 cup Heinz 57 Steak Sauce
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Preheat oven to 350°F. Remove stems from the mushrooms, leaving caps intact; chop the stems; set aside. In a medium skillet, melt the butter; lightly brush the mushroom caps with some of the melted butter. In the remaining butter, over medium heat, cook and stir the chopped mushroom stems, onions and sausage until fully cooked. Mix the cream cheese, barbecue sauce and steak sauce into the sausage mixture. Heat, stirring constantly, until cream cheese is melted. Spoon the warm sausage mixture into the mushroom caps. Arrange in a shallow baking pan; sprinkle with Parmesan cheese; bake 8 to 12 minutes. Yield: 18 - 20 appetizers

Oh-So-Sweet SUPER SUNDAY CHILI PARTY

Traditional Texas, Cincinnati Turkey and Vegetarian Chili score big with football fans

Chili originated as a way to make great-tasting, tough cuts of meat tender, so it's easy on the budget and tastes even better if made ahead. Just about the only thing chili fanciers agree on is that chili originated in Texas, not Mexico. For fresh, juicy crunch, top chili with chopped sweet onions. To sop up those delicious juices, serve with warm cornbread.

Fire up a big "bowl of red" on Super Sunday with zesty Sweet onions, in peak season just in time for the big game — no tickets needed for this chili-lovers feast.

Texas Beef Chili

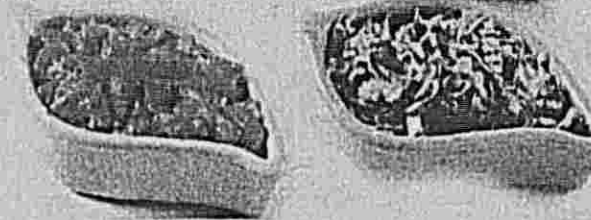

Serves 8

- 8 dried ancho chiles, trimmed and seeded
- 3 pounds ground beef, preferably coarse-ground chuck
- 1/4 cup canola oil, divided
- 1 Sweet onion, diced
- 1 tablespoon chopped garlic
- 2 tablespoons sweet paprika
- 1 tablespoon ground cumin
- 1 tablespoon oregano
- 1 teaspoon ground allspice
- 2 (15-ounce) cans pinto beans
- Salt to taste
- Chopped colorful bell peppers for garnish

Soak dried chiles in 1 quart warm water to soften about 15 minutes. In blender, puree chiles with their liquid. In large Dutch oven over medium-high heat, heat half of oil and brown beef. Remove and reserve.

Add remaining oil to same pan, and lightly brown onion and garlic. Stir in paprika, cumin, oregano and allspice. Add chile puree, beef, beans and salt to taste, and bring to boil. Cover and simmer 1 hour, or until chili is rich and concentrated. Offer chopped bell peppers to garnish.

Chef's Tip: One secret to great chili is to use coarsely ground beef. Ask the butcher to coarse-grind beef chuck. Dried chile anchos can be found in the Mexican section of supermarkets.

Vegetarian Chili

Serves 8

- 2 tablespoons canola oil
- 1 Sweet onion, chopped
- 3 carrots, diced
- 1 tablespoon chopped garlic
- 1 (28-ounce) can chopped tomatoes
- 1 butternut squash, peeled and diced (or 1-pound package diced butternut)
- 1 small celeriac (celery root), peeled and diced
- 1 (1-pound) bag frozen corn
- 2 (15-ounce) cans dark red kidney beans
- 2 (15-ounce) cans black beans
- Salt to taste
- 1/4 cup chili powder
- 2 chipotle chiles in adobo, chopped

Heat oil in large Dutch oven.

Add onions, carrots and garlic and cook over medium heat 5 minutes, until crisp-tender. Add tomatoes, butternut squash and celery root and bring to boil. Cover and simmer 20 minutes.

Stir in remaining ingredients, bring to boil, reduce heat and simmer 20 minutes, stirring occasionally, until chili has thickened.

Five-Way Cincinnati-Style Turkey Chili

Serves 8

- 1/4 cup canola oil, divided
- 3 pounds ground turkey (dark meat preferred for moistness)
- 1 Sweet onion, chopped
- 2 teaspoons chopped garlic
- 2 tablespoons cider vinegar
- 1 (12-ounce) can tomato paste, diluted in 1 quart water
- 2 tablespoons chile powder
- 1 tablespoon cinnamon
- 4 bay leaves
- 1/2 teaspoon allspice
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- Salt and black pepper to taste
- 1 pound spaghetti

Garnishes:

- 1 (15-ounce) can dark red kidney beans, rinsed, drained and heated
- 1/2 pound sharp cheddar, shredded

In large Dutch oven over medium-high heat, heat half of oil and brown turkey. Remove and reserve.

Add remaining oil to same pot, and lightly brown onion and garlic. Stir in remaining ingredients, seasoning to taste with salt and pepper, and bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer 45 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Bring large pot of salted water to boil. Add spaghetti and cook until "al dente." Drain well and place in large serving bowl. Top with chili (discarding bay leaves).

Serve with beans, cheese and onions as garnishes.

A cat's cries fall on deaf ears

A woman called me saying a cat was hanging around her neighborhood in Grayslake for the past week. The entire neighborhood was talking about the cat and even brought up the situation at their homeowners association meeting. She said the cat "kept trying to get into everyone's houses and garages."

As I was talking with her I kept hearing this cat meowing frantically in the background from outside her front door. "If you call Animal Control it is a possibility he will be put to sleep." I could still hear the meowing and my heart hurt more with each passing second. "Won't anyone take this cat in, even temporarily?" I asked in frustration. She said no.

I couldn't stand it anymore, "I'll be right over." I called a fellow volunteer, Rhiannon, and we headed out. I couldn't believe NOBODY would open his or her home to him, even temporarily. I pulled into the woman's driveway and we got out.

The woman came out of her home. "He's at the neighbors in a box with milk. Rhiannon approached the tabby cat and scooped him up and I led the way to the van where we placed him in a cat carrier and closed the door.

What the heck was I going to do with this cat? I had nowhere to take him and no open foster homes. Ugh! The cat was very skinny so I decided the first order of business was to call Care Animal Hospital, our regular vet, and get him in for an exam. At least that would buy me some time until I could find a foster home. While driving to the vet I called Danny and Laura, a volunteer foster family, who said no. I tried a few more people without luck.

The animal hospital agreed to keep the cat overnight and neuter him the next morning. I spent a little while with the cat before I left and assured him that he would never be alone again.

At my office I sent out a plea via e-mail for someone to foster the cat. I included a photo of the cat. Shortly I got a call from Danny. He said that he and Laura are, "suckers for a cute face" and would foster the cat. Yes! I thought. How wonderful!

Danny and Laura picked up the cat they later named Marvin. I placed Marvin in their arms. Tired from a tough couple of weeks but so very grateful for the help, Marvin curled up contently in Danny's arms. An hour later Marvin was in a comfy bedroom with two people who stepped up and said I care.

Designed for You has something for everyone

Designed For You, located in Round Lake Beach, is a customized gift basket business owned and operated by owner and master designer Janel Scott-Valente. The company logo and mentality is to create a lasting impression, no matter the occasion.

The gift baskets are created on an individual and completely customized basis. Following a brief yet thorough free consultation, the gift baskets are then designed based on the information provided about the recipient. Whether the recipient is an employer or employee or someone whom one doesn't know on a personal level or someone one knows very intimately, the result is the same, a lasting impression on their part as well as the giver.

They are located in Round Lake Beach, but have no limits on how far or wide they will provide service. There is a shipping charge included, if applicable. They are a small business in the community but can reach a recipient far and wide.

The company was started from a dream of Janel so that she could provide business with a personal touch rarely found in many of today's businesses, such as in using hand-written gift cards and thank you notes in calligraphy, for example. Janel has, for the last ten years, provided her work on a personal level and now feels the need to follow her dream more closely and do what she loves best, create and design gift baskets that will make an unforgettable impression.

Her designs are carefully and artistically thought out via the information provided from the customer. There are no duplicates created, no two are alike.

Design For You uses the finest materials available to create gift baskets that speak volumes about the recipient and the thoughtfulness of the giver. The baskets are not designed with cookie tins, plastic wine glasses and crinkled grass paper, but with quality products, fabrics, ribbons, and any thing else that would make a gift basket unique, such as a breakfast tray or hat box as a base for the basket.

For a truly unforgettable gift giving experience, contact them at 847-721-8977 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Visa, MasterCard, personal checks are accepted. A $5 gift card is offered on first order.

They also make special concession for those serving with the military and their families.

To view Janel's portfolio in person, call 847-721-8977 or she can e-mail you samples of her work. Simply contact her at inthetomhouse@hotmail.com.

opening this week

Something New: A romantic comedy about love as an adventure, embarked upon by Kenya Denise McQueen (Sanaa Lathan of "Love and Basketball"). A beautiful LA career woman, Kenya works as senior manager at a prestigious accounting firm, and is on the verge of making partner. But she has yet to find her own partner and a fulfilling personal life. After another Valentine's Day spent working late, Kenya agrees to a blind date with Brian Kelly (Simon Baker), a sexy and free-spirited landscape architect that turns out to be not exactly what she'd pictured for herself. But she does need the yard of her new house fixed up. Kenya's socially prominent parents Joyce and Edmond (Alfre Woodard and Earl Billings) and womanizing younger brother Nelson (Donald Faison) also voice their own opinions. But it's when her perfect match, Mark (Blair Underwood), enters the picture that Kenya is truly thrown into confusion. Ultimately, Kenya has to decide for herself and follow her heart - no matter where it takes her. (PG-13)

takes an unflinching look at racism and despair in a small Texas-Mexico border town.

Mike and Lou Ann (Barry Pepper and January Jones) are a young married couple who've moved from Ohio to work in this border town. She stays at home with nothing to do in a funky trailer park while he is an immigration officer with major anger management issues. He's physically abusive to the illegals and emotionally distant from his wife.

The wife of the owner of the local greasy spoon, Rachel (Melissa Leo) will not leave her short order cook husband because he is literally her meal ticket. Her sexual desires cause her to sleep with Sheriff Belmont (Dwight Yoakam) on certain days and Pete on others. After Lou Ann and Rachel become friends, they rendezvous in a local motel with Melquiades and Pete. Rachel has no hesitation and Lou Ann is a fast learner.

The film has the cinematic style and social tone of the John Sayles masterpiece "Lone Star," as it shares points of view on how North Americans see Mexicans and vice versa. With the immigration issue on the US southern border, the film probably hits close to home on what's really going on. (R)

Lena Headley and Matthew Goode

In London, Rachel (Piper Perabo) is on the way to her wedding to marry Heck (Matthew Goode of "Match Point"). In the limo her father Ned (Anthony Head) expresses his concerns about his own long-term marriage. While you see the doubt in her eyes, Rachel proceeds as planned. She loves Heck but at the reception she shares a surprising love at first sight moment with the florist, a woman named Luce (Lena Headley of "The Brothers Grimm").

As Rachel and Luce come to terms with their feelings, Heck knows that something is wrong with his marriage. Nobody wants to do anything immoral, but when the heart calls, what can one do? Somewhere there is a line between passion and common sense.

Some might say this is the female version of "Brokeback Mountain." Its theme is similar in that it's a love story about following your heart. However, this is a romantic comedy along the lines of "Lovely and Amazing" and the other is serious drama. The press release information is deceptive in that you think that Rachel will fall for a guy while at the altar ready to marry Heck. While this is a spoiler of sorts, we think this is so fundamental to the story that one should know that before they decide to see the film.

"Imagine Me and You" begins with an uneven attempt at comedy and what is happening is not that funny. Once Luce and Rachel begin to come to grips with the issue at hand, the film becomes much better. It appears the studio is still trying to trade off of Piper's image from "Coyote Ugly." That's too bad as Piper turns in a career enhancing performance that's somewhat discounted because of unclear expectations of the film. This is a decent film that may be sabotaged by misguided advertising.

Experience an extraordinary exhibition

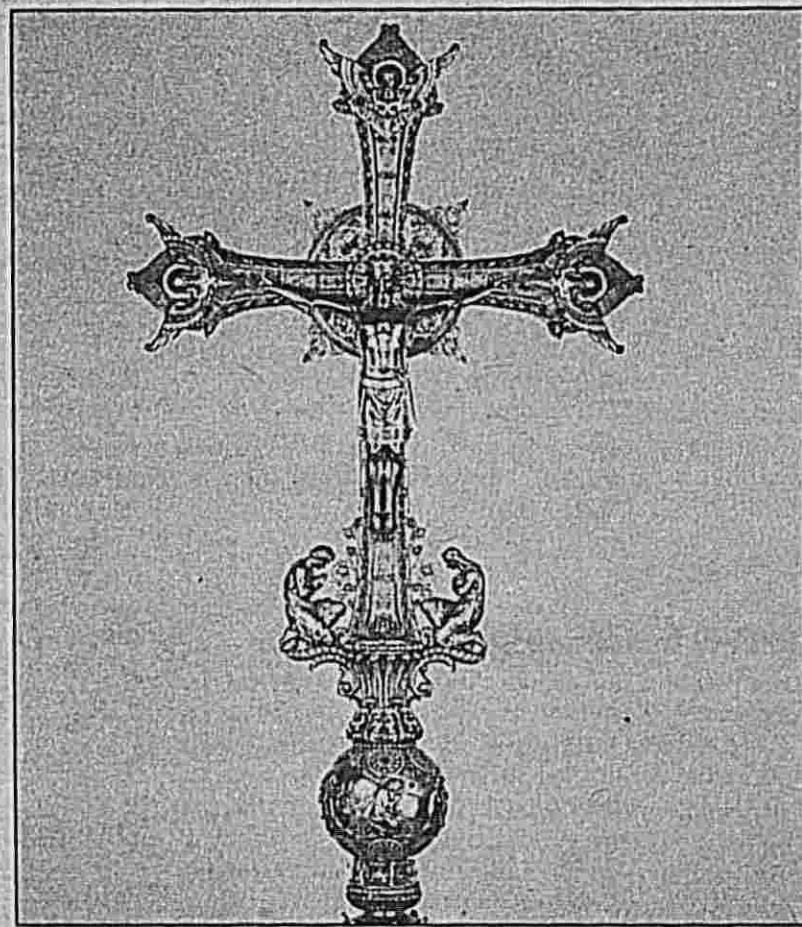

Experience the powerful history and exquisite beauty of Saint Peter and the Vatican: The Legacy of the Popes presented by the Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation at the Milwaukee Public Museum showing Feb. 4 through May 7. Witness more than 300 decorative art pieces and historical objects, many never before publicly displayed.

Trace 2,000 years of church leadership through rare documents, liturgical objects and ceremonial vestments from the Vatican Museums. See historical letters and extraordinary artwork documenting the Vatican's impact on world history and missionary work. Works by Bernini, Giotto, Canova and others provide a fascinating insight into Vatican history. Follow the 176-year construction of Saint Peter's Basilica and walk through a re-creation of the primitive scaffolding Michelangelo used to work on the paintings of the Sistine Chapel ceiling.

Witness extraordinary art, dating back to the third century

and follow the fascinating history of one of the world's most influential institutions. The blend of art, culture and history will awe visitors of all faiths. Highlights include a fifth century fresco of Saint Peter; the Mandylion of Edessa, a fifth century linen painting of the face of Jesus; the original ring of Saint Pius X; the first known map of Australia; a Buddhist devotional cloth or Thangka, presented by the Dalai Lama to Pope John Paul II; and a crucifix-adorned silver pastoral staff of Pope Paul VI and Pope John Paul II. See several ceremonial items from the recent election of Pope Benedict XVI and end your visit by touching a bronze cast of the late Pope John Paul II's hand.

All tickets are timed entry. Advance tickets are strongly recommended. Price includes general Museum and exhibition admission: adults (16-61), $18.50; senior (62+) $17.50; child (3-15), $11.50. Order tickets online at www/mpm.edu or call 414-278-2728 or 888-700-9069.

School offers MBA program in Grayslake

By Kathy Gresey
Staff Reporter

Lake Forest Graduate School of Management (LFGSM) is pleased to announce that a Lake Forest MBA can now be earned in Grayslake, thanks to a progressive arrangement with Lake Forest

Hospital. In April of 2006, LFGSM will be offering its MBA program on Saturday mornings in a state-of-the-art classroom at Lake Forest Hospital's Outpatient and Acute Care Center in Grayslake.

"Today's business professionals face busy careers and growing families. However, they still want to advance their careers by gaining the skills and knowledge a strong reputable MBA program provides," said LFGSM's President and CEO John Popoli. "As the fastest growing district in Lake County, the Grayslake area has seen rapid growth in the number of business professionals facing these challenges. In fact, 250 of our current Lake Forest and Schaumburg campus students live in the Grayslake area," Popoli said. "Now, thanks to our hosts at Lake Forest Hospital, Grayslake-area residents entering our program can pursue their Lake Forest MBA close to home on Saturdays, and still be home in time for lunch with their families."

Aside from seeing the understated Lake Forest Hospital signs outside the building (on Route 120 between Route 45 and Route 83), most of the students attending Lake Forest MBA classes on Saturday mornings won't even know that they are in an outpatient and acute care center...which is precisely how Lake Forest Hospital designed it.

"We're trying to break down the barriers of what most people think of when they go to the doctor or to get a CAT scan," said Jim Killian, vice president of Lake Forest Hospital. "From the minute people walk in the door, they will see that we are not like any other medical facility they have experienced."

Since its grand opening in April of 2004 to its ever-increasing use by civic and business networking groups, Lake Forest Hospital's Grayslake facility has been unlike any other on the North Shore.

"As a not-for-profit organization, we need to establish and maintain business relationships for the betterment of the community," Killian said. "So, when Lake Forest Graduate School of Management approached us about utilizing our multi-purpose meeting room as an on-site classroom, we felt that it would be a win-win proposition for ourselves and our neighbors in the community."

Just like their peers at the Lake Forest, Chicago and Schaumburg campuses, students earning their Lake Forest MBA at Lake Forest Hospital in Grayslake will "Learn From Experience" from LFGSM's 100 percent practitioner faculty. LFGSM instructors are successful business leaders, ranging from positions as key executives in Fortune 500 companies to innovative entrepreneurs.

"The Lake Forest MBA is based on a practical business education model that combines solid business theory with real-world application," Popoli said. "Plus, you benefit from personal access to the experience and expertise of the industry leaders who teach the classes, as well as your fellow students who are business professionals with an average of 13 years of professional experience."

Classes will be held on Saturday mornings from 8 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. starting April 15. For more information and to find out how you can enroll to achieve your Lake Forest MBA at Lake Forest Hospital in Grayslake, visit www.LakeForestMBA.edu/Grayslake or contact Amy Gregozeski, admissions manager at 847.574.5180 or agregozeski@lfgsm.edu.

Lough named Executive Editor of Weekly and Niche Publications

A newspaper veteran with more than 30 years' experience in community journalism has been named Executive Editor of Weekly and Niche Publications for NorthWest News Group, announced by Chris Krug, Group Editor and Vice President.

In this new role, Larry will oversee daily editorial operations of NorthWest News Group weeklies in Grayslake and Sycamore, and also the newly acquired bilingual publication, El Conquistador.

"Because of Lake County's growth and the competitive media environment, our Grayslake's office is an exciting place for a journalist to be," Lough said. "I'm happy to be working with a talented staff as we'll strive to do an even better job of serving the needs and wants of Lakeland's readers."

"We are fortunate to have a leader with Larry's experience and ability on our team," Krug said.

"Lakeland already is recognized as one of the best weekly newspapers in the state, and we fully expect Larry's guiding hand to make us even better."

He joined NorthWest News Group in 2003 when he became managing editor of training and development for the Northwest Herald in Crystal Lake. Before that, Lough was the editor of The Star Press in Muncie, Ind., where he spent most of his career.

While in Indiana, Lough was a leader of Freedom of Information Editors. He was honored with the Distinguished Service Award from the Hoosier State Press Association and the Indiana Journalism Award from Ball State University in Muncie, where he was an adjunct professor of journalism for 17 years.

Lough is 56 years old and has been married to his wife, Jane, for 32 years. They have a 29-year-old son and a 20-year-old daughter.

Bartels withdraws from 8th District race

By Nate Legue

nlegue@nwnewsgr.com

The willingness of several Republicans to pour immense personal resources into their campaigns for the 8th Congressional District nomination has forced one candidate to call it quits.

Teresa Bartels, a Mundelein businesswoman who once ran the local Manpower franchise, announced Tuesday that she would withdraw from the March 21 GOP primary rather than put more of her own cash into the race.

Bartels

"While I have invested some personal money in my campaign, I do not feel it is practical to compete with the $1 million or more some of the other candidates are willing to spend," Bartels said in a written withdrawal statement.

Bartels' exit from the crowded field seven weeks before the election highlights the Republicans' fundraising plight in this primary. With seven candidates who were vying for GOP donations, most have had to put significant personal wealth behind their bids to challenge U.S. Rep. Melissa Bean, the freshman Democrat with nearly

The following is a statement by Teresa Bartels:

"While I believed that I was the best candidate to defeat Melissa Bean, I know that Kathy Salvi is the only other candidate who can defeat her. Kathy's commitment to reducing taxes and spending, to winning the war on terror and her commitment to the conservative values of Illinois families, make her an outstanding candidate - one that I am proud to endorse."

This race was never about me—I ran because I wanted the Party to have the strongest candidate to take back this seat for the Republican Party in November—and the strongest candidate for our Party is Kathy Salvi.

Chuck and I and the entire Bartels family wish Kathy and her family all of God's blessings in the coming weeks and months. And we all look forward to working hard every day to help Kathy on to victory against Melissa Bean in November."

Fundraising gets a lift

By Esther Cepeda

Special to Lakeland Media

After several difficult years following the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks, donations to America's charities broke records with the outpouring of money to provide relief to tsunami victims and, most recently, to the victims of Hurricane Katrina. Despite the 2005 increase in charitable donations, small non-profit groups are still facing exceptional challenges. Still, analysts predict the economy to grow at a 3 percent pace in 2006, and many nonprofit groups are feeling the itch to become more ambitious in their fundraising efforts.

Non-profit groups all over the northern suburbs will benefit from a new partnership between the College of Lake County and the Donors Forum of Chicago. The opening of the Lake County Philanthropy Center brings much needed fundraising and management resources to Lake County.

"We started plans to partner with CLC last year. Our market research showed that there are approximately 1,900 non-profit organizations in Lake County, making it the third largest concentration of non-profits in the state," said Jelene Britten, Communications Manager for the Donors Forum of Chicago.

The Lake County Philanthropy Center will offer guides on proposal writing and access to grant-maker databases such as "Illinois Funding Source" and "Wealth Engine" to assist in fundraising efforts. Books and periodicals on nonprofit management, grant writing and how to find people to invest in worthy causes are also available.

Librarians will be on hand to assist patrons with their research and free training programs will be offered periodically by the Donors Forum to help nonprofit staff and volunteers learn how to use the resources to pursue grant opportunities.

the Philanthropy Center a useful tool for local organizations seeking to fund their programs.

"For me, it's a convenience issue," said Kay Severns, Director of Development for Township District 114 Highland Park/Deerfield. "I went down to the city's facility once but now that it's in Lake County, I'll go more often."

"Having it there gets me in the groove of going there for resources to fund the special projects that our kids wouldn't otherwise be able to do. I can just go to the computer and look, is there a grant for x,y, or z?"

In addition to serving social service centers such as Mano-a-Mano, Christian Outreach of Lutherans, and a Safe Place, The Lake County Philanthropy Center is also open to the public during regular CLC library hours, including evenings and weekends.

"The Lake County Philanthropy Center will provide a wealth of information to help suburban nonprofits run their organizations and improve their effectiveness," said Claudette Baker, vice president of library and nonprofit services at the Donors Forum.

Connie Bakker, dean of the Learning Resource Center at the College of Lake County added, "The Philanthropy Center will enrich the College of Lake County and help us better serve the local nonprofit community."

$1.4 million in her campaign bank account.

Former investment banker David McSweeney lent $664,000 to his campaign last quarter, bringing his self-funding debt to just shy of $1 million.

McSweeney's move triggered the so-called "millionaire's amendment," a campaign-finance rule that triples the fundraising limits for his primary opponents.

"I want to run a first-rate campaign, so I'm willing to invest in it," McSweeney said.

Although McSweeney indicated early on that he would spend his own money to win, several other candidates have followed suit. In fact, campaign coffers for McSweeney, Mundelein lawyer Kathy Salvi, Lake Villa state Rep. Robert Churchill, and Gurnee consultant Ken Arnold all would be in the red without substantial personal loans, according to Federal Election Commission filings.

In the meantime, Bean's fundraising strength dwarfs her would-be opponents. She raised more in contributions — $338,616 from individuals and political action committees — than all the Republicans combined.

With Bean's coffers brimming after raising $1.8 million in 2005, Bean's campaign came out swinging this week and argued that despite the race's national prominence, even Republican leaders admitted that she would be difficult to unseat this year.

"Remember, I beat the longest-serving Republican in Congress on $1.6 million," Bean said.

Congressional Quarterly, a nonpartisan political journal, ranked the race a Democratic-leaning one because of Bean's robust fundraising and the lack of a clear Republican front-runner, said Greg Giroux, senior writer.

But Cook Political Report, another Washington horse-race guide to congressional elections, still calls the race a toss-up.

"You have a freshman Democrat in a Republican-leaning seat," said Amy Walter, senior analyst for the report. "She's at the height of her vulnerability. At the same time, the political climate is not working against her."

AROUND THE COUNTY

Clerk plans special touches for Valentines day weddings

"It may not be as dramatic as Tina and Tony's Wedding," county Clerk Willard Helander said, "but couples planning on being married at the Lake County courthouse complex on Feb. 14, 2006 will enjoy a special day." The first couple married on Valentine's Day will receive a box of chocolates and have their picture taken for the Clerk's website and/or local newspapers. Every couple married that day will receive the traditional long-stemmed flower, and will have the option of celebrating their vows under a brass arch entwined with flowers loaned by Pierce Florist of Waukegan.

Those planning to marry on Valentine's Day must apply in person for a license at the Lake County Clerk's office at least one day prior, for the license to be valid. Both applicants must appear in person and be 18 years of age or older. Persons 16 or 17 years of age may marry after both parents sign a consent form.

Although not a service of the County Clerk's office, local ministerial association Clergy will be available to perform ceremonies in the lobby of the County Building from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Feb. 14. Judges from the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit are also available from 2:30 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Call the County Clerk's office at 847-377-2400 during our normal business hours, Monday to Thursday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Friday 8:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m., for more information on this special day or other related questions.

Summer Youth Employment Hotline Opens Feb. 1

The Lake County Board has awarded a grant to the Workforce Development Department to continue the Summer Youth Employment Program in 2006. Qualified youth must call the summer youth employment hotline beginning Feb. 1 to add their name to the waiting list. The hotline phone number is 847-377-3443.

There are limited positions available in each community and positions will be granted on a first-come, first-serve basis. Walk-in or mailed in information will also be accepted for waiting list placement at Workforce Development, 1 N. Genesee St., Waukegan.

The 2006 Summer Youth Employment Program is open to Lake County youth ages 14 to 15 who meet the program's low-income criteria (free/reduced lunch at school qualifies) or youth ages 14 to 21 who have a documented disability.

The Lake County Board and the Workforce Development Department are committed to empowering our young leaders of tomorrow. Lake County residents interested in participating in the Summer Youth Employment Program, must call the Summer Youth Employment Hotline at 847-377-3443 beginning on Feb. 1.

Girl Scout cookie program now underway

Girls Scouts-Illinois Crossroads Council's annual Girl Scout cookie program is taking place in its 102 member communities in Lake County. Girl Scout cookies are on sale for $4 per box, and are available to order through Jan. 30, with delivery taking place Feb. 25 to March 25. All proceeds support Girl Scouting in local communities. Additional information on Girl Scout cookie sales can be obtained by telephoning: 847-573-0500.

AutoMARK-new ballot marking system

The Lake County Clerk's office has announced two important additions to the electoral process in Lake County. The ES&S AutoMARK Voting System will be available in all polling locations in Lake County for the March 2006 election. The AutoMARK is a ballot-marking system designed to provide privacy and accessibility to voters who are blind, vision-impaired, or have a disability or condition that would make it difficult or impossible to mark a ballot in the usual way. The accessible interfaces allow voters with disabilities to mark their ballot in private without being treated differently.

In addition, state law now provides early voting for any person, without reason (i.e. not required to be absent, physically disabled, etc.) beginning 22 days prior to Election Day through the Thursday before Election Day beginning with the March 21, General Primary Election.

These changes will improve accessibility in the voting process, but also change the process for reporting election results.

Four who wish to be Gov. state their cases at forum

By Steve Peterson

Staff Reporter

Illinois State Treasurer Judy Barr Topinka, Rod Gidwitz, Bill Brady and Jim Oberweis had stated their plans for an improved Illinois if they are fortunate to win the Republican nomination for governor and defeat Gov. Rod Blagojevich this November.

The local event was the four townships sponsored Republican forum at Round Lake Park District. About 170 residents attended the event, hosted by Grant, Avon, Lake Villa and Antioch Republicans.

"Like most Illinoisans, Oberweis wants to put an end to business as usual in state government. Jim's life experience makes him the right person to bring reform to Illinois," Oberweis said through a spokesman. Oberweis has stated that he will not accept any campaign contributions from companies doing business with state government. Oberweis favors rolling back state tax and fee increases, "that have hurt taxpayers and drive jobs out of Illinois."

Oberweis has had a successful career in the financial industry, becoming a nationally known business analyst. Oberweis Asset Management, run by his son, Jim, manages more than $1.7 billion in assets. The family is known for Oberweis Dairy and Ice Cream Stores, with 1,000 employees in 39 locations.

"He knows that in business and in state government, expenses should never exceed revenues," Oberweis believes in the strong core GOP values that appeal to Democrats in southern Illinois and will get them to cross-over," said Joe Wiggand, an Oberweis spokesman.

The Illinois Economic Development Commission, the Chicago Chamber of Commerce, have endorsed Gidwitz.

Gidwitz said his best endorsement was when State Sen. Steve Rauschberger (R-Elgin) dropped out of the race and accepted the role as lieutenant governor candidate. Gidwitz is the former head of the Illinois State Board of Education.

"We have to challenge the politics of the past, and give our kids and grandkids the chance to enjoy the benefits that we did," Gidwitz said.

Topinka said that, as the first GOP treasurer in 30 years, that she has brought advancement to the office's services. She pointed to programs such as Bright Star, the college savings plan, and the effort to return assets, $300 million, to Illinois citizens. Topinka is running with DuPage County State's Attorney Joe Birkett.

"People don't mind paying taxes if they think that they are getting a value for their money," Topinka said. "Gov. Blagojevich's speech of the State of The State was nothing more than a 'chicken in every pot' and programs that he has no intention of paying for. The lying has to stop. He has got to go. We don't trust them," she said.

Also present was State Sen. Bill Brady of Bloomington. He has 12 years experience in the state House of Representatives, and has run a family business in real estate and development in central Illinois for 25 years.

Brady believes in creating jobs, working to revitalize the Illinois economy, curtailing frivolous lawsuits and repealing unfair taxes and fees on business. He has been endorsed locally by Wauconda Township Republicans.

"I know how to get the job done. In 25 years in business, I have learned that you work best when you have a plan. I believe I can end the culture of corruption, eliminate the education bureaucracy, and pledge to balance the budget and say not to tax increases. I am 100 percent pro life, the Second Amendment," Brady said.

On what to do about illegal immigration in Illinois:

"It is a federal issue. We need to do a better job of public safety. If they are here, we should be making sure that they are paying taxes," Topinka said.

"We should work with the federal government to protect our borders. I'm against the guest worker program and any amnesty," Brady said.

On the impact of taxes and wages not keeping up:

"Property taxes are a terrible problem. We should reduce the taxes and fees imposed by Blagojevich. That would increase our funding by $1 million. We should work for efficiencies that we can pull together," Brady said.

On schools, Gidwitz said that funding is a real problem, since 80 percent of schools are in deficit spending.

Brady said he favors home school tax credits, with an increase in accountability in education system.

Birkett was the only lieutenant governor candidate on hand. "We are going to come together and work hard to defeat Blagojevich. I am a career public servant. It is not something that is dirty, but its image has been tarnished. I want to go back to the image of Ronald Reagan and Lincoln," Birkett said.

The Saturday forum featured candidates for state senate, state representative, county office, Congress and judge.

Law enforcement officers probe death of infant

Wauconda Police Department and Lake County Sheriff's Department are investigating the death of an infant.

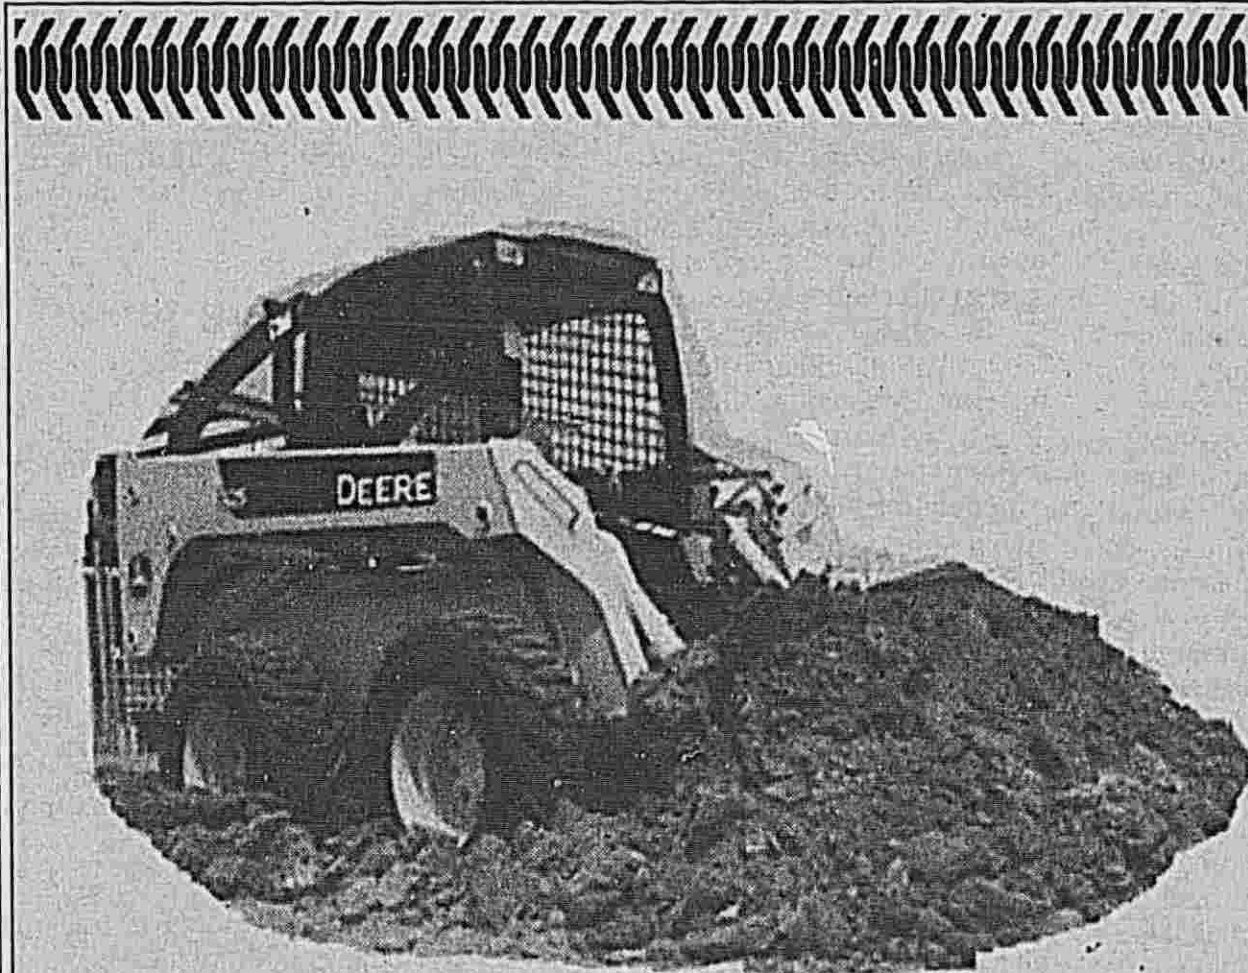

The 911 call was received by Wauconda dispatchers at 12:22 p.m. on Jan. 31. Rescue and police units were dispatched to 1204 Water Stone Circle, the home of Kimberley and Ernest Willingham about a one-half year and six-month old male child with asthma having difficulty breathing, who was unresponsive and not conscious. Wauconda Police officers arrived and initiated CPR until the arrival of Wauconda Fire Department paramedics. Paramedics then transported the child to Good Shepherd

Hospital in Barrington for treatment.

The child was pronounced deceased at Good Shepherd Hospital shortly after 1:15 p.m. The investigation of the death continues by Wauconda Police with the assistance of Lake County Sheriff's Police, Lake County Coroner and Department of Children and Family Services.

"Lake County has a protocol for sudden death investigations and we're following it," said Wauconda Deputy Chief Pat Yost in a Feb. 1 statement.

An update on the investigation was expected on Feb. 2.

Teens behind many crashes

Teenagers just old enough to drive might have a tough time proving they ought to have licenses before their 18th birthdays. But they don't have to worry about losing their case and waiting until they are 18 to get their driver's licenses.

State Rep. John D'Amico, D-Chicago, wrote the legislation to increase the minimum driving age to 18, but he knows that it has no chance of winning approval.

D'Amico wants to make a point. Teen-agers can be dangerous on the road. Driving fatalities prove it. Two teenagers in his district were killed in crashes in December.

Based on crashes of all severity, the per-mile rate for 16- to 19-year-olds is four times higher than for older drivers, according to the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety. Compared with 18- and 19-year-olds, 16-year-olds are double the risk.

In 2004, teenagers accounted for 10 percent of the population but 13 percent of motor-vehicle deaths nationally. Of 42,600 fatalities, 5,600 deaths were 13- to 19-year-olds. The leading cause of death among teenagers in 2002 was motor-vehicle crashes, with 6,000 fatalities. Homicide was second at 2,000.

In Illinois, teenagers make up 6 percent of the population but 16 percent of auto fatalities. In 2004, 1,356 people died in crashes. The math suggests that more than 200 of them were teenagers.

A big part of the problem is the age of the drivers. They can lack the maturity needed to drive. They do not have enough experience driving. They take more risks. They cannot recognize and respond to hazards, according to the Insurance Institute.

Withholding driver's licenses until age 18 is not realistic, even though driving is a privilege and not a right, and even though they are operating heavy equipment that can kill people.

But restrictions for drivers 16 and 17 years old should be toughened in Illinois. You have to be at least 15 years old to get a driving permit, but cannot drive unless accompanied by a parent or legal guardian.

Teenagers can get driver's licenses at age 16. But they have to wait six months before they can have more than one passenger. Sixteen-year-olds cannot drive after curfew, which varies by municipality, without a parent or legal guardian.

Teenagers should be allowed to drive, but only with strict conditions, starting high and decreasing with age.

Penalties for teenage drivers should be toughened. Caught speeding? Run a red light? Pay a larger fine than adults and lose your driver's license for six months. On a second offense, lose it until 18.

Because immaturity, inexperience and risk-taking are major factors in crashes and fatalities among 16- and 17-year-olds, the law might provide for a learner's permit, allowing them to drive, but only when accompanied by a parent or legal guardian.

Teenagers mature with age and become better drivers with behind-the-wheel experience. But that experience should come with Mom or Dad in the passenger seat.

Americans are wed to their cars, and the romance takes full bloom at 16. But the flowers can be fatal.

Greenspan loomed large

Alan Greenspan retired this week as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, possibly the second most powerful position in the country. And you might overlook the end of his 18 1/2-year reign in breathless anticipation for the State of the Union address by President Bush, who is the most powerful person in the country.

If you pay a mortgage, if you got a loan to buy a car, if you have a savings account or stock investments, Greenspan, 79, has loomed in the background of your life.

It is the Federal Reserve chairman who calls the shots.

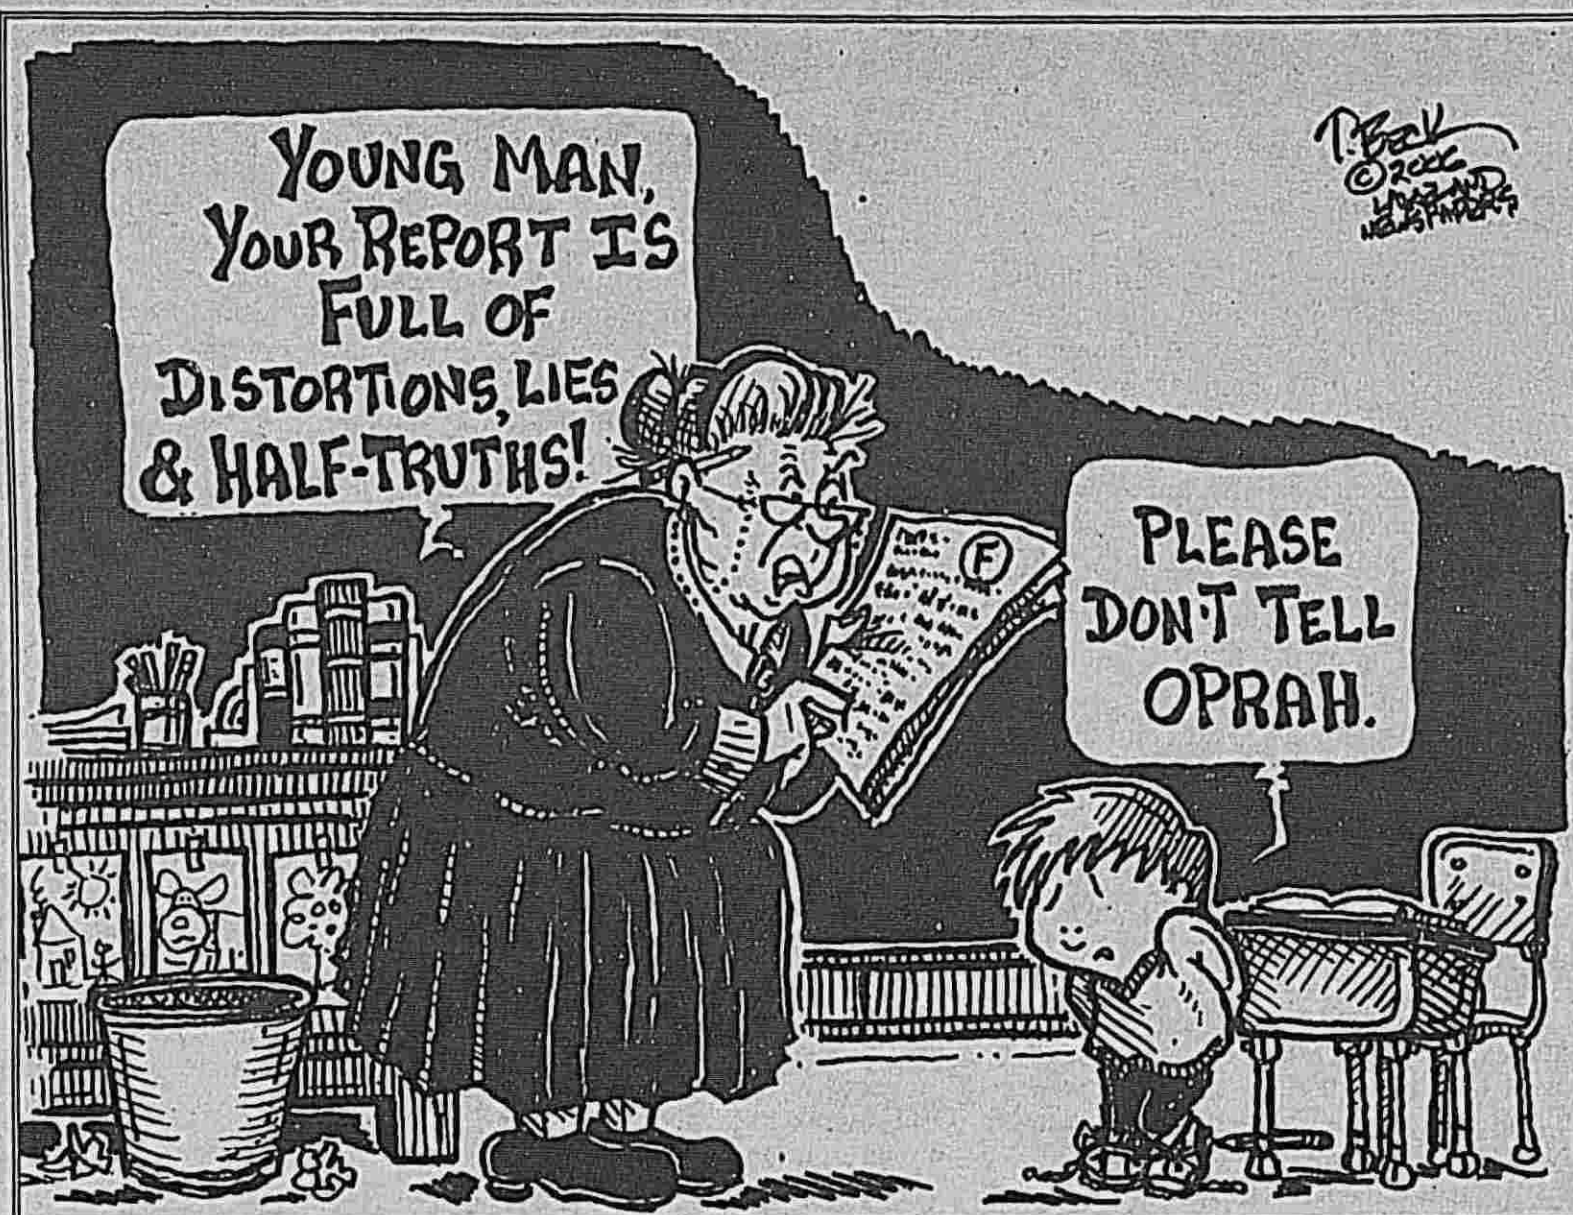

As chairman of the Federal Reserve, the second longest in its history, his legacy might be as long as that of a Supreme Court Justice.

Greenspan and the United States have had a wild ride since President George H.W. Bush appointed him chairman in 1987. President Clinton kept him, and President Bush reappointed him. Greenspan was that respected.

The stock market crashed two months after he took office. He was chairman through two mild recessions, through the longest continuous expansion of the economy, as well as the dot.com crash, the shock waves of the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks, war in Iraq, and most recently, dramatic increases in fuel prices after Hurricane Katrina.

He leaves office with a long string of interest-rate increases, and his successor, Ben Bernanke, faced with the next step in controlling inflation. He advocates setting limits on it, which Greenspan has opposed. Bernanke might see the fallout of a booming housing market and unprecedented budget deficits. Japan, China and Britain hold the biggest blocks of Treasury securities.

Greenspan's reputation today is sterling. But his place in history has yet to be set, when the long-term effects of his policies settle on the generation to come.

OFF AND RUNNING

Esther J. Cepeda

Making and taking back promises

The future is always bright with the gleaming starlight of promise, the present standing as the springboard on which one jumps into utopia. Of course, the past is easily left behind, erased from memory. Politicians count on this. It's so easy in January of an election year to throw feel-good initiatives at the wall to see what will stick. Ignore for a moment the laundry list of promises the governor's race has generated and take a look at some other modest proposals.

The Medicare Part D program has proven a logistical nightmare compounded by the ill-health and resource-poor demographics of the very people it's supposed to serve. The best course would have been for our elected officials to demand better preparation and security nets for the highest-risk recipients before the switch to this highly complex program.

Instead, Rep. Rahm Emanuel (D-Ill.) is suggesting $1,000 debit cards to help seniors pay for their medicine— an idea modeled on relief for victims of Hurricane Katrina. We all remember how well that worked.

In reaction to a cluster of tragic car crashes involving teens behind the wheel, Rep. John D'Amico (D-Chicago) is proposing pushing the age to attain a driver's permit to 17—the highest in the nation. The state Department of Transportation says that in 2004 fatalities of drivers 15 to 19 made up 8.5 percent of all driver deaths in Illinois. Compare that to the 45 percent of all Illinois traffic fatalities which were alcohol related. The age group responsible for more alcohol-related fatal crashes than any other: 21 to 34 year olds. Perhaps, just to be on the safe side, no one under the age of 40 should be on the road.

Speaking of being mature enough to handle heavy machinery, Lt. Governor Pat Quinn would like the state to buy 170,000 laptops and provide every seventh-grader in the state with one, presumably to provide students with 21st-century learning skills. At an estimated annual cost of $50 million dollars, and with no mention of funding or possible revenue source, one has to wonder when the last time Lt. Governor Quinn spent any time with a typical 13-year-old who's usually responsible for the household techno-gadgets and would simultaneously lose his or her own head if it weren't attached.

Best of all is Sen. Jeff Shoenberg's (D-Evanston) brilliant proposal to turn the dysfunctional Illinois Tollway system over to a private company. Dazzled by the prospect of generating billions to add to our state's coffers, Shoenberg is taking a cue from Gov. Mitch Daniels, Indiana plan to lease their embattled tollway system to bidders from Australia and Spain.

The latest reports show that our neighbors to the east are horrified by the idea that a faceless overseas corporation would be in charge of something as vital as our infrastructure. We transportation-strapped commuters of Lake County would be no less upset which leaves Shoenberg making Blagojevich's keno school funding scheme look like political genius.

Referendum woes

What would a March election be without the angry fist shaking that results from proposed referenda? Of the 14 Lake County ballot items asking for tax increases, 10 are for education related expenses. Fremont School District 79, who is asking approval for $22 million dollars to build a new grade school, has been forced to lease and install an additional six mobile classrooms, for a total of 17, just to accommodate their projected 2006-07 enrollment.

With energy and gas prices spiraling out of control and employment losses such as the 700 Allstate has estimated at its Northbrook offices, it's easy to bemoan the financial strain put on local families. But don't overlook the bottom line, every penny put into local school districts is reflected exponentially in property values. This translates into money well spent.

Show me the money

On the other hand, doesn't bad planning stick in your craw? Not too long ago we were reading about the glittering new state-of-the-art edifice erected at the College of Lake County campus to house the University Center. The UCLC represents 17 Illinois colleges and universities offering coursework designed to bring better and cheaper educational opportunities to the non-traditional knowledge seekers of Lake County. The University Center had several funding issues to overcome before it finally opened in late October of 2005, and is now asking the state for an additional 3.4 million dollars to cover operating costs for 2007.

Surely UCLC's brass did not share the glee the rest of us felt to watch Gov. Blagojevich's keno proposal go up in flames but why are they facing a cash crunch in what will be only their second full year of operation?

Perhaps the governing board needs to take some time to take a Finance 101 class on their way over to the new CLC Philanthropy Center to search for new revenue sources.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

No more taxes

The 0.25 per. 1,000 for six years is another burden the taxpayers of District 114 will have to pay on their homes. How about making people living in all of Fox Lake apartments having to pay some of the cost? I think we are already overburdened with taxes for all of our schools. Both Districts 114 and 124.

We lost the Forest School and Glen School so now some of us living in that area property values have gone down. We only have the train station as a selling point. The shopping center with Val's Fresh Foods is good but not a big draw for selling.

How many taxes do you think people can pay?

Gas is over $2.30 a gallon

Heat has gone nuts for keeping Warm.

Electric has gone up

Water and Sewer has gone up in Fox Lake and Lake County.

Phone has gone up.

People with Internet, that price has gone up.

Medicine cost is up.

Seniors on fixed income worry about paying all the above.

Property Taxes go up every year and we do not get that much increase in our pension and Social Security.

I think everyone going to vote in March should think long and hard about letting them give us another tax increase.

I know education is needed for our children and grandchildren but we need to look long and hard at what this will do to each of our pockets.

Less money for vacation.

Less money for birthday's and Christmas.

Less money for food and medicine if you are a senior.

I have been involved with students from around the world for several years, and I've learned that the world can be made better through this experience. Until a family has had the chance, they cannot imagine how rewarding it is to bring the world into their own home and to see the bond being created between a host family and a teenager from another part of the world.

Our family has both hosted and had the opportunity to work with students from many places around the globe. My children have learned what food from Brazil tastes like, how they play soccer in Kuwait, and shared Thanksgiving and Christmas with their honorary big brother from Germany. It's a great opportunity to experience another country without leaving your own home.

By having these students live with our families, we break down the barriers that divide people, not only across international borders, but also within our own community. Just this year, I have seen two of our students featured in the Lake County section of Lakeland Media's newspaper for their contributions to their school sports teams and to the stable owned by one of our host families. Within our group of exchange students, we have a number who are here on U.S. State Department scholarships from the nations of the former Soviet Union (e.g. Russia, Azerbaijan, Ukraine), the Middle East (yes, we even have students from Iraq and Afghanistan!), Germany, and Serbia and Montenegro (formerly Yugoslavia). What better way to participate in diplomacy and peacemaking than by providing a one-on-one experience of the American spirit of democracy and volunteerism?

I urge everyone to consider the possibility of volunteering to host an exchange student. The non-profit organization I work with is CIEE (Council on International Educational Exchange); feel free to visit our website at www.councilonexchange.org. I would be happy to talk to anyone that is interested! I can be reached at proud2b4family2@gmail.com, or contact CIEE's Midwest Regional Director, Edwina MacDonald, at 888-239-1962.

Beubien says state facing 'financial crisis'

District 52 State Rep. Mark Beaubien (R-Wauconda) announced recently at the Republican Candidate Forum he will soon be sending a mailer to every major retailer in the state to make clear he is a steadfast fiscal conservative.

"I do not want anyone putting a wedge between myself and whether or not I am a fiscal conservative," he said.

Beaubien will also highlight his sponsorship of a bill that would fill the loophole on tax caps which would exempt school district taxes levied to pay for pension and health-care costs for secretaries, janitors and bus drivers.

He will also underscore his consistent record of voting against the pension raid by Governor Blagojevich's administration.

"We are in very serious trouble," he said. "Since Rod Blagojevich took office we have gone up $7.6 billion in the general obligation fund. Under normal business rules, in order to pay down the budget in the state each person would have to contribute $1,800. This state is headed for disaster in pensions and we are facing a severe financial crisis."

When asked about transportation issues in Lake County, Beaubien pointed to state-wide sentiment that, "Lake County can't agree on their own transportation needs."

He mentioned he is pleased about the consensus on the proposed Route 120 bypass and declared, "The Rt. 53 extension is off the table and won't be discussed for many, many years."

Helander discusses early voting program

Lake County Clerk Willard Rooks Helander took the opportunity to tout new voting programs at the Republican Candidate Forum.

Disabled voters will now have the opportunity to cast their ballots unassisted. Audio ballots and specialized keypads will be available to enable those with visual or auditory limitations to cast their vote in private.

In regard to the new early voting program, Helander expressed concern over not being able to get ballots printed due to the fight over judicial seats for the district. The Illinois House recently voted to eliminate two of the three previously proposed new judge positions for the Lake County Circuit Court.

"Although we don't get involved in the politics going on down in Springfield, it certainly impacts us," she said. "We know that our young people serving overseas, whether they're in the military or in the Peace Corps, they can have their ballots jeopardized by the strong arm politics of trying to take control of the judiciary seats for Lake County. We hope that we can get a ballot certified no longer than about two weeks late."

Batiste to speak at public meeting

Residents will have the chance to meet the newly-appointed superintendent of Waukegan Community Unit School District 60 Feb. 8, when the Community Organizing for School Leadership Accountability (COSLA) hosts a public meeting where Donaldo Batiste will be featured as a guest speaker.

The District 60 Board of Education voted 5-2 at its Dec. 13 meeting to name Batiste the replacement for outgoing Superintendent Richard Olson, who will retire at the end of the 2005-06 school year.

COSLA, a local grassroots organization consisting of parents and other residents of District 60, invited Batiste to meet with the group to convey his ideas on the direction of Waukegan's public schools.

Batiste was named to his new post with some controversy in December, as board member June Maguire and Vice President William Anderson both voted against the hire.

Maguire said before her vote that she had not been informed that the item was on the agenda until two hours before the meeting, adding that she had wanted a search committee to interview candidates before an offer was made. Anderson added that he felt Batiste was qualified for the job, but said he had wanted more discourse with members of the community before selecting a new superintendent.

While Anderson and Maguire expressed concerns about Batiste's hire, Olson endorsed the move along with the rest of the board.

Area parks receive state grants

Three 31st District parks have been earmarked to receive state grants totaling more than $1 million.

Round Lake Beach will receive $400,000 for Phase Two of its park development; Alleghany Park in Grayslake will receive $400,000 for development; and Geo-Karis Park in Beach Park will receive $211,300.

"I'm very happy to hear that (Gov. Rod Blagojevich) has honored my request to provide additional funding for these park areas," said State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion). "Parks are very important to Illinois, providing recreational facilities for the surrounding communities, as well as protecting the region's natural environment. I thank the governor for releasing these funds and supporting the Lake County park districts."

When you need a dentist you don't go to a podiatrist just because they both are doctors. If you have a broken water pipe in your home and need a plumber, you don't call an electrician just because they are both tradesmen. If you come home to find a burglar in your house and need a cop, you don't call a lawyer because they are officers of the court.

I mention this because there are two men seeking the Democratic nomination for Lake County Sheriff in the upcoming March 21 primary; one is a cop and the other is a lawyer. The cop, Lawrence Oliver, is a current deputy of the Lake County Sheriff's Department and has been for the last 26 years. The lawyer has been in practice since 1992 and never has been a cop.

Oliver is a distinguished and highly respected officer with the Lake County Sheriff's Department. One of his specialties is training other cops to protect themselves, and the public, from the "bad guys." Oliver is the only Democratic candidate for Sheriff who has the training, the administrative and leadership experience, along with the respect of his fellow officers, which are all necessary to be Lake County Sheriff.

Voting for a lawyer with no law enforcement experience makes as much sense as when our current sheriff put the under-sheriff (with not one iota of experience as a construction contractor) in charge of building the multi-million dollar Lake County Jail expansion (which was shut down for months, is over a year behind schedule and over budget). The decision to put the under-sheriff in charge of constructing a jail makes even less sense than voting for a lawyer - who has no law enforcement training - for sheriff.

Lawrence Oliver is the only sensible Democratic choice for Sheriff and that's why Mr. Oliver will be getting my support and my vote on March 21.

It's a mystery

Politics in Lake County is a complete mystery to me. I moved here from Cook County a little over 11 years ago and I still don't have the hang of it up here. For example why would the Republican Party endorse incumbent Sheriff

Gary Del Re to run again after his office has been beleaguered by law suits, criminal indictments of high ranking officials, repeated budget overruns and investigations by the Illinois Attorney General? That's a mystery to me.

Then there is Senator Terry Link and his slate makers in the Democratic Party who have decided to slate Mark Curran, a criminal defense lawyer to be Sheriff. Curran is a lawyer with no law enforcement experience, law enforcement education or law enforcement training and no commanded experience in any police agency. I guess Senator Link and his associates believe that there are no experienced police professionals in Lake County who are qualified for the job. Boy, that's a slap in the face to the police officers in Lake County and another mystery to me.

I guess the burning question in my mind is, why would the Republican Party support a candidate who appears to be a liability at a time when ethics seem to be a major issue in the next election? And why would the Democratic Party endorse someone who also appears not to have the qualifications for sheriff over another Democratic Candidate, Larry Oliver, who does have the necessary law enforcement experience? Now that too is a mystery to me, but what is not, is the fact that I will pull a Democratic Ballot in the primary and am going to vote for Larry Oliver. Mystery solved.

Since 1990, the enrollment of Big Hollow School District has increased 277 percent as a result of massive home construction. New housing developments continue to be approved.

The financial impact of these developments on the school district is tremendous. It became evident over the years that the district needed a way to assess this impact in a formal process, with tangible results. In this way all facets of the community could see how new construction was affecting the schools.

To meet this need, Big Hollow School District approached Lake County Board Member Bonnie Thomson Carter. The county Planning, Building and Zoning Committee, authorized a steering committee of representatives from government, schools, home developers and communities to tackle this project.

The result is the Lake County School Impact Model. With this program, data provided by a prospective home developer, tax assessors, and the school district can be analyzed. The outcome is two final figures; the projected property tax revenue generated by the development and the cost of educating the students that will enroll as a result of that development.

With this information in hand, concrete data can be used when school districts discuss the financial impact with developers and municipal boards. Government and schools can plan together for the future of their growing communities.

A copy of the Lake County School Impact Model is available from the Lake County Board Planning, Building and Zoning Committee or the Big Hollow School District. I would encourage local governments, school districts and developers to use this model as a means of providing legitimate information to the taxpayers about the financial impact of new housing construction.

Ronald Pazanin, Superintendent
Big Hollow School District 38

Chief Charles Fagan

Mayor Larson:

My neighbors, friends and I are appalled at your recent decision not to retain Charles Fagan as Chief of Police in the Village of Antioch. I personally have worked with Chuck Fagan for many years, and you will not find a more dedicated, hard working, professional law enforcement officer, not only in this County, but in the United States. This is just one more example of you wanting the Village of Antioch to resort back to the days of the "Good Ole' Boys" mentality.

As a resident of the Village of Antioch, and a law enforcement officer, I saw the changes that Chief Fagan made not only to the police department, but the village itself. Chief Fagan brought the police department up to professional standards that the community could be proud of. Once again mayor, you have set this village back 20 years, after former Mayor Marvellas set us light years ahead. In closing mayor, all I can say is my friends, neighbors and I shall see you at the polls.

30 YEARS AGO 1976

A combined Waukegan-Lake County Port Authority, rather than a separate Chain O' Lakes Port Authority was one of the possibilities discussed by members of the Fox River-Chain O' Lakes Commission at a meeting held at Antioch Village Hall.

Subcommittee members had discussed the possibility of enlarging the geographical boundaries of the port district with Dick Kennedy of the Waukegan authority who "thought it was an interesting idea," according to State Representative Donald Deuster (R-Sylvan Lake), who headed the committee.

20 YEARS AGO 1986

The Antioch Village Board approved the Little said that the plan he submitted to the board was just a preliminary plan and that actual building of the subdivision could be as many as two years away.

15 YEARS AGO 1991

Western Development Corporation officials announced that Gurnee Mills, a super regional shopping center, was on budget and on schedule.

An August 8, 1991, grand opening was set for the project, located on 326 acres at Route 132 and Hunt Club Road.

Eighth District candidates convey views

By Esther Cepeda

Special to Lakeland Media

Seven Republican candidates for the 8th Congressional District seat came out strong against incumbent Melissa Bean at the Candidate Forum Sponsored by Antioch, Avon, Grant and Lake Villa Townships.

The message shared by all seven candidates was that regardless of whom among them won the election; the Republican Party would triumph in wrestling the seat from Democratic hands.

Each candidate had three minutes to introduce themselves to the capacity crowd at the Round Lake Area Park District senior center and one minute each to respond to three audience questions.

Ken Arnold, a businessman from Gurnee, who stated he was committed to running a campaign of "substance and creative ideas," differentiated himself by stressing that he is "not running to get an R, on our side of the aisle but to serve the people."

Running on a "verifiable track record of General Assembly votes," State Rep. Robert Churchill (R-Lake Villa) noted that his Lake County roots reach back to 1842 while incumbent Melissa Bean "hasn't decided to move in yet."

David McSweeney of Barrington Hills, fresh off of sweeping endorsements from the Hanover, Barrington, Schaumburg, and Palatine Township GOP organizations, started by introducing the crowd to "my best friend and the love of my life Margaret." He went on to emphatically, "Thank God George W. Bush is the president of the United States" and make clear that his campaign is "about defeating Melissa Bean."

"The only candidate who doesn't possess political baggage," Mundein businesswoman Teresa Bartels, went on the offensive pointing out that she hasn't "spent millions of dollars buying political endorsements like David (McSweeney),..." forging ties to (former Governor) George Ryan and (46th District Representative) Lee Daniels, like Robert Churchill, or "waging losing campaigns for her husband" referring to fellow candidate Kathy Salvi.

Banking on his easily recognizable name,

Aaron Lincoln, a lawyer from Wauconda, stated that while "the Republican Party tends to eat its young," and he doesn't have an overflowing war chest or previous experience running for office, his contributions are needed because "the future of the Republican party is at stake."

Stating that she, "in fact, is the most electable candidate," Mundein lawyer Kathy Salvi, declared her reason for seeking the office: "I'd never be able to live down letting the opportunity to beat Melissa Bean pass me by."

Former Lake County Board Member Jim Mitchell Jr. of Lindenhurst denounced the rampant corruption in politics and the effects of Chicago's corrupt leadership on the rest of the Chicagoland area. He also took the opportunity to implore the crowd to take a cue from the 78 percent turnout in the recent Palestinian elections and "validate what our servicemen are fighting for."

On the issue of illegal immigration, all the candidates called on the Federal government to enforce and expand existing laws. Ken Arnold was more enthusiastic. "I'm the real deal. I joined the Minuteman Movement and if that's political baggage, Teresa, he chided, "then so be it." Arnold did clarify "immigrants and illegal immigrants are two different things."

Upon being asked about the Federal No Child Left Behind Act, all candidates agreed that the laws are not working in the way the Federal government designed them. Salvi called it a "disaster" which "should be eliminated."

Churchill took the opportunity to tout his plan to "allocate 65 percent of all educational funds to the classroom, an increase from the current 59 percent."

The hot-button issue of transportation brought all the candidates together in praising Lake County for uniting on the issue of the proposed Route 120 Corridor in order to tackle the traffic problems in small "bites." On the whole, the candidates said they are committed to building a Route 53 extension and easing traffic woes. "Gridlock is not a family value," said Salvi.

Churchill reminded the audience he was "a vocal supporter of the Route 53 extension back when others didn't want to touch it and that it could be actualized once the Route 120 project was completed if "we could keep the Governor (Blagojevich) from stealing our road funds."

CRIMESTOPPERS

Lake County Crime Stoppers and the Grayslake Police Department are seeking information regarding a Armed Bank Robbery.

On Jan. 26, at approximately 1210 p.m., the First Midwest Bank located at 41 N. Lake St. (north of Center Street), Grayslake, was robbed under the threat of a bomb.

A male subject approximately mid to late 30s, height 5 feet - 3 inches to 5 feet - 5 inches, heavier build, with a round head entered the First Midwest Bank. The offender was described as wearing a gray ski mask with man-made eyeholes, a black suede leather jacket with a crew neck collar, dark tan/brown dress pants, and dark dress shoes. The employee described the voice of the offender as being loud without an apparent accent. The offender entered the bank carrying a dark yellow bag, which contained a note. The offender told the employee to remove the note and read it. The offender left with the money inside of the dark yellow bag in a westbound direction through the alley.

Lake County Crime Stoppers and the Grayslake Police Department would like to remind everyone to call when suspicious activity or a suspicious person is observed, and do not try to confront suspicious subjects yourself.

If you have any information about this crime or any other felony crime or felony fugitive, contact Crime Stoppers at 847-622-2222.

Also, abuse of the elderly is a crime, so let's not forget to report this type of crime as well.

If your information leads to an arrest you could be eligible for a cash reward of up to $1,000.

Crime Stoppers wants your information - NOT Your Name.

Churchill introduces legislation to reform classroom funding

State Representative Robert W. Churchill has introduced legislation that would reform how school districts fund classroom instruction. "The so-called 65 percent Solution is a movement that is sweeping the nation and I believe Illinois needs to get on board," Churchill said.

The 65 percent Solution seeks to alter the formula by which local school districts fund teachers and classroom instruction. Currently, Illinois school districts provide approximately 60 cents of every dollar directly to the classroom. The remaining 40 cents is spent on administration of the school district from executive salaries to janitorial services. "Illinois school districts need to focus limited educational dollars to teaching our kids. I believe that 65 percent of every dollar spent should be spent educating the next generation," Churchill continued.

House Bill 4399 will mandate that school districts shift 2 percent of non-classroom expenditures to classroom expenditures every year until the district reaches a budget with 65 percent of spending going directly to teaching. "The four highest performing states in the nation, according to the National Center for Educational Statistics found that these states were spending 65 percent or more of their educational budget in the classroom," said Churchill. "I was shocked to learn that Illinois schools districts do not reach the 65 percent funding level."

The 65 percent Solution campaign is being lead by FirstClassEducation.org, which is chaired by Patrick Byrne, CEO of Overstock.com, Inc. FirstClassEducation.org estimates that should Illinois shift 5 cents of every education dollar from non-classroom to classroom expenditures, teachers and students would see an increase of over $900 million. Churchill added that such a reform will take some time to implement but "during a time when the state and local school districts are struggling financially, we can put more money into classrooms without a tax increase."

House Bill 4399 was brought to Churchill by a group of concerned parents from his district that saw student scores stagnating but administrator salaries climbing. "School districts in Illinois don't necessarily have a funding problem," Churchill concluded. "There is a disconnect between dollars and classrooms. It is my hope that HB 4399 will provide increased funding for teachers and classroom instruction."

State Representative Robert W. Churchill served in the Illinois House of Representatives from 1983-1999 and has served the 62nd District since 2003.

CONDELL ACUTE CARE CENTER

Parents are top priority at Condell Medical Center

Condell Medical Center offers the following pregnancy and parenting programs to the community. Participation is free unless indicated. Condell's New Life Center is designed with everything that's important to you, your baby and your family. Each detail ensures your comfort, safety, privacy and peace of mind.

A Level Two-Plus special-care nursery and medical services for high-risk mothers are among the many capabilities for moms and newborns. We are prepared to care for your pregnancy, delivery and beyond.

Thanks to Condell's reputation for quality maternity care, more families are choosing to deliver at Condell than any other Lake County hospital.

Condell Acute Care Centers offer coronary risk profile in February

Condell Acute Care Centers are offering a coronary risk screening special every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday during February, from 8 am to noon. The fee is $25, which includes a blood draw to test for cholesterol (LDL and HDL) and triglycerides.

The test requires fasting eight to 12 hours in advance. Cash, check or credit card payments are accepted. Insurance will not be billed.

LAKE FOREST HOSPITAL

Lake Forest Hospital extends Grayslake Acute Care Center hours

In response to a steadily growing demand for minor medical emergency care in central Lake County – especially during the early morning hours – the Lake Forest Hospital Acute Care Center in Grayslake is now open an additional hour, from 6:30 a.m. to 10 p.m., daily.

Dawn Frank, acute care center manager, says there was a strong demand to open earlier to treat patients with minor illnesses or injuries before they go to work or school. Frequently, she says, a mom wakes up to a sick child and wants to have the child checked before taking to day care or school, and many physician offices are not open that early. Also, many young adults do not have a primary physician, and the Acute Care Center is convenient.

Since opening nearly two years ago, the Acute Care Center had been open from 7 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. daily. It's seen a steadily increasing number of patients seeking care for minor emergencies from Lake Forest Hospital ER doctors without the ER wait.

The center is staffed by the same physicians, and many of the same nurses, who work in the Lake Forest Hospital Emergency Room. They treat a variety of urgent, but non-life-threatening medical conditions or injuries such as cold or flu symptoms, minor cuts, bumps, bruises, sprains, strains, fractures, eye irritations, and rashes.

The Acute Care Center is part of a 136,000-square-foot facility that also features a variety of outpatient services such as advanced diagnostic technology, sophisticated therapy and private physicians' suites.

PARENT'S PLACE

Some helpful behavior tidbits for parents in 2006:

Our focus is our reality-telling children they can.

People are creatures of habit and habits form from repetition of action. What we are focused on most of the time becomes our way of life. With that in mind, think about the automatic responses we have to our kid's bad behavior. We are all human and all react from the hip most of the time. It's important for you to know that plain and simple, if you are constantly negative with your child, that negativity will become both your focus and your child's focus all the time. This is how kids develop that famous 'negative identity' we hear so much about. We need to do something to make sure that discipline is balanced and both positive and negative. A good 98% of the success you will have with changing your kid's behavior will come from being aware of how you're reacting all the time and making sure that your kid's primary focus in life is being positive and knowing how to do the behaviors you WANT to see. We can choose to take the hard road or the easy one. I will tell you that if you immerse your kids in knowing what good behavior is and teach them that they always have a choice in what they do, you will not have to go down that hard road. Remember that our focus becomes our reality. Kids who are immersed in bad behavior will do those behaviors more and more. We need to teach I CAN!

The dilemma of self-esteem vs. discipline

Our society has it backwards when it comes to self esteem. Somehow, people in our society have come to believe that self esteem is something that develops solely out of nurture, compassion and giving things without earning them. We spend lots of time giving people things. We lower expectations. We make situations easier. All in the name of building self-esteem. Unfortunately, this very thing does the exact opposite. This behavior creates dependency and the opposite of self-reliance and independence. GIVING people anything, generally tends to do that. In my experience, self-esteem is something that develops out of meeting standards and expectations. It develops out of one's knowledge that one has the ability to meet those requirements and that one has made the effort and journey to get there. The problem we face in our society is not that people are without achievement or without ability. The problem in our society is that we are too quick to lower standards. Too quick to make the surroundings easier instead of build the character inside. We don't provide enough of a road map for the way to reach success on our own. Instead we make detours to get half way there. This doesn't help anyone. Most of all kids.

When it comes to kids and this area, the main problem area lies in what challenges the kids have. If our child has a limitation in a certain area, we become fearful that pushing that child farther than that child has gone before will somehow damage that child. So, we back off and take the detour. I'm here to tell you that I have been involved with many families where gentle pushing and encouragement was the very thing that helped their child reach a new level of success and true self esteem. You see, I believe that true self esteem comes from striving and working hard and reaching goals that we know are there and attainable. If a child is told he can't do something, he will believe it. Remember, our focus is our reality. If a child is encouraged that he can do something but it will take work, he can do it. He will do it. I have seen kids go from 'F's' in school to 'A's' in school within only a couple month period of time using this philosophy. Everyone has limitations. If we choose to live by our limitations rather than our strengths, we will surely live a limited life. If we reach for the stars and only make it - of the way there, the strength of the journey is what is thrilling and satisfying. Who says that with some more work we won't make the other of the way?

Asking questions versus making statements

When we are in the heat of battle with our kids, our first inclination is to tell the child things. We tell him what he's done and how it's upset us. We tell him what he should have done. We tell him why it was bad. We do this because we are usually so angry that we have to get it all out. We also do it to try and regain our power (which is usually a losing battle after the fact.) We also do it to warn our children of the impending disaster of doing it again. Any of us who have gone down that 'statement making' road know what the look in our kid's eyes is while this is occurring. There is this 'half glazed zombie look' of 'not again.' Some of us have seen a Doonesbury Comic with a dog and a master. The master sees a mess the dog made and begins to go on and on about what the dog did and how the dog shouldn't have done it, etc. In the next frame, you see what the dog actually hears which is 'Blah-Blah, Blah Blah Blah Blah, Blah Blah.' It is a funny comic and while I am certainly not comparing your child to a dog or any other animal, you need to be aware that no matter what the age of the child, they prefer to tune out ranting statements just as any of us do. Well, where does that leave us, you might ask? What can we do to get through to our kids. My suggestion to you is that instead of using statements and ranting, that you use questions in a quiet, calm tone. Think about it. Let's say I tell you that your house is brown and white with shutters on it. You might say, 'o.k., it is.' What if I ask you, 'What does your house look like?' There is a different response that the brain has to a question than a statement. For a split second after a question is asked, the brain responds. There is a different tone in the voice with a question and the brain responds to it. Try it a couple times, you'll see! With multiple statements, we can miss entire lectures, but with a question, there is a level of alertness that comes with it. Think about the last time you were sitting in a classroom looking bored by the lecture and the teacher fired a question at you. Didn't it wake you up and introduce a little shock wave into your system? It certainly did for me! If nothing else, asking questions tends to diffuse a battle between you and your child and make it into a conversation. Now, this does NOT mean I want you to begin ranting questions over and over again, because it would have the same effect that statements would. One well asked question with the right tone that feeds into things that have been gone over, can have just the desired effect in getting through to a child. It's really magical to watch. In the book, I'll be talking more about when to ask questions and how to phrase them correctly to get the right kind of behavior.

Laughter is the best medicine

It truly is! One of the things I find most successful when working with young children is making them laugh. It is usually an instant ice breaker. It's also something that they usually don't expect. Most kids who act out a lot are used to a A + B = C equation with the A being bad behavior, the B being getting caught, and the C being the parent's loud and irritated reaction. I'm certainly not telling you to laugh after your child has done something wrong, but if you use laughter and humor at the beginning of the problem, sometimes it can really loosen up a situation and help avoid the negative conclusion. For example, in my office, I may be sitting with a child who doesn't want to cooperate and is complaining saying things like, 'I don't want to do this!' I will turn to that child in a very silly face and say in a very funny, strange accent and voice (not even close to my own) something totally unrelated to the subject such as, 'What (not a typo) are you babbling about?' Now, in writing, it might not sound very funny or even remotely sensitive, however, when you say it in a silly tone, the next thing you usually see is a smile and a look of cautious disbelief on your child's face. Most of the time, the problem is either gone or somewhat removed at that point.

The week after Sarah was diagnosed, she finished a marathon. Then the real race began.

Sarah Cooper, breast cancer survivor

Even after she was diagnosed, Sarah continued, finishing a marathon the very next week. So when her hometown doctor told her she would have to wait three weeks to begin treatment, she wasn't content to lose precious time.

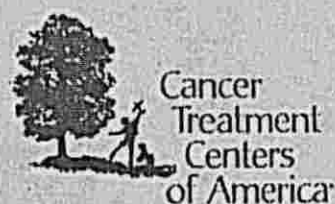

"I came to CTCA for a second opinion, and I got right in," she said. "When I arrived I was lost, bewildered. But the staff and the other patients helped me find my way. I left with an overwhelming feeling of, 'okay, we can take care of this.'"

She did take care of it, crossing the finish line with a victory over breast cancer.

On May 21, 1960, she married Duke Burmann in Spring Grove. Later they moved to McHenry in 1963 where they made their home. She worked for McHenry High School East Campus as a library aid for 17 years until she retired in May 2003. She was affectionately known as Mrs. B. Her greatest passion in life was spending time with her family, especially her grandchildren. Her other great passions were gardening and decorating her home.

Survivors include her husband of McHenry; her children, Angie Smola of McHenry and Robert (Robin) Burmann of Twin Lakes, Wis.; her father, Philip Dion of Rockton; four grandchildren, Jake Smola of McHenry, Brad, Brian and Brittany Burmann of Twin Lakes, Wis.; two sisters, Mardele (Harold) Stewart of Arkdale, Wis., and Ginny (Bob) Arseny of Woodstock and two brothers Steve (Mary) Dion of Elsinore, Mo. and John Dion of Los Angeles, Calif. She is preceded in death by her mother and a brother James Dion.

Funeral services will be held privately for the family. In lieu of flowers, memorials may be made to the American Cancer Society c/o Janet Smith, 200 S. Green St. McHenry, IL, 60050 or to the American Lung Association, 1440 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, IL, 60607. Arrangements are being handled by Colonial Funeral Home, 591 Ridgeview Dr. McHenry, 60050, 815-385-0063.

Roberta May Knox

Born April 23, 1921 and passed away on Jan. 30, 2006.

Widow of Dr. William B. Knox, PhD.

She is survived by her four devoted daughter, Carolyn Vancò, Barbara Hafner (Robert), Patricia Knox (Peter Kollasch), and Lisa Knox (Paul Lundy). Loving grandmother of three: Celeste Hafner, Elizabeth Vancò, and Saeed Hassan.

Services were held at the Fox Lake Community Church, 25 West Big Hollow Rd. in Fox Lake, on Feb. 2 at 11 a.m. Interment was at Grant Cemetery following the Service. The family was assisted by Christian Undertakers and Funeral Home in Chicago.

James "Eddie" Mayfield Jr.

Age 49, of Round Lake Beach, passed away at his home on Monday, Jan. 30, 2006. He was born in Chicago, the son of Mary Jane and the late James Mayfield Sr. He was a veteran serving in the U.S. Army during the Vietnam era. He was president of the Lake Villa Timberwolves Youth Football organization, where he also coached, and he was a board member and coach of the Lake Villa Baseball League. He was an avid Chicago White Sox fan.

He is survived by his wife, Gayla; his children, Racheal, Doug and Colin; his grandson; his mother, Mary Jane Mayfield of Arizona; and his brothers and sisters.

Services were at 7 p.m. on Feb. 2, at Ringa Funeral Home, in Lake Villa. Interment was private. Visitation was on Feb. 4, at 4 pm until the time of service at the funeral home. In lieu of flowers, memorials would be appreciated to the American Cancer Society, 100 Tri-State International, 125, Lincolnshire, IL 60069.

Elaine S. Beaulieu

Age 84, of Fox Lake, passed away on Saturday, Jan. 28, 2006, at Centegra Northern Illinois Medical Center in McHenry. She was born in Chicago, the daughter of the late William and Selma Redpath.

She is survived by her sons, Kenneth (Terry) Beaulieu of Salem, Wis. and Dennis Beaulieu of Fox Lake. Also surviving are six grandchildren. She is preceded in death by her parents, her husband, Gordon Beaulieu in 1979 and a sister.

Services were held at 11 a.m. on Jan. 31, at Ringa Funeral Home, in Lake Villa. Interment was private. Visitation was on Jan. 31, at 10 a.m. until the time of service.

James W. Greco

Age 86 of Lake Bluff, passed away at Claridge Health Care Center in Lake Bluff, on Thursday, January 26, 2006.

He was born in Johnston City, the son of the late Stefano and Christina Greco. He was a veteran of WW II, serving in the U.S. Army.

Graveside Service with Military Honors were held on Jan. 31, at Abraham Lincoln National Cemetery in Elwood. Funeral arrangements were handled by the Ringa Funeral Home in Lake Villa.

Frank A. Kasper

Age 75, of Lindenhurst, passed away at the Pinnacle Health Care Center in Waukegan, on Friday, Jan. 27, 2006.

He was born in North Chicago, the son of the late Caroline and Frank Kasper. He was a veteran, serving in the U.S. Air Force. He retired from Condell Medical Center with 12 years of service. He was a member of the Polish Legion of American Veterans - Gen. Casimir Pulaski Post 25, North, and was a 3rd Degree Knight of Columbus - Council No. 731 in Waukegan. On Jan. 12, 1963, he married his wife, Carol.

He is survived by his wife; his children, Linda (Doug) Mackinder of Lindenhurst and Mike (Rachel) Kasper of Trevor, Wis.; his grandchildren; a brother, and a sister. He is preceded in death by his parents and a brother.

Services were at 10 a.m. on Feb. 1, at Ringa Funeral Home. Private family interment followed the service at Ridgewood Cemetery in Des Plaines. Visitation was at the funeral home on Jan. 31 from 5 to 8 p.m. and on Feb. 1 from 9 to 10 a.m. In lieu of flowers, memorials would be appreciated to ones' favorite charity in his memory.

Age 82, of Lindenhurst, passed away on Wednesday, Jan. 25, 2006 at the Victory Lakes Continuing Care Center in Lindenhurst, with his family at his side. He was born in Chicago, the son of the late Harriet and William Restarski. Dr. Restarski maintained a dental practice in the village from 1963 until 1989. He was a veteran of WW II, serving in the U.S. Army Air Corps. In 1962 he joined the U.S. Army Reserve Dental Corps and retired at the rank of Colonel in 1989. He served as Clerk of Lake Villa Township for one term.

He is survived by his wife, Marie. They were married on June 28, 1952. His children, Thaddeus II (Kelly) of Kenosha, Wis. and Karen (Jeffrey) Jones of Lindenhurst; and his grandchildren. He is preceded in death by his brothers, and a sister.

Services were at noon on Jan. 28, at the Trinity United Methodist Church, in Lindenhurst. Interment was private. Visitation was on Jan. 28 at the church from 10:30 a.m. until the time of service. In lieu of flowers, memorials would be appreciated to the Trinity United Methodist Church or Victory Lakes Continuing Care Center. Funeral arrangements were handled by the Ringa Funeral Home, Lake Villa.

Donald B. Crane

Age 78 of Round Lake Beach, died Sunday, Jan. 22, 2006 at Victory Lakes in Lindenhurst. Born in Grand Meadows, Minn., Donald was a retired drywall contractor.

Survivors include his wife, Darlene (nee Schletty); his children, Linda (Larry) McCarty, Donald Crane, Jr., Michael (Stacy) Crane, and Dana Crane; his five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren; and his siblings. Donald is preceded in death by his brother Ralph Crane.

A private service was held on Jan. 28. All care was entrusted to Strang Funeral Chapel and Crematorium in Grayslake.

Ethel Pacione

An 85-year-old Round Lake resident, passed away Monday, Jan. 23, 2006 at Condell Medical Center in Libertyville. She was born in Davey, W.Va. to Jesse and Effie Kirby.

Beloved mother of Judy (Richard) Kanigge of Wauconda, Darlene (Gordon) Carson of Ingleside, Ken (Mary) Pacione of Mundelein, John (Rita) Pacione of Belgium, and Margie Mendyk of Round Lake, Barbara Pacione of Streamwood, and Terry (John) McCurley of Mundelein; cherished grandmother; great-grandmother; sister; good friend to P.J. aka "Taco" and David. Her husband, Mario Pacione, her aforementioned parents, a son, James Pacione, and a grandson, precede her in death.

All services were held privately.

Memorial donations would be appreciated to the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation, 4100 Madison, Ste. 3, Hillside, IL 60162. Arrangements were entrusted to Strang Funeral Chapel and Crematorium in Grayslake.

Colette Gaylor (nee Soder)

Age 68, a longtime resident of Ingleside, died Sunday Jan. 29, 2006 at the Loyola Medical Center in Maywood. She was born on Feb. 28, 1937 in Chicago, to Frank and Lillie (nee Eisentraut) Soder and had been united in marriage to Richard P. Gaylor on March 2, 1957 in Long Lake. She had been a housewife and mother in her home until the death of her husband in 1972. She was formerly employed as a secretary and bookkeeper for Holiday Park, and at the Ace Hardware Stores. She had enjoyed working crossword puzzles, playing games and cards, and spending time with friends and family.

Survivors include, her children, Genee Lynn (Tom) Edwards of Ingleside, Richard P. (Susan) Gaylor Jr., Scott (Rose) Gaylor of Burlington, Wis.; her grandchildren: Richard III, Autumn, Jerry, Lindsey, Bill (Lauren), Carolyn (Tony); two great-grandchildren, Mackenzie and Trace, by her cousin, Lorraine (Roger) Viehweg of Frankfort. She is preceded in death by her parents, and her husband.

Visitation was from 5 to 9 p.m., Feb. 1, and again on Feb. 2 at 9 a.m. at the K-K Hamsher Funeral Home, 12 N. Pistakee Lake Rd., in Fox Lake (The Chapel On The Lake), where services were conducted at 10 a.m. at the Funeral Home. Burial followed at Grant Cemetery. Information 847 587 2 100

Lake County Courthouse, 18
North County Street (East Door INSIDE), WAUKEGAN, IL, 60085, sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, as set forth below, the following described real estate:

GLENN DRIVE, North Chicago, IL 60064
Property Index No. 08-33-
306-041
The real estate is improved with a single family residence.
The judgment amount was $83,581.34.

Sale terms: 25% down of the highest bid by certified funds at the close of the auction; the balance, in certified funds, is due within twenty-four (24) hours. The subject property is subject to general real estate taxes, special assessments, or special taxes levied against said real estate and is offered for sale without any representation as to quality or quantity of title and without recourse to Plaintiff and in "AS IS" condition. The sale is further subject to confirmation by the court.

If the sale is set aside for any reason, the Purchaser at the sale shall be entitled only to a return of the deposit paid. The Purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Mortgagee, the Mortgagee or the Mortgagee's attorney.
Upon payment in full of the amount bid, the purchaser will receive a Certificate of Sale that will entitle the purchaser to a deed to the real estate after confirmation of the sale.
The property will NOT be open for inspection and plaintiff makes no representation as to the condition of the property. Prospective bidders are admonished to check the court file to verify all information.

The Tora-Bora of our Animal Health Manager! This handsome gentleman is another cat that doesn't complain about his living arrangements at all. While he wonders why there aren't more people visiting him, he is always at the door, meowing hello to everyone that walks by, and of course tries very hard to get some petting too. He totally lives up to his Siamese roots and always has long conversations with the Manager, just keeping her in check and trying to teach her some cat talk. She reports that he will let you do anything to him and loves nothing more than being a little ragdoll, hanging over her shoulder.
A totally super sweet guy!

He is hyperthyroid and needs meds every day, nothing expensive. As a senior gentleman, he would prefer living with mellow cats. Tora is of course up-to-date on all shots, tested for feluk and FIV, neutered and microchipped.

HOROSCOPE

ARIES - March 21/April 20

Don't get caught up in the moment when reminiscing with an acquaintance. He or she is trying to distract you from something important, so pay attention to what's going on. That special someone asks for your advice. Be honest with him or her, even if what you have to say won't be appreciated. Gemini plays a key role.

TAURUS-April 21/May 21

Try to keep your temper under control when having a discussion with a close friend. He or she isn't ready to hear your opinion. Speeding your mind only will cause friction between the two of you. A loved one offers you some romantic advice. Take it.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21

Take your time when it comes to finishing an important project this week. A lot of people are counting on you to do this right. So, don't rush through it, and be sure to check your work. Your diligence will be rewarded.

CANCER - June 22/July 22

You're in for a big change this week, Cancer. Don't be nervous; this is something that you've been wanting to happen. Share your excitement with those closest to you. An acquaintance asks to speak with you. He or she really needs someone to talk with. Sagittarius plays an important role on Thursday.

LEO - July 23/August 23

When it comes to your career, don't be afraid to ask the higher-ups for something that you really need. Just stay calm, and present your case logically. If you can do this, they're sure to be on your side. You meet someone interesting late in the week. This could be the one.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22

Don't worry about a loved one who gets into trouble early in the week, Virgo. This person needs to handle the situation on his or her own. The person whom you've been seeing wants to intensify your relationship. Think about what you really want.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23

Don't let an argument with an acquaintance spoil your good mood this week, Libra. He or she is trying to get you upset. Don't let that happen. Just try to ignore this person. A loved one asks you for advice about a personal matter. Be honest.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22

Try to be more attentive to a loved one this week, Scorpio. He or she is going through a difficult time and needs someone to talk to. Be there for him or her. Your efforts will be appreciated. A business acquaintance wants to get to know you better. Don't get involved with this person, because he or she has an ulterior motive.

SAGITTARIUS-Nov 23/Dec 21

You get blamed for a problem at work. Instead of getting upset and going on the defensive, just help to rectify the situation. The higher-ups know the truth and won't reprimand you for something that you didn't do. A close friend reveals his or her true feelings for you. Let this person know how you really feel, too.

CAPRICORN-Dec 22/Jan 20

You have a lot to do this week, Capricorn. So, try not to let others distract you. Stay focused, and work diligently. That's the only way to get things done. You'll have plenty of time to relax and enjoy yourself this weekend. Cancer plays a key role on Wednesday.

AQUARIUS-Jan 21/Feb 18

Don't bite off more than you can chew early in the week. You already have several things that you need to get done. Don't take on more responsibility. A loved one needs your help with a family matter this weekend. Do what you can for him or her.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20

Go after what you want this week, Pisces. If you don't, you'll never get it, because no one is going to give it to you. Don't be nervous; you deserve this. A good friend turns to you for help. Be there for him or her. Leo plays an important role.

NOTICE OF SALE
PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that pursuant to a Judgment of Foreclosure and Sale entered in the above cause on September 14, 2005, an agent of The Judicial Sales Corporation will at 11:00 AM on February 28, 2006, at the front door of the Lake County Courthouse, 18 North County Street (East Door INSIDE), WAUKEGAN, IL, 60085, sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, as set forth below, the following described real estate:

THE NORTH 8 1/3 FEET OF LOT 35 AND ALL OF LOTS 36 AND 37 IN BLOCK 7 IN WASHBURN PARK, BEING A SUBDIVISION OF PART OF THE SOUTHWEST 1/4 OF SECTION 33, TOWNSHIP 45 NORTH, RANGE 12, EAST OF THE THIRD PRINCIPAL MERIDIAN, ACCORDING TO RECORDED JUNE 25, 1891 AS DOCUMENT 45834, IN BOOK "B" OF PLATS, PAGES 50 AND 51 IN LAKE COUNTY, ILLINOIS.

Commonly known as 1527 GLENN DRIVE, North Chicago, IL 60064.

The real estate is improved with a single family residence. The judgment amount was $83,581.34.

Sale terms: 25% down of the highest bid by certified funds at the close of the auction; the balance, in certified funds, is due within twenty-four (24) hours. The subject property is subject to general real estate taxes, special assessments, or special taxes levied against said real estate and is offered for sale without any representation as to quality or quantity of title and without recourse to Plaintiff and in "AS IS" condition. The sale is further subject to confirmation by the court.

If the sale is set aside for any reason, the Purchaser at the sale shall be entitled only to a return of the deposit paid. The Purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Mortgagee or the Mortgagee's attorney.

Upon payment in full of the amount bid, the purchaser will receive a Certificate of Sale that will entitle the purchaser to a deed to the real estate after confirmation of the sale.

The property will NOT be open for inspection and plaintiff makes no representation as to the condition of the property. Prospective bidders are admonished to check the court file to verify all information.

For information, contact Plaintiff's attorney: The Sale Clerk, CODILIS & ASSOCIATES, P.C., 15W030 NORTH FRONTAGE ROAD, SUITE 100, BURR RIDGE, IL 60527, (630) 794-9876 between the hours of 1 and 3 PM only and ask for the sales department.. Please refer to file number 14-05-6658.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice of Filing of Request for a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity and Approval of Rates for Water Service

To: PATRONS OF AQUA ILLINOIS, INC.

AQUA ILLINOIS, INC. ("Aqua") hereby gives notice to the public that it has filed with the Illinois Commerce Commission ("Commission") a request for issuance of a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity ("Certificate") authorizing Aqua to provide public water service to a 209-unit residential subdivision being constructed by United Land Development Company ("Developer") in the area of Lake county, Illinois, that is adjacent to Aqua's Hawthorn Woods service area ("Hawthorn Area") and known as the Kemper Lakes Development Area ("Kemper Area"). Aqua is also requesting certain changes to its tariff for the Hawthorn Area, as set forth in ILL. C.C. No. 47, Sec. 10, Revised Sheet Nos. 1-4 ("Hawthorn Tariff"). The Commission is considering Aqua's request in Docket 06-0043.

Aqua proposes to apply the water service rates for the Hawthorn Area, as provided in the Hawthorn Tariff (as now in effect or as subsequently revised), to service within the Kemper Area. No change in the Hawthorn Area rates is proposed. Application of the Hawthorn Area rates to the Kemper Area would result in changes of approximately 440 per month for water service provided to a residential customer using 7,000 gallons of water per month. These rates include a customer charge for metered service of $15.00 per month (plus an additional charge of $2.00 per month when a separate Irrigation Service/Meter is installed) and a usage charge of $2.85 per 1,000 gallons. In addition, all other applicable water charges of the Hawthorn Area, such as returned check charges, public and private fire protection, late payment fees, and/or State add on taxes or fees, would apply.

Kemper Area customers should note that, pursuant to a court order settling litigation among the Village, the Developer and various other parties (not including Aqua) ("Court Order"), certain fees, permits or authorizations may be required to be paid to and/or received by the Village prior to customers in the Kemper Area requesting water service from Aqua. The Court Order was adopted by the Village on October 18, 2004 in Village of Hawthorn Woods Resolution No. 10-18-04-3. The Court Order does not affect customers in the Hawthorn Area.

Aqua is also proposing changes to the Hawthorn Tariff. The area to which the Hawthorn Tariff applies has been changed to read "Village of Hawthorn Woods, Illinois and Kemper Lakes Development Area" in order to apply to the Kemper Area, which is outside the corporate limits of the Village. In addition, the Language of the Hawthorn Tariff has been changed to reflect the Court Order described above.

Aqua will submit evidence to the Commission supporting its request for a Certificate for the Kemper Area. A copy of Aqua's Certificate filing and related evidence may be inspected by any interested party at the business office of Aqua, 1000 South Schuyler Avenue, Kankakee, Illinois, 60901. Customers should be advised that the Commission may alter or amend the rates or conditions of service in Aqua's proposal after hearings held pursuant to 83 Ill. Admin. Code 200, and may increase or decrease individual rates in amounts other than those requested by Aqua. Customers are entitled to seek to intervene in proceedings conducted by the Commission in accordance with the Commission's Rules of Practice, 83 Ill. Admin. Code Section 200.200.

All parties interested in this matter may obtain information with respect thereto either directly from Aqua or by addressing the Chief Clerk of the Illinois Commerce Commission, 527 East Capitol Avenue, Springfield, Illinois 62706.

PUBLIC NOTICE
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE NINETEENTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT LAKE COUNTY, ILLINOIS

ESTATE OF STYLON BOWERS
Deceased.

No. 05 P 1012

CLAIM NOTICE and NOTICE TO HEIRS AND LEGATEES

Notice is given of the death of STYLON BOWERS, of Zion, Illinois. Letters of Office were issued on December 16, 2005, to Juanita Bowers, as Executor. Juanita Bowers' address is: 2703 Gilead, Zion, Illinois, 60099, and her attorney is Daniel K. Sinclair, 4170 Old Grand Avenue, Gurnee, Illinois 60031.

Claims against the estate may be filed in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court at 18 North County Street, Waukegan, Illinois 60085, Room C-104, or with representative, or both, on or before July 20, 2006, which date is not less than six months from the date of the first publication of this notice and any claim not filed within that period is barred. Copies of any claim filed with the Clerk must be mailed or delivered to the representative and to the attorney within ten days after it is filed.

Notice is also given to: SWEETNESS BOWERS, RUNNY EARL BOWERS, STYLON BOWERS, JR., and UNKNOWN HEIRS OF STYLON BOWERS who are heirs or legatees in the above proceeding to probate a will and whose name or address is not stated in the petition to admit the will to probate, that an order was entered by the court on December 16, 2005, admitting the will to probate.

Within 56 days after the effective date of the original order of admission you may file a petition with the court to require proof of the will by testimony of the witnesses to the will in open court or other evidence, as provided in section 6-21 of the Probate Act of 1975 (Ill.Rev.Stat. 1989, ch. 110 1/2, par. 6-21).

You also have the right under section 8-1 of the Probate Act of 1975 (Ill.Rev.Stat. 1989, ch. 110 1/2, par. 8-1) to contest the validity of the will by filing a petition with court within 6 months after admission of the will to probate.

NOTICE OF SALE
PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that pursuant to a Judgment of Foreclosure and Sale entered in the above cause on September 21, 2005, an agent of The Judicial Sales Corporation will at 11:00 AM on February 27, 2006, at the front door of the Lake County Courthouse, 18 North County Street (East Door INSIDE), WAUKEGAN, IL, 60085, sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, as set forth below, the following described real estate:

THE NORTH 7 1/2 FEET OF LOT 39; ALL OF LOT 40; THE SOUTH 10 FEET OF LOT 41 IN BLOCK 69 IN SOUTH WAUKEGAN, BEING A SUBDIVISION OF PART OF THE NORTHEAST 1/4 OF SECTION 5, TOWNSHIP 44 NORTH, RANGE 12, EAST OF THE THIRD PRINCIPAL MERIDIAN, ACCORDING TO RECORDED DECEMBER 20, 1892 AS DOCUMENT 52102, IN BOOK "C" OF PLATS, PAGE 47 IN LAKE COUNTY, ILLINOIS.

Commonly known as 2024 HERVEY AVENUE, North Chicago, IL 60064
Property Index No. 12-05-216-024

The real estate is improved with a single family residence. The judgment amount was $61,745.14.

Sale terms: 25% down of the highest bid by certified funds at the close of the auction; the balance, in certified funds, is due within twenty-four (24) hours. The subject property is subject to general real estate taxes, special assessments, or special taxes levied against said real estate and is offered for sale without any representation as to quality or quantity of title and without recourse to Plaintiff and in "AS IS" condition. The sale is further subject to confirmation by the court.

Upon payment in full of the amount bid, the purchaser will receive a Certificate of Sale that will entitle the purchaser to a deed to the real estate after confirmation of the sale.

The property will NOT be open for inspection and plaintiff makes no representation as to the condition of the property. Prospective bidders are admonished to check the court file to verify all information.

For information, contact Plaintiff's attorney: The sales clerk, FISHER AND SHAPIRO, LLC, 4201 Lake Cook Road, NORTHBROOK, IL 60062, (847) 498-9990 between the hours of 1:00 p.m. and 3:00 p.m. only. Please refer to file number 05-8455D.

Grappling greatness

By Dan Patrick
Sports Editor

The North Suburban Conference has long been a state power in the wrestling arena and last weekend's big NSC Tournament meet proved that point yet again. The 14-team pool provides Lake County teams with a good preview for the upcoming IHSA tournament with so many premier wrestling programs competing for the NSC title.

However, "competing" has become a relative term for the area wrestling scene as Grant continues its dominance over the conference competition. The Bulldogs took home their fourth straight conference title in last week's event.

However, the Bulldogs weren't the only ones having a party as several Lakeland area teams were stellar in the NSC meet with Grant, Libertyville, Warren and Round Lake taking the top four spots in the tournament. Mundelein and Wauconda took sixth and seventh places while Lakes and Antioch took the no. 10 and no. 13 spots, respectively.

Grant was in control from the beginning of the meet until the end, outscoring the second place Wildcats 272-228. Such an impressive performance earned Grant a lot of respect from their conference peers. Libertyville coach Dale Eggert was proud to see his team do so well against such a tough group of wrestlers.

"I think we did pretty well, that was a good tournament," Eggert said. "Obviously, we're not as tough as Grant, but we knew they were the team to beat coming into the tournament."

The Bulldogs might as well have made their own trophy as the NSC title has belonged to the school for the last four years. This year was no different with six Grant champions, Dan Deligio (103), Izzy Montemayor (119), John Deneen (125), Jimmy Kennedy (130), Lucky Ferguson (140) and Joe Barczak (152).

Joel Montemayor and Matt Simon both secured second place finishes in their respective weight classes to score big points for the Bulldogs. However, the big story in the meet was the fourth straight individual title from Kennedy. Having won the event all four years of his varsity career, Kennedy is only the sixth wrestler in conference history to pull off such a feat and stands with a perfect 35-0 record on the season. "We're extremely proud of him because something like that is really impressive," Grant coach Ryan Geist said. "We knew that he was the favorite going into the tournament, but I always tell them to never take any match for granted."

Eggert's Wildcats also had a lot to be proud of with four champions, Jon Henslee (135), Vinnie Sapienza (171), Ryan Manning (189) and Jack Danilkowicz (275) along with second place finishers

Freezing 'assets' for a good cause

As the Midwestern weather continues to play tricks on all of us, I've come to a life-changing conclusion: Who needs warmth anyway? I would gladly have a few fingers frozen off in the name of a Bears Super Bowl run or lots of other sporting events.

There's one sports winter wonderland that has remained untouched by me: "Polar Bear Plunges." I suppose you can't really call jumping into freezing water a "sport," but with Curling making a comeback in this year's Olympics, who's to say it's not a sport?

Polar Bear Plunges have never ceased to amaze me. Whoever came up with the idea to jump into the freezing waters of (insert hypothermia-inducing body of water here) to get a rush was a lunatic. But, whoever was the first to jump into freezing water with a cow, multi-colored clown suit or any other ridiculous Halloween costume, in my opinion, was "eccentric," nay, a genius.

Despite the insanity of such endeavors, they have been used in recent years to raise money for some very worthy causes. One such plunge is the upcoming Law Enforcement Torch Run Polar Plunge that is set to benefit the Special Olympics Illinois.

The Torch Run Polar Plunge is set to begin on various weekends starting Feb. 18 and running through March 5 all over Illinois. While the plunges themselves aren't within Lakeland's coverage area, some of the events are just a short jaunt from our great area. Over the course of the polar plunge season, there will be events in Evanston, Palatine, Manteno, Galesburg, Carlyle, Lake Bluff, Mahomet/Champaign, Rend Lake, Decatur, Springfield, Peoria, Effingham, Quincy, Rockford and Yorkville.

In order to enter, each plunger must collect at least $75 in donations that will go to Special Olympics programs in Illinois. Every participant is guaranteed gifts, will compete for prizes and will be given complementary food.

I've covered a few Special Olympics events in my days and I can tell you from personal experience that they're great for sports fans and everyone to enjoy. The athleticism is pure, kind-hearted and most importantly, competitive. Any donations made to such a worthy cause would be going to the right place.

Overcoming the odds

Bulldogs overcome multiple obstacles en route to division championship

By Dan Patrick

Sports Editor

Stability is something that many teams take for granted. Having a secure roster can often mean the difference between a good season and a disastrous campaign.

Sure, there will be injuries and other unexpected problems that may shake things up a little bit, but a bad season may force a typical coach to run through 10 different lineup changes. As for the Bulldogs, you can double that stat.

Grant, a perennial power in the North Suburban Conference girls basketball scene, have gone through such a myriad of mishaps that coach Tom Oeffling had no choice but laugh at the situation.

"Last year, we had a total of four lineups

'At times, we were playing with just eight girls on our entire roster, but we really rallied and pulled together when it got tough ... they all work so hard that our practices are actually more physical than any of our games.'

Tom Oeffling

in 30 games, this year, we've had 19 lineups in 24 games," Oeffling said. "We've never been able to establish a rotation or a substitution order because so many things have changed over the course of the season."

From the loss of 6-foot-4-inch center Becka Gonyo to illness to losing another of the Bulldogs' best when Kaela Munster was injured in Grant's first game, Oeffling has had to pull more rabbits out of his coaching hat than ever before.

"I thought we'd be good coming into the season, but we lost Gonyo, our number one rebounder and blocker, then we lost Kaela Munster 90 seconds into the season, I reevaluated my expectations," Oeffling said.

Gonyo and Munster weren't the only ones suffering for the Bulldogs. Since the season began, Lauren Liles was unable to play for more than a month from a torn posterior cruciate ligament (PCL), senior forward Shelly Peterson has battled back problems and Tory Ziegler has also been bitten by the injury bug.

What may have hurt Grant fans the most was the caliber of players the Bulldogs were losing as Gonyo, Munster and Ziegler were all on the short list of area all-stars while Liles is the type of defensive stalwart that any team needs to succeed.

Despite the host of maladies, Grant has succeeded to the tune of a 20-5 record at press time and the NSC-Prairie division championship. Such a record deserves the envy of most any team within the Lake County area - especially one that has been through as much as Grant.

The Bulldogs have managed such success thanks to impressive performances from a myriad of Grant players. The team has benefited from Ashley Arff, Heather Sutherland, Heather Ruetsche, Sonya Cellucci, Autumn Gaylor and a host of other players who have brought new meaning to the expression "stepping up."

"At times, we were playing with just eight girls on our entire roster, but we really rallied and pulled together when it got tough," Oeffling said. "They all work so hard that our practices are actually more physical than any of our games."

Arff is currently Grant's biggest offensive threat, averaging 14 points a game while sophomore Jamie Swanson has been spectacular, notching 11 points and 9 rebounds a contest.

"We've had so many girls help take control; Arff stepped up vocally to lead the team, having Lauren Liles back is so helpful because it helps calm us down," Oeffling said. "Shelly Peterson has been great, she doesn't play much, but she's our captain and she's been a good leader for our team."

The senior class's leadership skills could spell even greater things to come in Grant's immediate future with so much underclass talent. Swanson leads a strong sophomore class that should have Grant fans' minds racing with possibilities.

"The sophomores have been really tough and they're starting to grow as players," Oeffling said. "I just hope they aren't satisfied with what they've been able to do this season so they can maximize their potential in the next few seasons."

With such an impressive mark this season, the Bulldog-faithful may not have to look into the future to find success. It seems that the only thing that has been secure for Oeffling this season has been his team's will to win.

"Considering everything that we've been through, we've kept a positive approach all the way," Oeffling said. "This team has been great and hopefully, we'll continue to play well for the tournament."

PREPFILES

LAUREN LILES

Grant Bulldogs

Coaches at all levels typically have a few core values across the board. The most important thing a player can do is work hard and every coach loves results without having to deal with any attitude.

That's what make's Grant's Lauren Liles a coach's dream.

"When she just tore her PCL, her doctors estimated that it would take her anywhere from six to eight weeks to come back; she came back in five," Bulldog coach Tom Oeffling said. "Lauren (Liles) doesn't say much, but she's a competitor. She works hard for every minute she's in the game."

With Liles' return to the lineup, it bolsters an already impressive Grant team that has torn through the NSC-Prairie Division and hit 20 wins in only 25 tries.

"I just want to have a good record for my senior year," Liles said. "My physical therapist told me that I had to stay out six to eight weeks because of my torn PCL, but I just couldn't stay out that long."

According to Oeffling, the old expression "letting the game speak for itself" was tailor-made for Liles' all-or-nothing style of play. Liles is the type of player who would rather sacrifice their body for the team as opposed for any personal gain.

"Liles is really an unsung hero for us because she doesn't get huge stats," Oeffling said. "She's just a steady player for us, who has great 'D,' one of the smallest players on the team, yet she's one of the leaders in rebounding."

Intensity is yet another aspect of Liles' game that Oeffling cannot get enough of. Whether it's a situation where the season's on the line or simply running a drill in practice, Liles is all business, all the time.

"She doesn't loaf, she just goes hard every minute she's playing the game and she doesn't let up when she's in practice too," Oeffling said. "When we're doing sprints, she's always the fastest, so much so that (sophomore) Jamie Swanson tries to stand by her in practice so (Liles) will push her to run harder."

Wauconda continues impressive season

Fresh off of big RL victory, the Bulldogs have their eyes set on North Chicago

By Dan Patrick
Sports Editor

The Wauconda boys basketball team has been on a roller coaster this season, that is, a roller coast that has yet to plunge from atop its initial peak. The Bulldogs currently sit at 15-6 on the season and 7-2 in the North Suburban Conference Prairie Division. Wauconda has been battling

North Chicago for the NSC-Prairie crown throughout the year and the Bulldogs still have the trophy within reach.

The Bulldogs' newfound success can be attributed to a strong stable of steady players. However, one attribute cannot be measured by mere numbers: heart. Early on in the season, Wauconda was able to rack up victories, but had trouble with burying teams.

"It's been a pattern for us allowing teams to get back into the game," Wauconda coach

'We can't just sit back and relax when we're having a year like this. We need to cut down on the little errors that can cost us the game and we should be able to do some things in the tournament.'

Rich Wolf
Bulldog coach

Rich Wolf said early in the season. "It's one of the things we've got to get better at."

The Bulldogs have certainly improved in that aspect notching multiple double-digit victories in the last month of competition and show few signs of slowing down their impressive start.

During Wauconda's game against Round Lake last Friday, the Bulldogs controlled after a strong second quarter, outscoring the hosting Panthers 18-10 in the stanza. Wauconda never looked back from their halftime lead to take the eventual 60-50 victory.

While the Bulldog headlines have been ruled by Tim Schwarz, Steve Bilisko stepped up in the recent game, netting a career-high 24 points in the Round Lake win. Not to be outdone, Schwarz notched 14 in the game and senior Kris Gehrke finished with 9. Consistent Bulldog scorer Jay Grooms did not play in the game.

With the win, Wauconda coach Rich Wolf has been happy with the progress Bilisko and his teammates have made over the course of the season. While the Bulldogs have traditionally been languishing in the .500 range, Wauconda's become a force to be reckoned with on the basketball court.

"I think we've done a great job this season, but we need to keep our heads on our shoulders," Wolf said. "We can't just sit back and relax when we're having a year like this. We need to cut down on the little errors that can cost us the game and we should be able to do some things in the tournament."

While the IHSA tournament stands at about a month away, teams have already begun positioning themselves for good seeding. With the 71-percent winning rate, Wauconda is on the short list of area leaders.

"Every team is fighting for a good seed these days and every game counts, now more than ever," Wolf said. "We've still got some important games left on our schedule and we need to be ready for every one."

The importance of Wauconda's games in the coming weeks is evident as the Bulldogs have to lock horns with NSC-Prairie foes Vernon Hills, North Chicago and Antioch. The Warhawks should provide the biggest test for the hard-charging Bulldogs as the two teams have been competing for the division title all season long.

The high-powered North Chicago team features a strong offense that has buried the likes of the Antioch Sequoias by 48 points in a recent game. The Warhawks are led by the dangerous trio of Deandre Moton, Brandon Smith and Tracy Thomas, which should provide an interesting match-up against Wauconda's stable of playmakers.

"They've got a good team this season, there's no doubt about it," Wolf said. "North Chicago is the team to beat in the conference right now and we have to tools to beat them. It's just a matter of whether or not we're in the right mindset to pull out a victory."

With one of the best starts in recent memory, Wauconda has a real chance to

Bulldog brilliance

After struggling to an 11-14 mark last season, the Bulldogs have already surpassed their 2004-2005 win total with games left in the regular season.

The Wauconda boys basketball team is off to its best start in years, but do they have what it takes to make a run deep into the IHSA tournament? Here's look at the Bulldogs' remaining schedule.

Feb. 3 at Vernon Hills
7:30 p.m.

The Cougars are a dangerous team that has handed Wauconda rival North Chicago a tough loss earlier in the season.

Feb. 10 vs. North Chicago 7:30 p.m.*

The Warhawks and Bulldogs are locked in a close race for the NSC-Prairie title, will home court advantage be enough for Wauconda?

Feb. 14 vs. Westminster Christian 7 p.m.

This non-conference match-up should provide some rest from NSC rivals.

Feb. 17 vs. Antioch
7:30 p.m.

Antioch could be dangerous with the return of Matt "Behm Machine" Behm to the lineup. If all goes to plan, Wauconda should have the conference wrapped up by then.

Feb. 21 vs. Lake Forest
7 p.m.

Momentum is everything in basketball and ending the season on the right foot can mean the difference between a deep IHSA tourney run and a huge disappointment. The Bulldogs should be ready for a challenge.

Antioch controls in final NSC Tournament while Warren, Grant, Libertyville, Lakes turn in respectable performances

Chalk up yet another sport with North Suburban Conference excellence as 10 area teams locked horns at the Brunswick Deer Park Lanes last Friday. The NSC meet showcased some of the best teams the area had to offer with Antioch and Zion-Benton going the distance in the conference finale. However, you didn't have to be a Sequoit or a Zee-Bee to enjoy the action.

The Sequoits were caught in a dogfight with eventual meet champion Zion-Benton throughout the tournament. One-on-one, Antioch and Zion split games 3-3, with the Zee-Bees winning the first game by only three pins. The close finish in the first game set the stage for the rest of the meet as the two teams traded blows in subsequent games.

"I'm very pleased with the way we played today, I thought we bowled with a lot of poise considering the importance of this meet," Antioch coach Steven Haenchen said. "For the last few weeks, we haven't been bowling our best game and I think we did a good job today."

An outsider's perspective on the action had Antioch playing much better than Haenchen would let on as the Sequoits finished second behind a nearly invincible Zion-Benton team. While Antioch's score was 85 pins off the champion's pace, the Sequoits destroyed the rest of the field, outscoring third place finisher Vernon Hills by nearly 300 pins.

Individually, the Sequoits were unstoppable with Christy Sternberg, Kim Schmit, Jen Schreiber and Danielle Hartmann all finishing in the top ten. Even Antioch's final bowler cracked the top 20 as Candice Schmidt finished with a 1,026 score for a the no. 20 spot. Sternberg's 234 in the first game was also the best individual score of the meet.

Antioch wasn't the only Lakeland team in the hunt during the meet as Warren, Grant and Libertyville were fighting in the middle of the pack all day long. All three teams' performances were marked by peaks and valleys with some games logging 900 scores while others dropped into the mid-700's. Blue Devil fans had a lot to be proud of with their fourth place finish as Warren, led by Laquechia Rogers' 1,118 score, averaged 840 pins a game. Coach Rick Novak was impressed by Rogers' game, but has come to expect as much from his senior leader.

"She's been great and I think she bowled a good game today," Novak said. "She's the one all the girls look up to and she did well."

Rogers was the lone Blue Devil in the top 20, but Heather Shaw and Dani Thul placed at no. 21 and no. 23, respectively. Thul was the last competitor to break 1,000 pins in the tournament.

Grant had good days from Amy Salee (1,073) and Jenn Pearson (1,046) all breaking into the top 20. The Bulldogs also received solid efforts from Emily Caballero (998) and Jami Crouch (981), but they weren't enough to overtake Warren.

Libertyville was led by Rita Lichamer (1,030) and Christie Hoffman (987), but according to Libertyville coach Gwen Markson, the sixth place finish was due to open frames late in the contest.

"I thought we were consistent in the morning, but we made some mistakes that just cannot be made at a meet like this," Wildcat coach Gwen Markson said. "Four of our girls did not mark in the tenth frame and that cost us in the meet."

Libertyville's day was finished off with an exclamation mark as the Wildcats scored a 917 in the final game after logging two straight games in the 700's. Prior to the final set, Libertyville was averaging 802 pins per game. If the Wildcats would have continued with their pace, they would have dropped behind Stevenson in the final standings.

"They just kicked it up in the last game. Everyone had their highest scores of the day in that game," Markson said. "It was a good team effort and that last game showed what we can do when we play together as a team and not just try and get good individual scores."

Lakes was unable to make it into the top half of the competing teams, but had respectable efforts from Amanda Pischke (914) and Claire Seaver (874), who finished at no. 35 and no. 41, respectively. Despite the low finish, the Eagles were able to easily overpower the North Chicago Warhawks, to the tune of 125 pins.

With Antioch's strong finish in the meet, the Sequoits have all but secured a valid shot at the state title this season. Haenchen was proud of his team and his conference with so many NSC competitors bringing their best game to the final tournament.

"I'm absolutely glad to bowl against so many good teams," Haenchen said. "If you're going to prepare for the IHSA tourney, you might as well do it with the best and I'd bet one of these teams is going to make a run for the state title."

GRAPPLING

Trey Ayala and Ted Strychalski.

"I thought the NSC meet was very encouraging," Eggert said. "The best thing we gained from this tournament was experience against good wrestlers. Looking from an individual standpoint, we did well. Hopefully this week we can follow that up on into the regionals."

Warren's day was punctuated with a big win by Brennan Drew (145), but the Blue Devils were able to secure their third place spot with runner-up finishes from Justin Carlson (160) and Willie Brooks (171). Warren was also able to garner points from four wrestlers logging third or fourth place finishes.

The Round Lake Panthers had a truly impressive outing, logging three championships Dillon Pousson (112), Josh Terrell (160) and Chris Larsen (215). Dillon's brother Derrick also logged a second place finish in the 119 while Ray Bryant and Ryan Barnard scored third place finishes.

"I think we've been a sleep all year long and we're finally getting some respect with how well we did at the NSC tournament meet," Round Lake coach John Jobst said. "We wrestled really well, we had three champs, one second place and two thirds for the day, so I'm proud with the way we did."

Larsen's big win in the 215 came as a surprise to the Panther coaching staff while Dillon Pousson took home his second straight conference title.

"I thought Chris (Larsen)'s win in the 215 was pretty unexpected because he pinned the no. 1 seed to take the title," Jobst said. "Hopefully he can carry this momentum on into the regional."

Sixth-place Mundelein benefited from strong runner-up performances from Joe Winberg (135) and Jason Hensgen (152). Unfortunately, Hensgen was injured in his title bout.

Wauconda logged third place finishes from Scott Carlson, Nick Swanson, Rob Champion and Scott Hoy. The upstart Lakes Eagles also had nice finishes from Tyler Hall and Homes, who finished second and third in their respective weight classes.

With so many fine wrestlers in the area, many coaches hold the NSC conference meet as a sort of junior IHSA tournament. Hopefully, all of the teams can continue their momentum into the future.

"This meet is a great way to tune up for the state tournament," Jobst said. "There are some of the best wrestlers in the state up here and the only way you're going to compete with teams of that caliber is by facing them."

SIDELINES

In terms of the Polar Plunge itself, you may even see me in my most prized Halloween costume: Hulk Hogan. As the Hulkster would say, "Whatcha gonna do when a good cause comes calling for you?"

Speaking of wrestling, the Libertyville and Grant wrestling teams have made names for themselves as they were both ranked amongst the state's top 20. Amongst wrestlers ranked in the top ten of their respective weight classes were Grant's John Deneen (119), Jimmy Kennedy (130) and Libertyville's were Ted Strychalski (125), John Henslee (130), Ryan Manning (189) and Jack Danilkowicz (Heavyweight).

I guess if Carmel's 30-1 275-pounder Dan Clinton can't make that list, it must be pretty prestigious.

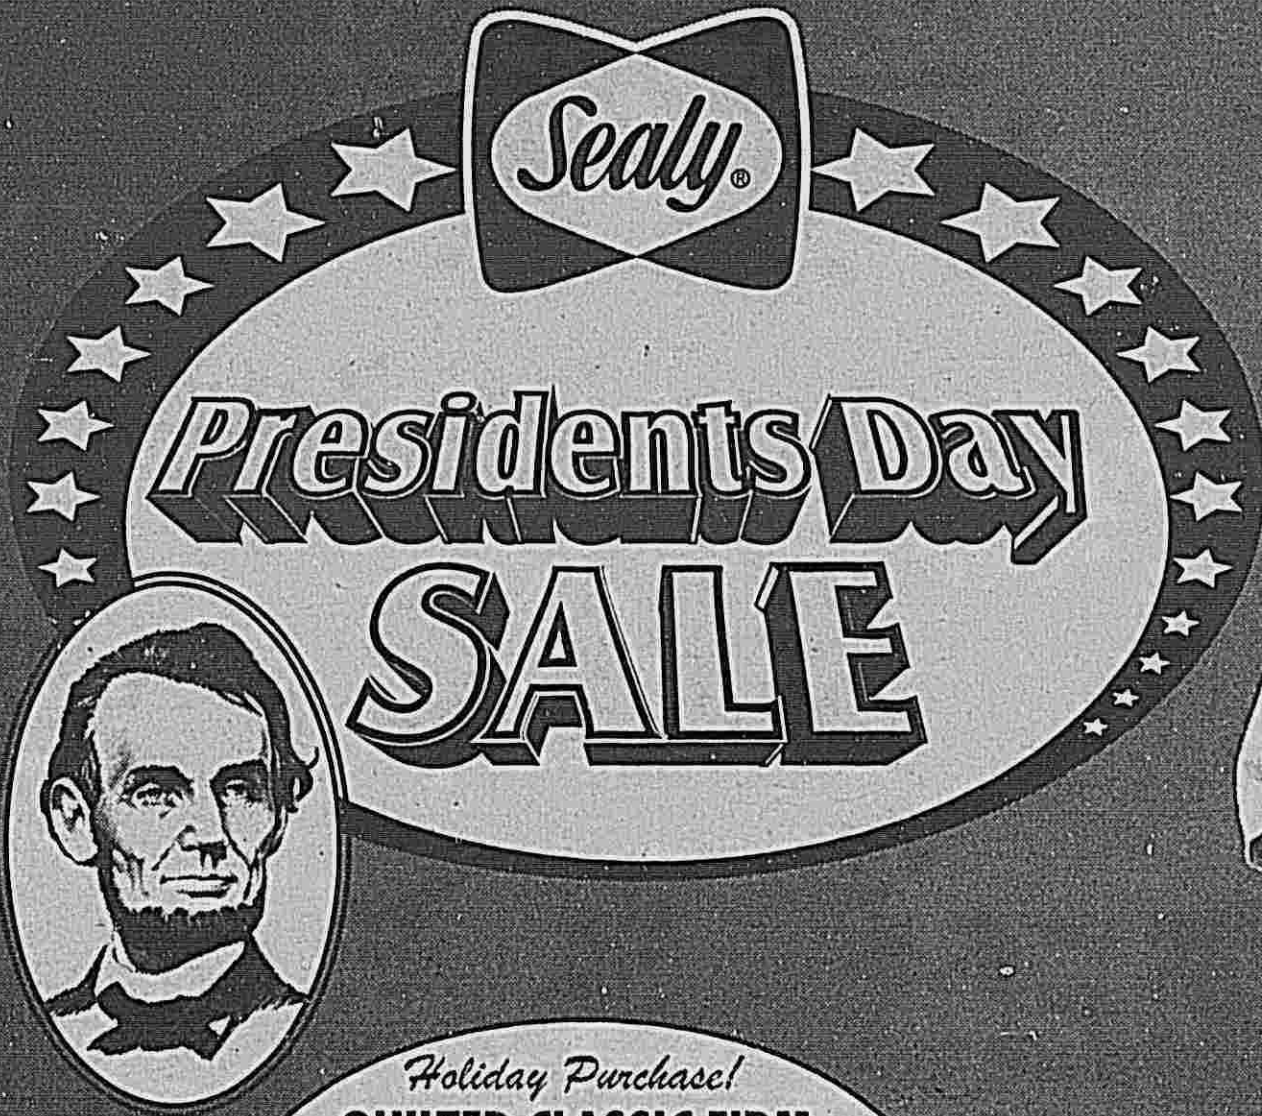

Former Antioch gymnast Angel Simonini has made a big name for herself at the University of Wisconsin. The former Sequoit turned Warhawk was a big part of a vault team that notched one of the best scores in her college's history. Simoni's five-person vault team logged a score of 44.15, the 18th highest score since Wisconsin-Whitewater started gymnastics competition.

Two more Corsairs will be throwing their hats into D-1 football action next season. Sean McGrath, a 6-foot-5-inch 215-pound tight end has verbally committed to the United States Military Academy at West Point. McGrath's teammate Sean Murnane, a 6'2" 240-pound defensive end will be attending Central Michigan to play for the Chippewas.

Murnane was a first team All-Lakeland defensive player while McGrath was named to the All-Lakeland offensive second team. Congratulations and good luck to them both.

Q: "What do you think about Lake County's

NICK
Libertyville

"Well, I used to live in New York, but Lake County's air still isn't that great ... I'm sure the county's air could get a lot better. It's no L.A., but we can do better."

KATY
PONTE
Lake Villa

"Compared to other cities it's not terrible, but it could be better. I think the more Lake County grows, the more mass transportation should become available."

TAWN

School offers MBA program in Grayslake

By Kathy Gresey
Staff Reporter

Lake Forest Graduate School of Management (LFGSM) is pleased to announce that a Lake Forest MBA can now be earned in Grayslake, thanks to a progressive arrangement with Lake Forest

Hospital. In April of 2006, LFGSM will be offering its MBA program on Saturday mornings in a state-of-the-art classroom at Lake Forest Hospital's Outpatient and Acute Care Center in Grayslake.

"Today's business professionals face busy careers and growing families. However, they still want to advance their careers by gaining the skills and knowledge a strong reputable MBA program provides," said LFGSM's President and CEO John Popoli. "As the fastest growing district in Lake County, the Grayslake area has seen rapid growth in the number of business professionals facing these challenges. In fact, 250 of our current Lake Forest and Schaumburg campus students live in the Grayslake area." Popoli said, "Now, thanks to our hosts at Lake Forest Hospital, Grayslake-area residents entering our program can pursue their Lake Forest MBA close to home on Saturdays, and still be home in time for lunch with their families."

Aside from seeing the understated Lake Forest Hospital signs outside the building (on Route 120 between Route 45 and Route 83), most of the students attending Lake Forest MBA classes on Saturday mornings won't even know that they are in an outpatient and acute care center...which is precisely how Lake Forest Hospital designed it.

"We're trying to break down the barriers of what most people think of when they go to the doctor or to get a CAT scan," said Jim Killian, vice president of Lake Forest Hospital. "From the minute people walk in the door, they will see that we are not like any other medical facility they have experienced."

Since its grand opening in April of 2004 to its ever-increasing use by civic and business networking groups, Lake Forest Hospital's Grayslake facility has been unlike any other on the North Shore.

"As a not-for-profit organization, we need to establish and maintain business relationships for the betterment of the community," Killian said. "So, when Lake Forest Graduate School of Management approached us about utilizing our multi-purpose meeting room as an on-site classroom, we felt that it would be a win-win proposition for ourselves and our neighbors in the community."

Just like their peers at the Lake Forest, Chicago and Schaumburg campuses, students earning their Lake Forest MBA at Lake Forest Hospital in Grayslake will "Learn From Experience" from LFGSM's 100 percent practitioner faculty. LFGSM instructors are successful business leaders, ranging from positions as key executives in Fortune 500 companies to innovative entrepreneurs.

"The Lake Forest MBA is based on a practical business education model that combines solid business theory with real-world application," Popoli said. "Plus, you benefit from personal access to the experience and expertise of the industry leaders who teach the classes, as well as your fellow students who are business professionals with an average of 13 years of professional experience."

Classes will be held on Saturday mornings from 8 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. starting April 15. For more information and to find out how you can enroll to achieve your Lake Forest MBA at Lake Forest Hospital in Grayslake, visit www.LakeForestMBA.edu/Grayslake or contact Amy Gregozeski, admissions manager at 847.574.5180 or agregozeski@lfgsm.edu.

Bartels withdraws from 8th District race

By Nate Legue

nlegue@nwnewsgroup.com

The willingness of several Republicans to pour immense personal resources into their campaigns for the 8th Congressional District nomination has forced one candidate to call it quits.

Teresa Bartels, a Mundelein businesswoman who once ran the local Manpower franchise, announced Tuesday that she would withdraw from the March 21 GOP primary rather than put more of her own cash into the race.

Bartels

"While I have invested some personal money in my campaign, I do not feel it is practical to compete with the $1 million or more some of the other candidates are willing to spend," Bartels said in a written withdrawal statement.

Bartels' exit from the crowded field seven weeks before the election highlights the Republicans' fundraising plight in this primary. With seven candidates who were vying for GOP donations, most have had to put significant personal wealth behind their bids to challenge U.S. Rep. Melissa Bean, the freshman Democrat with nearly

The following is a statement by Teresa Bartels:

"While I believed that I was the best candidate to defeat Melissa Bean, I know that Kathy Salvi is the only other candidate who can defeat her. Kathy's commitment to reducing taxes and spending, to winning the war on terror and her commitment to the conservative values of Illinois families, make her an outstanding candidate - one that I am proud to endorse."

This race was never about me—I ran because I wanted the Party to have the strongest candidate to take back this seat for the Republican Party in November—and the strongest candidate for our Party is Kathy Salvi.

Chuck and I and the entire Bartels family wish Kathy and her family all of God's blessings in the coming weeks and months. And we all look forward to working hard every day to help Kathy on to victory against Melissa Bean in November."

Lough named Executive Editor of Weekly and Niche Publications

A newspaper veteran with more than 30 years' experience in community journalism has been named Executive Editor of Weekly and Niche Publications for NorthWest New Group, announced by Chris Krug, Group Editor and Vice President.

In this new role, Larry will oversee daily editorial operations of NorthWest News Group weeklies in Grayslake and Sycamore, and also the newly acquired bilingual publication, El Conquistador.

"Because of Lake County's growth and the competitive media environment, our Grayslake's office is an exciting place for a journalist to be," Lough said. "I'm happy to be working with a talented staff as we'll strive to do an even better job of serving the needs and wants of Lakeland's readers."

"We are fortunate to have a leader with Larry's experience and ability on our team," Krug said.

"Lakeland already is recognized as one of the best weekly newspapers in the state, and we fully expect Larry's guiding hand to make us even better."

He joined NorthWest News Group in 2003 when he became managing editor of training and development for the Northwest Herald in Crystal Lake. Before that, Lough was the editor of The Star Press in Muncie, Ind., where he spent most of his career.

While in Indiana, Lough was a leader of Freedom of Information Editors. He was honored with the Distinguished Service Award from the Hoosier State Press Association and the Indiana Journalism Award from Ball State University in Muncie, where he was an adjunct professor of journalism for 17 years. Lough is 56 years old and has been married to his wife, Jane, for 32 years. They have a 29-year-old son and a 20-year-old daughter.

Fundraising gets a lift

By Esther Cepeda

Special to Lakeland Media

After several difficult years following the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks, donations to America's charities broke records with the outpouring of money to provide relief to tsunami victims and, most recently, to the victims of Hurricane Katrina. Despite the 2005 increase in charitable donations, small non-profit groups are still facing exceptional challenges. Still, analysts predict the economy to grow at a 3 percent pace in 2006, and many nonprofit groups are feeling the itch to become more ambitious in their fundraising efforts.

Non-profit groups all over the northern suburbs will benefit from a new partnership between the College of Lake County and the Donors Forum of Chicago. The opening of the Lake County Philanthropy Center brings much needed fundraising and management resources to Lake County.

"We started plans to partner with CLC last year. Our market research showed that there are approximately 1,900 non-profit organizations in Lake County, making it the third largest concentration of non-profits in the state," said Jelene Britten, Communications Manager for the Donors Forum of Chicago.

The Lake County Philanthropy Center will offer guides on proposal writing and access to grant-maker databases such as "Illinois Funding Source" and "Wealth Engine" to assist in fundraising efforts. Books and periodicals on nonprofit management, grant writing and how to find people to invest in worthy causes are also available.

Librarians will be on hand to assist patrons with their research and free training programs will be offered periodically by the Donors Forum to help nonprofit staff and volunteers learn how to use the resources to pursue grant opportunities.

the Philanthropy Center a useful tool for local organizations seeking to fund their programs.

"For me, it's a convenience issue," said Kay Severns, Director of Development for Township District 114 Highland Park/Deerfield. "I went down to the city's facility once but now that it's in Lake County, I'll go more often."

"Having it there gets me in the groove of going there for resources to fund the special projects that our kids wouldn't otherwise be able to do. I can just go to the computer and look, is there a grant for x, y, or z?"

In addition to serving social service centers such as Mano-a-Mano, Christian Outreach of Lutherans, and a Safe Place, The Lake County Philanthropy Center is also open to the public during regular CLC library hours, including evenings and weekends.

"The Lake County Philanthropy Center will provide a wealth of information to help suburban nonprofits run their organizations and improve their effectiveness," said Claudette Baker, vice president of library and nonprofit services at the Donors Forum.

Connie Bakker, dean of the Learning Resource Center at the College of Lake County added, "The Philanthropy Center will enrich the College of Lake County and help us better serve the local nonprofit community."

$1.4 million in her campaign bank account. Former investment banker David McSweeney lent $664,000 to his campaign last quarter, bringing his self-funding debt to just shy of $1 million.

McSweeney's move triggered the so-called "millionaire's amendment," a campaign-finance rule that triples the fundraising limits for his primary opponents.

"I want to run a first-rate campaign, so I'm willing to invest in it," McSweeney said.

Although McSweeney indicated early on that he would spend his own money to win, several other candidates have followed suit. In fact, campaign coffers for McSweeney, Mundelein lawyer Kathy Salvi, Lake Villa state Rep. Robert Churchill, and Gurnee consultant Ken Arnold all would be in the red without substantial personal loans, according to Federal Election Commission filings.

In the meantime, Bean's fundraising strength dwarfs her would-be opponents. She raised more in contributions — $338,616 from individuals and political action committees — than all the Republicans combined.

With Bean's coffers brimming after raising $1.8 million in 2005, Bean's campaign came out swinging this week and argued that despite the race's national prominence, even Republican leaders admitted that she would be difficult to unseat this year.

"Remember, I beat the longest-serving Republican in Congress on $1.6 million," Bean said.

Congressional Quarterly, a nonpartisan political journal, ranked the race a Democratic-leaning one because of Bean's robust fundraising and the lack of a clear Republican front-runner, said Grég Giroux, senior writer.

But Cook Political Report, another Washington horse-race guide to congressional elections, still calls the race a toss-up.

"You have a freshman Democrat in a Republican-leaning seat," said Amy Walter, senior analyst for the report. "She's at the height of her vulnerability. At the same time, the political climate is not working against her."

AROUND THE COUNTY

Clerk plans special touches for Valentines day weddings

"It may not be as dramatic as Tina and Tony's Wedding," county Clerk Willard Helander said, "but couples planning on being married at the Lake County courthouse complex on Feb. 14, 2006 will enjoy a special day." The first couple married on Valentine's Day will receive a box of chocolates and have their picture taken for the Clerks website and/or local newspapers. Every couple married that day will receive the traditional long-stemmed flower, and will have the option of celebrating their vows under a brass arch entwined with flowers loaned by Pierce Florist of Waukegan.

Those planning to marry on Valentine's Day must apply in person for a license at the Lake County Clerk's office at least one day prior, for the license to be valid. Both applicants must appear in person and be 18 years of age or older. Persons 16 or 17 years of age may marry after both parents sign a consent form.

Although not a service of the County Clerks office, local ministerial association Clergy will be available to perform ceremonies in the lobby of the County Building from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Feb. 14. Judges from the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit are also available from 2:30 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Call the County Clerk's office at 847-377-2400 during our normal business hours, Monday to Thursday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Friday 8:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m., for more information on this special day or other related questions.

Summer Youth Employment Hotline Opens Feb. 1

The Lake County Board has awarded a grant to the Workforce Development Department to continue the Summer Youth Employment Program in 2006. Qualified youth must call the summer youth employment hotline beginning Feb. 1 to add their name to the waiting list. The hotline phone number is 847-377-3443.

There are limited positions available in each community and positions will be granted on a first-come, first-serve basis. Walk-in or mailed in information will also be accepted for waiting list placement at Workforce Development, 1 N. Genesee St., Waukegan.

The 2006 Summer Youth Employment Program is open to Lake County youth ages 14 to 15 who meet the program's low-income criteria (free/reduced lunch at school qualifies) or youth ages 14 to 21 who have a documented disability.

The Lake County Board and the Workforce Development Department are committed to empowering our young leaders of tomorrow. Lake County residents interested in participating in the Summer Youth Employment Program must call the Summer Youth Employment Hotline at 847-377-3443 beginning on Feb. 1.

Girl Scout cookie program now underway

Girls Scouts-Illinois Crossroads Council's annual Girl Scout cookie program is taking place in its 102 member communities in Lake County. Girl Scout cookies are on sale for $4 per box, and are available to order through Jan. 30, with delivery taking place Feb. 25 to March 25. All proceeds support Girl Scouting in local communities. Additional information on Girl Scout cookie sales can be obtained by telephoning: 847-573-0500.

AutoMARK-new ballot marking system

The Lake County Clerk's office has announced two important additions to the electoral process in Lake County. The ES&S AutoMARK Voting System will be available in all polling locations in Lake County for the March 2006 election. The AutoMARK is a ballot-marking system designed to provide privacy and accessibility to voters who are blind, vision-impaired, or have a disability or condition that would make it difficult or impossible to mark a ballot in the usual way. The accessible interfaces allow voters with disabilities to mark their ballot in private without being treated differently.

In addition, state law now provides early voting for any person, without reason (i.e. not required to be absent, physically disabled, etc.) beginning 22 days prior to Election Day through the Thursday before Election Day beginning with the March 21, General Primary Election.

These changes will improve accessibility in the voting process, but also change the process for reporting election results.

Four who wish to be Gov. state their cases at forum

By Steve Peterson

Staff Reporter

Illinois State Treasurer Judy Barr Topinka, Rod Gidwitz, Bill Brady and Jim Oberweis had stated their plans for an improved Illinois if they are fortunate to win the Republican nomination for governor and defeat Gov. Rod Blagojevich this November.

The local event was the four townships sponsored Republican forum at Round Lake Park District. About 170 residents attended the event, hosted by Grant, Avon, Lake Villa and Antioch Republicans.

"Like most Illinoisans, Obwerwis wants to put an end to business as usual in state government. Jim's life experience makes him the right person to bring reform to Illinois," Obwerwis said through a spokesman. Oberweis has stated that he will not accept any campaign contributions from companies doing business with state government. Oberweis favors rolling back state tax and fee increases, "that have hurt taxpayers and drive jobs out of Illinois."

Oberweis has had a successful career in the financial industry, becoming a nationally known business analyst. Oberweis Asset Management, run by his son, Jim, manages more than $1.7 billion in assets. The family is known for Oberweis Dairy and Ice Cream Stores, with 1,000 employees in 39 locations.

"He knows that in business and in state government, expenses should never exceed revenues. Oberweis believes in the strong core GOP values that appeal to Democrats in southern Illinois and will get them to cross-over," said Joe Wiggand, an Oberweis spokesman.

The Illinois Economic Development Commission, the Chicago Chamber of Commerce, have endorsed Gidwitz.

Gidwitz said his best endorsement was when State Sen. Steve Rauschberger (R-Elgin) dropped out of the race and accepted the role as lieutenant governor candidate. Gidwitz is the former head of the Illinois State Board of Education.

"We have to challenge the politics of the past, and give our kids and grandkids the chance to enjoy the benefits that we did," Gidwitz said.

Topinka said that, as the first GOP treasurer in 30 years, that she has brought advancement to the office's services. She pointed to programs such as Bright Star, the college savings plan, and the effort to return assets, $300 million, to Illinois citizens. Topinka is running with DuPage County State's Attorney Joe Birkett.

"People don't mind paying taxes if they think that they are getting a value for their money," Topinka said. "Gov. Blagojevich's speech of the State of The State was nothing more than a 'chicken in every pot' and programs that he has no intention of paying for. The lying has to stop. He has got to go. We don't trust them," she said.

Also present was State Sen. Bill Brady of Bloomington. He has 12 years experience in the state House of Representatives, and has run a family business in real estate and development in central Illinois for 25 years.

Brady believes in creating jobs, working to revitalize the Illinois economy, curtailing frivolous lawsuits and repealing unfair taxes and fees on business. He has been endorsed locally by Wauconda Township Republicans.

"I know how to get the job done. In 25 years in business, I have learned that you work best when you have a plan. I believe I can end the culture of corruption, eliminate the education bureaucracy, and pledge to balance the budget and say not to tax increases. I am 100 percent pro life, the Second Amendment," Brady said.

On what to do about illegal immigration in Illinois:

"It is a federal issue. We need to do a better job of public safety. If they are here, we should be making sure that they are paying taxes," Topinka said.

"We should work with the federal government to protect our borders. I'm against the guest worker program and any amnesty," Brady said.

On the impact of taxes and wages not keeping up:

"Property taxes are a terrible problem. We should reduce the taxes and fees imposed by Blagojevich. That would increase our funding by $1 million. We should work for efficiencies that we can pull together," Brady said.

On schools, Gidwitz said that funding is a real problem, since 80 percent of schools are in deficit spending.

Brady said he favors home school tax credits, with an increase in accountability in education system.

Birkett was the only lieutenant governor candidate on hand. "We are going to come together and work hard to defeat Blagojevich. I am a career public servant. It is not something that is dirty, but its image has been tarnished. I want to go back to the image of Ronald Reagan and Lincoln," Birkett said.

The Saturday forum featured candidates for state senate, state representative, county office, Congress and judge.

Voyage to Japan fun set for youth at Discovery Museum

Young anime fans may extend their knowledge of Japanese culture through origami and other crafts on a Voyage to Japan at the Lake County Discovery Museum. Create a paper lantern and koi to take home and sample Japanese candies and treats. The event will be Feb. 5 from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Voyage to Japan is for children age 5 to 7 with an adult. The cost is $7 per child, $5 for Lake County residents and $6 per adult. Cost includes admission to the Museum to view the special exhibit, "Anime-zing: The World of Japanese Animation."

The Lake County Discovery Museum is located on Route 176 just west of Fairfield Road and east of Wauconda within Lakewood Forest Preserve. Gallery hours are Monday through Saturday, from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and Sunday from 1 to 4:30 p.m. The Museum is closed on Dec. 25 and Jan. 1.

Admission is for $6 for adults and $2.50 for youth ages 4 to 17. Children age 3 and under are admitted free. Seniors are $2.50 after 2 p.m. on Discount Tuesdays, admission is $3 for adults, and youth 17 years and under are free. Admission is always free for members of the Friends of the Lake County Discovery Museum.

For information about Voyage to Japan, the Anime-zing museum exhibition, or to download discount admission coupons, visit www.LakeCountyDiscoveryMuseum.org or call the exhibit hotline at 847-968-3393.

Law enforcement officers probe death of infant

Wauconda Police Department and Lake County Sheriff's Department are investigating the death of an infant.

The 911 call was received by Wauconda dispatchers at 12:22 p.m. on Jan. 31. Rescue and police units were dispatched to 1204 Water Stone Circle, the home of Kimberley and Ernest Willingham about a one-half year and six-month old male child with asthma having difficulty breathing, who was unresponsive and not conscious. Wauconda Police officers arrived and initiated CPR until the arrival of Wauconda Fire Department paramedics. Paramedics then transported the child to Good Shepherd

Hospital in Barrington for treatment.

The child was pronounced deceased at Good Shepherd Hospital shortly after 1:15 p.m. The investigation of the death continues by Wauconda Police with the assistance of Lake County Sheriff's Police, Lake County Coroner and Department of Children and Family Services.

"Lake County has a protocol for sudden death investigations and we're following it," said Wauconda Deputy Chief Pat Yost in a Feb. 1 statement.

An update on the investigation was expected on Feb. 2.

Teens behind many crashes

Teenagers just old enough to drive might have a tough time proving they ought to have licenses before their 18th birthdays. But they don't have to worry about losing their case and waiting until they are 18 to get their driver's licenses.

State Rep. John D'Amico, D-Chicago, wrote the legislation to increase the minimum driving age to 18, but he knows that it has no chance of winning approval.

D'Amico wants to make a point. Teen-agers can be dangerous on the road. Driving fatalities prove it. Two teenagers in his district were killed in crashes in December.

Based on crashes of all severity, the per-mile rate for 16- to 19-year-olds is four times higher than for older drivers, according to the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety. Compared with 18-and 19-year-olds, 16-year-olds are double the risk.

In 2004, teenagers accounted for 10 percent of the population but 13 percent of motor-vehicle deaths nationally. Of 42,600 fatalities, 5,600 deaths were 13- to 19-year-olds. The leading cause of death among teenagers in 2002 was motor-vehicle crashes, with 6,000 fatalities. Homicide was second at 2,000.

In Illinois, teenagers make up 6 percent of the population but 16 percent of auto fatalities. In 2004, 1,356 people died in crashes. The math suggests that more than 200 of them were teenagers.

A big part of the problem is the age of the drivers. They can lack the maturity needed to drive. They do not have enough experience driving. They take more risks. They cannot recognize and respond to hazards, according to the Insurance Institute.

Withholding driver's licenses until age 18 is not realistic, even though driving is a privilege and not a right, and even though they are operating heavy equipment that can kill people.

But restrictions for drivers 16 and 17 years old should be toughened in Illinois. You have to be at least 15 years old to get a driving permit, but cannot drive unless accompanied by a parent or legal guardian.

Teenagers can get driver's licenses at age 16. But they have to wait six months before they can have more than one passenger. Sixteen-year-olds cannot drive after curfew, which varies by municipality, without a parent or legal guardian.

Teenagers should be allowed to drive, but only with strict conditions, starting high and decreasing with age.

Penalties for teenage drivers should be toughened. Caught speeding? Run a red light? Pay a larger fine than adults and lose your driver's license for six months. On a second offense, lose it until 18.

Because immaturity, inexperience and risk-taking are major factors in crashes and fatalities among 16- and 17-year-olds, the law might provide for a learner's permit, allowing them to drive, but only when accompanied by a parent or legal guardian.

Teenagers mature with age and become better drivers with behind-the-wheel experience. But that experience should come with Mom or Dad in the passenger seat.

Americans are wed to their cars, and the romance takes full bloom at 16. But the flowers can be fatal.

Greenspan loomed large

Alan Greenspan retired this week as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, possibly the second most powerful position in the country. And you might overlook the end of his 18 1/2-year reign in breathless anticipation for the State of the Union address by President Bush, who is the most powerful person in the country.

If you pay a mortgage, if you got a loan to buy a car, if you have a savings account or stock investments, Greenspan, 79, has loomed in the background of your life.

It is the Federal Reserve chairman who calls the shots.

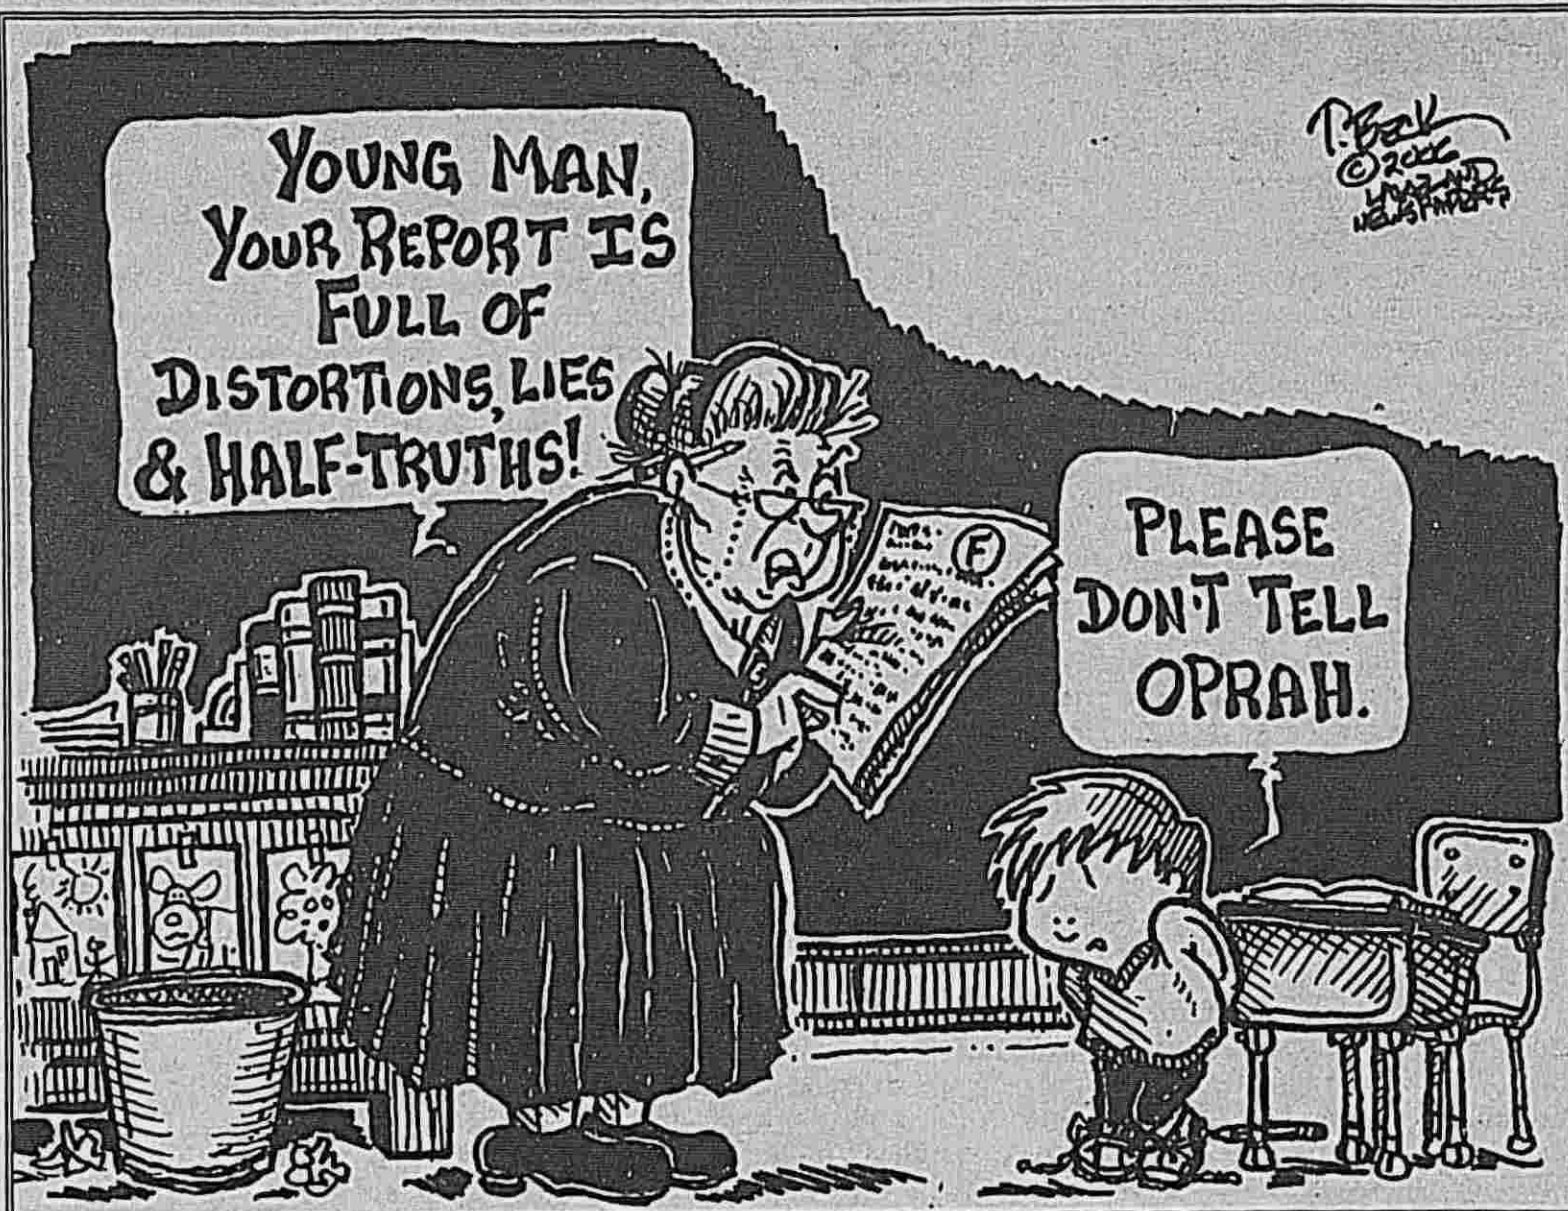

As chairman of the Federal Reserve, the second longest in its history, his legacy might be as long as that of a Supreme Court Justice.

Greenspan and the United States have had a wild ride since President George H.W. Bush appointed him chairman in 1987. President Clinton kept him, and President Bush reappointed him. Greenspan was that respected.

The stock market crashed two months after he took office. He was chairman through two mild recessions, through the longest continuous expansion of the economy, as well as the dot.com crash, the shock waves of the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks, war in Iraq, and most recently, dramatic increases in fuel prices after Hurricane Katrina.

He leaves office with a long string of interest-rate increases, and his successor, Ben Bernanke, faced with the next step in controlling inflation. He advocates setting limits on it, which Greenspan has opposed. Bernanke might see the fallout of a booming housing market and unprecedented budget deficits. Japan, China and Britain hold the biggest blocks of Treasury securities.

Greenspan's reputation today is sterling. But his place in history has yet to be set, when the long-term effects of his policies settle on the generation to come.

Making and taking back promises

COMMENTARY

The future is always bright with the gleaming starlight of promise, the present standing as the springboard on which one jumps into utopia. Of course, the past is easily left behind, erased from memory. Politicians count on this. It's so easy in January of an election year to throw feel-good initiatives at the wall to see what will stick. Ignore for a moment the laundry list of promises the governor's race has generated and take a look at some other modest proposals.

The Medicare Part D program has proven a logistical nightmare compounded by the ill-health and resource-poor demographics of the very people it's supposed to serve. The best course would have been for our elected officials to demand better preparation and security nets for the highest-risk recipients before the switch to this highly complex program.

Instead, Rep. Rahm Emanuel (D-Ill.) is suggesting $1,000 debit cards to help seniors pay for their medicine— an idea modeled on relief for victims of Hurricane Katrina. We all remember how well that worked.

In reaction to a cluster of tragic car crashes involving teens behind the wheel, Rep. John D'Amico (D-Chicago) is proposing pushing the age to attain a driver's permit to 17—the highest in the nation. The state Department of Transportation says that in 2004 fatalities of drivers 15 to 19 made up 8.5 percent of all driver deaths in Illinois. Compare that to the 45 percent of all Illinois traffic fatalities which were alcohol related. The age group responsible for more alcohol-related fatal crashes than any other: 21 to 34 year olds. Perhaps, just to be on the safe side, no one under the age of 40 should be on the road.

Speaking of being mature enough to handle heavy machinery, Lt. Governor Pat Quinn would like the state to buy 170,000 laptops and provide every seventh-grader in the state with one, presumably to provide students with 21st-century learning skills. At an estimated annual cost of $50 million dollars, and with no mention of funding or possible revenue source, one has to wonder when the last time Lt. Governor Quinn spent any time with a typical 13-year-old who's usually responsible for the household techno-gadgets and would simultaneously lose his or her own head if it weren't attached.

Best of all is Sen. Jeff Shoenberg's (D-Evanston) brilliant proposal to turn the dysfunctional Illinois Tollway system over to a private company. Dazzled by the prospect of generating billions to add to our state's coffers, Shoenberg is taking a cue from Gov. Mitch Daniels, Indiana plan to lease their embattled tollway system to bidders from Australia and Spain.

The latest reports show that our neighbors to the east are horrified by the idea that a faceless overseas corporation would be in charge of something as vital as our infrastructure. We transportation-strapped commuters of Lake County would be no less upset which leaves Shoenberg making Blagojevich's keno school funding scheme look like political genius.

Referendum woes

What would a March election be without the angry fist shaking that results from proposed referenda? Of the 14 Lake County ballot items asking for tax increases, 10 are for education related expenses. Fremont School District 79, who is asking approval for $22 million dollars to build a new grade school, has been forced to lease and install an additional six mobile classrooms, for a total of 17, just to accommodate their projected 2006-07 enrollment.

With energy and gas prices spiraling out of control and employment losses such as the 700 Allstate has estimated at its Northbrook offices, it's easy to bemoan the financial strain put on local families. But don't overlook the bottom line, every penny put into local school districts is reflected exponentially in property values. This translates into money well spent.

Show me the money

On the other hand, doesn't bad planning stick in your craw? Not too long ago we were reading about the glittering new state-of-the-art edifice erected at the College of Lake County campus to house the University Center. The UCLC represents 17 Illinois colleges and universities offering coursework designed to bring better and cheaper educational opportunities to the non-traditional knowledge seekers of Lake County. The University Center had several funding issues to overcome before it finally opened in late October of 2005, and is now asking the state for an additional 3.4 million dollars to cover operating costs for 2007.

Surely UCLC's brass did not share the glee the rest of us felt to watch Gov. Blagojevich's keno proposal go up in flames but why are they facing a cash crunch in what will be only their second full year of operation?

Perhaps the governing board needs to take some time to take a Finance 101 class on their way over to the new CLC Philanthropy Center to search for new revenue sources.

No more taxes

The 0.25 per. 1,000 for six years is another burden the taxpayers of District 114 will have to pay on their homes. How about making people living in all of Fox Lake apartments having to pay some of the cost? I think we are already overburdened with taxes for all of our schools. Both Districts 114 and 124.

We lost the Forest School and Glen School so now some of us living in that area property values have gone down. We only have the train station as a selling point. The shopping center with Val's Fresh Foods is good but not a big draw for selling.

How many taxes do you think people can pay?

Gas is over $2.30 a gallon

Heat has gone nuts for keeping Warm.

Electric has gone up

Water and Sewer has gone up in Fox Lake and Lake County.

Phone has gone up.

People with Internet, that price has gone up.

Medicine cost is up.

Seniors on fixed income worry about paying all the above.

Property Taxes go up every year and we do not get that much increase in our pension and Social Security.

I think everyone going to vote in March should think long and hard about letting them give us another tax increase.

I know education is needed for our children and grandchildren but we need to look long and hard at what this will do to each of our pockets.

Less money for vacation.

Less money for birthday's and Christmas.

Less money for food and medicine if you are a senior.

We, will have nothing to leave our children and grandchildren if this keeps up.

Volunteer

I have been involved with students from around the world for several years, and I've learned that the world can be made better through this experience. Until a family has had the chance, they cannot imagine how rewarding it is to bring the world into their own home and to see the bond being created between a host family and a teenager from another part of the world.

Our family has both hosted and had the opportunity to work with students from many places around the globe. My children have learned what food from Brazil tastes like, how they play soccer in Kuwait, and shared Thanksgiving and Christmas with their honorary big brother from Germany. It's a great opportunity to experience another country without leaving your own home.

By having these students live with our families, we break down the barriers that divide people, not only across international borders, but also within our own community. Just this year, I have seen two of our students featured in the Lake County section of Lakeland Media's newspaper for their contributions to their school sports teams and to the stable owned by one of our host families. Within our group of exchange students, we have a number who are here on U.S. State Department scholarships from the nations of the former Soviet Union (e.g. Russia, Azerbaijan, Ukraine), the Middle East (yes, we even have students from Iraq and Afghanistan!), Germany, and Serbia and Montenegro (formerly Yugoslavia). What better way to participate in diplomacy and peacemaking than by providing a one-on-one experience of the American spirit of democracy and volunteerism?

I urge everyone to consider the possibility of volunteering to host an exchange student. Beubien says state facing 'financial crisis'

District 52 State Rep. Mark Beaubien (R-Wauconda) announced recently at the Republican Candidate Forum he will soon be sending a mailer to every major retailer in the state to make clear he is a steadfast fiscal conservative.

"I do not want anyone putting a wedge between myself and whether or not I am a fiscal conservative," he said.

Beaubien will also highlight his sponsorship of a bill that would fill the loophole on tax caps which would exempt school district taxes levied to pay for pension and health-care costs for secretaries, janitors and bus drivers.

He will also underscore his consistent record of voting against the pension raid by Governor Blagojevich's administration.

"We are in very serious trouble," he said.

"Since Rod Blagojevich took office we have gone up $7.6 billion in the general obligation fund. Under normal business rules, in order to pay down the budget in the state each person would have to contribute $1,800. This state is headed for disaster in pensions and we are facing a severe financial crisis."

When asked about transportation issues in Lake County, Beaubien pointed to state-wide sentiment that, "Lake County can't agree on their own transportation needs."

He mentioned he is pleased about the consensus on the proposed Route 120 bypass and declared, "The Rt. 53 extension is off the table and won't be discussed for many, many years."

Helander discusses early voting program

Lake County Clerk Willard Rooks Helander took the opportunity to tout new voting programs at the Republican Candidate Forum.

Disabled voters will now have the opportunity to cast their ballots unassisted. Audio ballots and specialized keypads will be available to enable those with visual or auditory limitations to cast their vote in private.

In regard to the new early voting program, Helander expressed concern over not being able to get ballots printed due to the fight over judicial seats for the district. The Illinois House recently voted to eliminate two of the three previously proposed new judge positions for the Lake County Circuit Court.

"Although we don't get involved in the politics going on down in Springfield, it certainly impacts us," she said. "We know that our young people serving overseas, whether they're in the military or in the Peace Corps, they can have their ballots jeopardized by the strong arm politics of trying to take control of the judiciary seats for Lake County. We hope that we can get a ballot certified no longer than about two weeks late."

Batiste to speak at public meeting

Residents will have the chance to meet the newly-appointed superintendent of Waukegan Community Unit School District 60 Feb. 8, when the Community Organizing for School Leadership Accountability (COSLA) hosts a public meeting where Donaldo Batiste will be featured as a guest speaker.

The District 60 Board of Education voted 5-2 at its Dec. 13 meeting to name Batiste the replacement for outgoing Superintendent Richard Olson, who will retire at the end of the 2005-06 school year.

COSLA, a local grassroots organization consisting of parents and other residents of District 60, invited Batiste to meet with the group to convey his ideas on the direction of Waukegan's public schools.

Batiste was named to his new post with some controversy in December, as board member June Maguire and Vice President William Anderson both voted against the hire.

Maguire said before her vote that she had not been informed that the item was on the agenda until two hours before the meeting, adding that she had wanted a search committee to interview candidates before an offer was made. Anderson added that he felt Batiste was qualified for the job, but said he had wanted more discourse with members of the community before selecting a new superintendent.

While Anderson and Maguire expressed concerns about Batiste's hire, Olson endorsed the move along with the rest of the board.

Area parks receive state grants

Three 31st District parks have been earmarked to receive state grants totaling more than $1 million.

Round Lake Beach will receive $400,000 for Phase Two of its park development; Alleghany Park in Grayslake will receive $400,000 for development; and Geo-Karis Park in Beach Park will receive $211,300.

"I'm very happy to hear that (Gov. Rod Blagojevich) has honored my request to provide additional funding for these park areas," said State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion). "Parks are very important to Illinois, providing recreational facilities for the surrounding communities, as well as protecting the region's natural environment. I thank the governor for releasing these funds and supporting the Lake County park districts."

When you need a dentist you don't go to a podiatrist just because they both are doctors. If you have a broken water pipe in your home and need a plumber, you don't call an electrician just because they are both tradesmen. If you come home to find a burglar in your house and need a cop, you don't call a lawyer because they are officers of the court.

I mention this because there are two men seeking the Democratic nomination for Lake County Sheriff in the upcoming March 21 primary; one is a cop and the other is a lawyer. The cop, Lawrence Oliver, is a current deputy of the Lake County Sheriff's Department and has been for the last 26 years. The lawyer has been in practice since 1992 and never has been a cop.

Oliver is a distinguished and highly respected officer with the Lake County Sheriff's Department. One of his specialties is training other cops to protect themselves, and the public, from the "bad guys." Oliver is the only Democratic candidate for Sheriff who has the training, the administrative and leadership experience, along with the respect of his fellow officers, which are all necessary to be Lake County Sheriff.

Voting for a lawyer with no law enforcement experience makes as much sense as when our current sheriff put the under-sheriff (with not one iota of experience as a construction contractor) in charge of building the multi-million dollar Lake County Jail expansion (which was shut down for months, is over a year behind schedule and over budget). The decision to put the under-sheriff in charge of constructing a jail makes even less sense than voting for a lawyer - who has no law enforcement training - for sheriff.

Lawrence Oliver is the only sensible Democratic choice for Sheriff and that's why Mr. Oliver will be getting my support and my vote on March 21.

Steve Skinner
Round Lake

It's a mystery

Politics in Lake County is a complete mystery to me. I moved here from Cook County a little over 11 years ago and I still don't have the hang of it up here. For example why would the Republican Party endorse incumbent Sheriff

Gary Del Re to run again after his office has been beleaguered by law suits, criminal indictments of high ranking officials, repeated budget overruns and investigations by the Illinois Attorney General? That's a mystery to me.

Then there is Senator Terry Link and his slate makers in the Democratic Party who have decided to slate Mark Curran, a criminal defense lawyer to be Sheriff. Curran is a lawyer with no law enforcement experience, law enforcement education or law enforcement training and no commanded experience in any police agency. I guess Senator Link and his associates believe that there are no experienced police professionals in Lake County who are qualified for the job. Boy, that's a slap in the face to the police officers in Lake County and another mystery to me.

I guess the burning question in my mind is, why would the Republican Party support a candidate who appears to be a liability at a time when ethics seem to be a major issue in the next election? And why would the Democratic Party endorse someone who also appears not to have the qualifications for sheriff over another Democratic Candidate, Larry Oliver, who does have the necessary law enforcement experience? Now that too is a mystery to me, but what is not, is the fact that I will pull a Democratic Ballot in the primary and am going to vote for Larry Oliver. Mystery solved.

Headline

Since 1990, the enrollment of Big Hollow School District has increased 277 percent as a result of massive home construction. New housing developments continue to be approved.

The financial impact of these developments on the school district is tremendous. It became evident over the years that the district needed a way to assess this impact in a formal process, with tangible results. In this way all facets of the community could see how new construction was affecting the schools.

To meet this need, Big Hollow School District approached Lake County Board Member Bonnie Thomson Carter. The county Planning, Building and Zoning Committee, authorized a steering committee of representatives from government, schools, home developers and communities to tackle this project.

The result is the Lake County School Impact Model. With this program, data provided by a prospective home developer, tax assessors, and the school district can be analyzed. The outcome is two final figures; the projected property tax revenue generated by the development and the cost of educating the students that will enroll as a result of that development.

With this information in hand, concrete data can be used when school districts discuss the financial impact with developers and municipal boards. Government and schools can plan together for the future of their growing communities.

A copy of the Lake County School Impact Model is available from the Lake County Board Planning, Building and Zoning Committee or the Big Hollow School District. I would encourage local governments, school districts and developers to use this model as a means of providing legitimate information to the taxpayers about the financial impact of new housing construction.

Ronald Pazanin, Superintendent
Big Hollow School District 38

Chief Charles Fagan

Mayor Larson:

My neighbors, friends and I are appalled at your recent decision not to retain Charles Fagan as Chief of Police in the Village of Antioch. I personally have worked with Chuck Fagan for many years, and you will not find a more dedicated, hard working, professional law enforcement officer, not only in this County, but in the United States. This is just one more example of you wanting the Village of Antioch to resort back to the days of the "Good Ole' Boys" mentality.

As a resident of the Village of Antioch, and a law enforcement officer, I saw the changes that Chief Fagan made not only to the police department, but the village itself. Chief Fagan brought the police department up to professional standards that the community could be proud of. Once again mayor, you have set this village back 20 years, after former Mayor Marvellas set us light years ahead. In closing mayor, all I can say is my friends, neighbors and I shall see you at the polls.

A combined Waukegan-Lake County Port Authority, rather than a separate Chain O' Lakes Port Authority was one of the possibilities discussed by members of the Fox River-Chain O' Lakes Commission at a meeting held at Antioch Village Hall.

Subcommittee members had discussed the possibility of enlarging the geographical boundaries of the port district with Dick Kennedy of the Waukegan authority who "thought it was an interesting idea," according to State Representative Donald Deuster (R-Sylvan Lake), who headed the committee.

Eighth District candidates convey views

By Esther Cepeda

Special to Lakeland Media

Seven Republican candidates for the 8th Congressional District seat came out strong against incumbent Melissa Bean at the Candidate Forum sponsored by Antioch, Avon, Grant and Lake Villa Townships.

The message shared by all seven candidates was that regardless of whom among them won the election; the Republican Party would triumph in wresting the seat from Democratic hands.

Each candidate had three minutes to introduce themselves to the capacity crowd at the Round Lake Area Park District senior center and one minute each to respond to three audience questions.

Ken Arnold, a businessman from Gurnee, who stated he was committed to running a campaign of "substance and creative ideas," differentiated himself by stressing that he is "not running to get an R, on our side of the aisle but to serve the people."

Running on a "verifiable track record of General Assembly votes," State Rep. Robert Churchill (R-Lake Villa) noted that his Lake County roots reach back to 1842 while incumbent Melissa Bean "hasn't decided to move in yet."

David McSweeney of Barrington Hills, fresh off of sweeping endorsements from the Hanover, Barrington, Schaumburg, and Palatine Township GOP organizations, started by introducing the crowd to "my best friend and the love of my life Margaret." He went on to emphatically, "Thank God George W. Bush is the president of the United States" and make clear that his campaign is "about defeating Melissa Bean."

"The only candidate who doesn't possess political baggage," Mundelein businesswoman Teresa Bartels, went on the offensive pointing out that she hasn't "spent millions of dollars buying political endorsements like David (McSweeney)...." forging ties to (former Governor) George Ryan and (46th District Representative) Lee Daniels, like Robert Churchill, or "waging losing campaigns for her husband" referring to fellow candidate Kathy Salvi.

Banking on his easily recognizable name,

Aaron Lincoln, a lawyer from Wauconda, stated that while "the Republican Party tends to eat its young," and he doesn't have an overflowing war chest or previous experience running for office, his contributions are needed because "the future of the Republican party is at stake."

Stating that she, "in fact, is the most electable candidate," Mundelein lawyer Kathy Salvi, declared her reason for seeking the office: "I'd never be able to live down letting the opportunity to beat Melissa Bean pass me by."

Former Lake County Board Member Jim Mitchell Jr. of Lindenhurst denounced the rampant corruption in politics and the effects of Chicago's corrupt leadership on the rest of the Chicagoland area. He also took the opportunity to implore the crowd to take a cue from the 78 percent turnout in the recent Palestinian elections and "validate what our servicemen are fighting for."

On the issue of illegal immigration, all the candidates called on the Federal government to enforce and expand existing laws. Ken Arnold was more enthusiastic. "I'm the real deal. I joined the Minuteman Movement and if that's political baggage, Teresa, he chided, "then so be it." Arnold did clarify "immigrants and illegal immigrants are two different things."

Upon being asked about the Federal No Child Left Behind Act, all candidates agreed that the laws are not working in the way the Federal government designed them. Salvi called it a "disaster" which "should be eliminated."

Churchill took the opportunity to tout his plan to "allocate 65 percent of all educational funds to the classroom, an increase from the current 59 percent."

The hot-button issue of transportation brought all the candidates together in praising Lake County for uniting on the issue of the proposed Route 120 Corridor in order to tackle the traffic problems in small "bites." On the whole, the candidates said they are committed to building a Route 53 extension and easing traffic woes. "Gridlock is not a family value," said Salvi.

Churchill reminded the audience he was "a vocal supporter of the Route 53 extension back when others didn't want to touch it and that it could be actualized once the Route 120 project was completed if "we could keep the Governor (Blagojevich) from stealing our road funds."

Churchill introduces legislation to reform classroom funding

State Representative Robert W. Churchill has introduced legislation that would reform how school districts fund classroom instruction. "The so-called 65 percent Solution is a movement that is sweeping the nation and I believe Illinois needs to get on board," Churchill said.

The 65 percent Solution seeks to alter the formula by which local school districts fund teachers and classroom instruction. Currently, Illinois school districts provide approximately 60 cents of every dollar directly to the classroom. The remaining 40 cents is spent on administration of the school district from executive salaries to janitorial services. "Illinois school districts need to focus limited educational dollars to teaching our kids. I believe that 65 percent of every dollar spent should be spent educating the next generation," Churchill continued.

House Bill 4399 will mandate that school districts shift 2 percent of non-classroom expenditures to classroom expenditures every year until the district reaches a budget with 65 percent of spending going directly to teaching. "The four highest performing states in the nation, according to the National Center for Educational Statistics found that these states were spending 65 percent or more of their educational budget

in the classroom," said Churchill. "I was shocked to learn that Illinois schools districts do not reach the 65 percent funding level."

The 65 percent Solution campaign is being lead by FirstClassEducation.org, which is chaired by Patrick Byrne, CEO of Overstock.com, Inc. FirstClassEducation.org estimates that should Illinois shift 5 cents of every education dollar from non-classroom to classroom expenditures, teachers and students would see an increase of over $900 million. Churchill added that such a reform will take some time to implement but "during a time when the state and local school districts are struggling financially, we can put more money into classrooms without a tax increase."

House Bill 4399 was brought to Churchill by a group of concerned parents from his district that saw student scores stagnating but administrator salaries climbing. "School districts in Illinois don't necessarily have a funding problem," Churchill concluded. "There is a disconnect between dollars and classrooms. It is my hope that HB 4399 will provide increased funding for teachers and classroom instruction."

State Representative Robert W. Churchill served in the Illinois House of Representatives from 1983-1999 and has served the 62nd District since 2003.

CRIMESTOPPERS

Lake County Crime Stoppers and the Grayslake Police Department are seeking information regarding an Armed Bank Robbery.

On Jan. 26, at approximately 1210 p.m., the First Midwest Bank located at 41 N. Lake St. (north of Center Street), Grayslake, was robbed under the threat of a bomb.

A male subject approximately mid to late 30s, height 5 feet - 3 inches to 5 feet - 5 inches, heavier build, with a round head entered the First Midwest Bank. The offender was described as wearing a gray ski mask with man-made eyeholes, a black suede leather jacket with a crew neck collar, dark tan/brown dress pants, and dark dress shoes. The employee described the voice of the offender as being loud without an apparent accent. The offender entered the bank carrying a dark yellow bag, which contained a note. The offender told the employee to remove the note and read it. The offender left with the money inside of the dark yellow bag in a westbound direction through the alley.

Lake County Crime Stoppers and the Grayslake Police Department would like to remind everyone to call when suspicious activity or a suspicious person is observed, and do not try to confront suspicious subjects yourself.

If you have any information about this crime or any other felony crime or felony fugitive, contact Crime Stoppers at 847-622-2222.

Also, abuse of the elderly is a crime, so let's not forget to report this type of crime as well.

If your information leads to an arrest you could be eligible for a cash reward of up to $1,000.

Crime Stoppers wants your information - NOT Your Name.

Lake Forest Hospital extends Grayslake Acute Care Center hours

In response to a steadily growing demand for minor medical emergency care in central Lake County – especially during the early morning hours – the Lake Forest Hospital Acute Care Center in Grayslake is now open an additional hour, from 6:30 a.m. to 10 p.m., daily.

Dawn Frank, acute care center manager, says there was a strong demand to open earlier to treat patients with minor illnesses or injuries before they go to work or school. Frequently, she says, a mom wakes up to a sick child and wants to have the child checked before taking to day care or school, and many physician offices are not open that early. Also, many young adults do not have a primary physician, and the Acute Care Center is convenient.

Since opening nearly two years ago, the Acute Care Center had been open from 7 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. daily. It's seen a steadily increasing number of patients seeking care for minor emergencies from Lake Forest Hospital ER doctors without the ER wait.

The center is staffed by the same physicians, and many of the same nurses, who work in the Lake Forest Hospital Emergency Room. They treat a variety of urgent, but non-life-threatening medical conditions or injuries such as cold or flu symptoms, minor cuts, bumps, bruises, sprains, strains, fractures, eye irritations, and rashes.

The Acute Care Center is part of a 136,000-square-foot facility that also features a variety of outpatient services such as advanced diagnostic technology, sophisticated therapy and private physicians' suites.

The Lake Forest Hospital Outpatient & Acute Care Center is located at 1475 E. Belvidere Road in Grayslake (Route 120 west of U.S. 45). For more information, call the Acute Care Center at 847-535-8950.

PARENT'S PLACE

Dr. Sherri Singer

Some helpful behavior tidbits for parents in 2006:

Our focus is our reality-telling children they can.

People are creatures of habit and habits form from repetition of action. What we are focused on most of the time becomes our way of life. With that in mind, think about the automatic responses we have to our kid's bad behavior. We are all human and all react from the hip most of the time. It's important for you to know that plain and simple, if you are constantly negative with your child, that negativity will become both your focus and your child's focus all the time. This is how kids develop that famous 'negative identity' we hear so much about. We need to do something to make sure that discipline is balanced and both positive and negative. A good 98% of the success you will have with changing your kid's behavior will come from being aware of how you're reacting all the time and making sure that your kid's primary focus in life is being positive and knowing how to do the behaviors you WANT to see. We can choose to take the hard road or the easy one. I will tell you that if you immerse your kids in knowing what good behavior is and teach them that they always have a choice in what they do, you will not have to go down that hard road. Remember that our focus becomes our reality. Kids who are immersed in bad behavior will do those behaviors more and more. We need to teach I CAN!

The dilemma of self-esteem vs. discipline

Our society has it backwards when it comes to self esteem. Somehow, people in our society have come to believe that self esteem is something that develops solely out of nurture, compassion and giving things without earning them. We spend lots of time giving people things. We lower expectations. We make situations easier. All in the name of building self-esteem. Unfortunately, this very thing does the exact opposite. This behavior creates dependency and the opposite of self-reliance and independence. GIVING people anything, generally tends to do that. In my experience, self-esteem is something that develops out of meeting standards and expectations. It develops out of one's knowledge that one has the ability to meet those requirements and that one has made the effort and journey to get there. The problem we face in our society is not that people are without achievement or without ability. The problem in our society is that we are too quick to lower standards. Too quick to make the surroundings easier instead of build the character inside. We don't provide enough of a road map for the way to reach success on our own. Instead we make detours to get half way there. This doesn't help anyone. Most of all kids.

When it comes to kids and this area, the main problem area lies in what challenges the kids have. If our child has a limitation in a certain area, we become fearful that pushing that child farther than that child has gone before will somehow damage that child. So, we back off and take the detour. I'm here to tell you that I have been involved with many families where gentle pushing and encouragement was the very thing that helped their child reach a new level of success and true self esteem. You see, I believe that true self esteem comes from striving and working hard and reaching goals that we know are there and attainable. If a child is told he can't do something, he will believe it. Remember, our focus is our reality. If a child is encouraged that he can do something but it will take work, he can do it. He will do it. I have seen kids go from 'F's' in school to 'A's' in school within only a couple month period of time using this philosophy. Everyone has limitations. If we choose to live by our limitations rather than our strengths, we will surely live a limited life. If we reach for the stars and only make it - of the way there, the strength of the journey is what is thrilling and satisfying. Who says that with some more work we won't make the other of the way?

Asking questions versus making statements

When we are in the heat of battle with our kids, our first inclination is to tell the child things. We tell him what he's done and how it's upset us. We tell him what he should have done. We tell him why it was bad. We do this because we are usually so angry that we have to get it all out. We also do it to try and regain our power (which is usually a losing battle after the fact.) We also do it to warn our children of the impending disaster of doing it again. Any of us who have gone down that 'statement making' road know what the look in our kid's eyes is while this is occurring. There is this 'half glazed zombie look' of 'not again.' Some of us have seen a Doonesbury Comic with a dog and a master. The master sees a mess the dog made and begins to go on and on about what the dog did and how the dog shouldn't have done it, etc. In the next frame, you see what the dog actually hears which is 'Blah-Blah, Blah Blah Blah Blah, Blah Blah.' It is a funny comic and while I am certainly not comparing your child to a dog or any other animal, you need to be aware that no matter what the age of the child, they prefer to tune out ranting statements just as any of us do. Well, where does that leave us, you might ask? What can we do to get through to our kids. My suggestion to you is that instead of using statements and ranting, that you use questions in a quiet, calm tone. Think about it. Let's say I tell you that your house is brown and white with shutters on it. You might say, 'o.k., it is.' What if I ask you, 'What does your house look like?' There is a different response that the brain has to a question than a statement. For a split second after a question is asked, the brain responds. There is a different tone in the voice with a question and the brain responds to it. Try it a couple times, you'll see! With multiple statements, we can miss entire lectures, but with a question, there is a level of alertness that comes with it. Think about the last time you were sitting in a classroom looking bored by the lecture and the teacher fired a question at you. Didn't it wake you up and introduce a little shock wave into your system? It certainly did for me! If nothing else, asking questions tends to diffuse a battle between you and your child and make it into a conversation. Now, this does NOT mean I want you to begin ranting questions over and over again, because it would have the same effect that statements would. One well asked question with the right tone that feeds into things that have been gone over, can have just the desired effect in getting through to a child. It's really magical to watch. In the book, I'll be talking more about when to ask questions and how to phrase them correctly to get the right kind of behavior.

Laughter is the best medicine

It truly is! One of the things I find most successful when working with young children is making them laugh. It is usually an instant ice breaker. It's also something that they usually don't expect. Most kids who act out a lot are used to a A + B = C equation with the A being bad behavior, the B being getting caught, and the C being the parent's loud and irritated reaction. I'm certainly not telling you to laugh after your child has done something wrong, but if you use laughter and humor at the beginning of the problem, sometimes it can really loosen up a situation and help avoid the negative conclusion. For example, in my office, I may be sitting with a child who doesn't want to cooperate and is complaining saying things like, 'I don't want to do this!' I will turn to that child in a very silly face and say in a very funny, strange accent and voice (not even close to my own) something totally unrelated to the subject such as, 'What (not a typo) are you babbling about?' Now, in writing, it might not sound very funny or even remotely sensitive, however, when you say it in a silly tone, the next thing you usually see is a smile and a look of cautious disbelief on your child's face. Most of the time, the problem is either gone or somewhat removed at that point.

The week after Sarah was diagnosed, she finished a marathon. Then the real race began.

Sarah Cooper, breast cancer survivor

Even after she was diagnosed, Sarah continued, finishing a marathon the very next week. So when her hometown doctor told her she would have to wait three weeks to begin treatment, she wasn't content to lose precious time.

"I came to CTCA for a second opinion, and I got right in," she said. "When I arrived I was lost, bewildered. But the staff and the other patients helped me find my way. I left with an overwhelming feeling of, 'okay, we can take care of this.'"

She did take care of it, crossing the finish line with a victory over breast cancer.

Grappling greatness

By Dan Patrick
Sports Editor

The North Suburban Conference has long been a state power in the wrestling arena and last weekend's big NSC Tournament meet proved that point yet again. The 14-team pool provides Lake County teams with a good preview for the upcoming IHSA tournament with so many premier wrestling programs competing for the NSC title.

However, "competing" has become a relative term for the area wrestling scene as Grant continues its dominance over the conference competition. The Bulldogs took home their fourth straight conference title in last week's event.

However, the Bulldogs weren't the only ones having a party as several Lakeland area teams were stellar in the NSC meet with Grant, Libertyville, Warren and Round Lake taking the top four spots in the tournament. Mundelein and Wauconda took sixth and seventh places while Lakes and Antioch took the no. 10 and no. 13 spots, respectively.

Grant was in control from the beginning of the meet until the end, outscoring the second place Wildcats 272-228. Such an impressive performance earned Grant a lot of respect from their conference peers. Libertyville coach Dale Eggert was proud to see his team do so well against such a tough group of wrestlers.

"I think we did pretty well, that was a good tournament," Eggert said. "Obviously, we're not as tough as Grant, but we knew they were the team to beat coming into the tournament."

The Bulldogs might as well have made their own trophy as the NSC title has belonged to the school for the last four years. This year was no different with six Grant champions, Dan Deligio (103), Izzy Montemayor (119), John Deneen (125), Jimmy Kennedy (130), Lucky Ferguson (140) and Joe Barczak (152).

Joel Montemayor and Matt Simon both secured second place finishes in their respective weight classes to score big points for the Bulldogs. However, the big story in the meet was the fourth straight individual title from Kennedy. Having won the event all four years of his varsity career, Kennedy is only the sixth wrestler in conference history to pull off such a feat and stands with a perfect 35-0 record on the season.

"We're extremely proud of him because something like that is really impressive," Grant coach Ryan Geist said. "We knew that he was the favorite going into the tournament, but I always tell them to never take any match for granted."

Eggert's Wildcats also had a lot to be proud of with four champions, Jon Henslee (135), Vinnie Sapienza (171), Ryan Manning (189) and Jack Danilkowicz (275) along with second place finishers

Freezing 'assets' for a good cause

As the Midwestern weather continues to play tricks on all of us, I've come to a life-changing conclusion: Who needs warmth anyway? I would gladly have a few fingers frozen off in the name of a Bears Super Bowl run or lots of other sporting events.

There's one sports winter wonderland that has remained untouched by me: "Polar Bear Plunges." I suppose you can't really call jumping into freezing water a "sport," but with Curling making a comeback in this year's Olympics, who's to say it's not a sport?

Polar Bear Plunges have never ceased to amaze me. Whoever came up with the idea to jump into the freezing waters of (insert hypothermia-inducing body of water here) to get a rush was a lunatic. But, whoever was the first to jump into freezing water with a cow, multi-colored clown suit or any other ridiculous Halloween costume, in my opinion, was "eccentric," nay, a genius.

Despite the insanity of such endeavors, they have been used in recent years to raise money for some very worthy causes. One such plunge is the upcoming Law Enforcement Torch Run Polar Plunge that is set to benefit the Special Olympics Illinois.

The Torch Run Polar Plunge is set to begin on various weekends starting Feb. 18 and running through March 5 all over Illinois. While the plunges themselves aren't within Lakeland's coverage area, some of the events are just a short jaunt from our great area. Over the course of the polar plunge season, there will be events in Evanston, Palatine, Manteno, Galesburg, Carlyle, Lake Bluff, Mahomet/Champaign, Rend Lake, Decatur, Springfield, Peoria, Effingham, Quincy, Rockford and Yorkville.

In order to enter, each plunger must collect at least $75 in donations that will go to Special Olympics programs in Illinois. Every participant is guaranteed gifts, will compete for prizes and will be given complementary food.

I've covered a few Special Olympics events in my days and I can tell you from personal experience that they're great for sports fans and everyone to enjoy. The athleticism is pure, kind-hearted and most importantly, competitive. Any donations made to such a worthy cause would be going to the right place.

Overcoming the odds

Bulldogs overcome multiple obstacles en route to division championship

By Dan Patrick

Sports Editor

Stability is something that many teams take for granted. Having a secure roster can often mean the difference between a good season and a disastrous campaign.

Sure, there will be injuries and other unexpected problems that may shake things up a little bit, but a bad season may force a typical coach to run through 10 different lineup changes. As for the Bulldogs, you can double that stat.

Grant, a perennial power in the North Suburban Conference girls basketball scene, have gone through such a myriad of mishaps that coach Tom Oeffling had no choice but laugh at the situation.

"Last year, we had a total of four lineups

'At times, we were playing with just eight girls on our entire roster, but we really rallied and pulled together when it got tough ... 'they all work so hard that our practices are actually more physical than any of our games.'

Tom Oeffling
Coach

in 30 games, this year, we've had 19 lineups in 24 games," Oeffling said. "We've never been able to establish a rotation or a substitution order because so many things have changed over the course of the season."

From the loss of 6-foot-4-inch center Becka Gonyo to illness to losing another of the Bulldogs' best when Kaela Munster was injured in Grant's first game, Oeffling has had to pull more rabbits out of his coaching hat than ever before.

"I thought we'd be good coming into the season, but we lost Gonyo, our number one rebounder and blocker, then we lost Kaela Munster 90 seconds into the season, I reevaluated my expectations," Oeffling said.

Gonyo and Munster weren't the only ones suffering for the Bulldogs. Since the season began, Lauren Liles was unable to play for more than a month from a torn posterior cruciate ligament (PCL), senior forward Shelly Peterson has battled back problems and Tory Ziegler has also been bitten by the injury bug.

What may have hurt Grant fans the most was the caliber of players the Bulldogs were losing as Gonyo, Munster and Ziegler were all on the short list of area all-stars while Liles is the type of defensive stalwart that any team needs to succeed.

Despite the host of maladies, Grant has succeeded to the tune of a 20-5 record at press time and the NSC-Prairie division championship. Such a record deserves the envy of most any team within the Lake County area — especially one that has been through as much as Grant.

The Bulldogs have managed such success thanks to impressive performances from a myriad of Grant players. The team has benefited from Ashley Arff, Heather Sutherland, Heather Ruetsche, Sonya Cellucci, Autumn Gaylor and a host of other players who have brought new meaning to the expression "stepping up."

"At times, we were playing with just eight girls on our entire roster, but we really rallied and pulled together when it got tough," Oeffling said. "They all work so hard that our practices are actually more physical than any of our games."

Arff is currently Grant's biggest offensive threat, averaging 14 points a game while sophomore Jamie Swanson has been spectacular, notching 11 points and 9 rebounds a contest.

"We've had so many girls help take control; Arff stepped up vocally to lead the team, having Lauren Liles back is so helpful because it helps calm us down," Oeffling said. "Shelly Peterson has been great, she doesn't play much, but she's our captain and she's been a good leader for our team."

The senior class's leadership skills could spell even greater things to come in Grant's immediate future with so much underclass talent. Swanson leads a strong sophomore class that should have Grant fans' minds racing with possibilities.

"The sophomores have been really tough and they're starting to grow as players," Oeffling said. "I just hope they aren't satisfied with what they've been able to do this season so they can maximize their potential in the next few seasons."

With such an impressive mark this season, the Bulldog-faithful may not have to look into the future to find success. It seems that the only thing that has been secure for Oeffling this season has been his team's will to win.

"Considering everything that we've been through, we've kept a positive approach all the way," Oeffling said. "This team has been great and hopefully, we'll continue to play well for the tournament."

PREP PROFILES

LAUREN LILES

Grant Bulldogs

Coaches at all levels typically have a few core values across the board. The most important thing a player can do is work hard and every coach loves results without having to deal with any attitude.

That's what makes Grant's Lauren Liles a coach's dream.

"When she just tore her PCL, her doctors estimated that it would take her anywhere from six to eight weeks to come back; she came back in five," Bulldog coach Tom Oeffling said. "Lauren (Liles) doesn't say much, but she's a competitor. She works hard for every minute she's in the game."

With Liles' return to the lineup, it bolsters an already impressive Grant team that has torn through the NSC-Prairie Division and hit 20 wins in only 25 tries.

"I just want to have a good record for my senior year," Liles said. "My physical therapist told me that I had to stay out six to eight weeks because of my torn PCL, but I just couldn't stay out that long."

According to Oeffling, the old expression "letting the game speak for itself" was tailor-made for Liles' all-or-nothing style of play. Liles is the type of player who would rather sacrifice their body for the team as opposed for any personal gain.

"Liles is really an unsung hero for us because she doesn't get huge stats," Oeffling said. "She's just a steady player for us, who has great 'D,' one of the smallest players on the team, yet she's one of the leaders in rebounding."

Intensity is yet another aspect of Liles' game that Oeffling cannot get enough of. Whether it's a situation where the season's on the line or simply running a drill in practice, Liles is all business, all the time.

"She doesn't loaf, she just goes hard every minute she's playing the game and she doesn't let up when she's in practice too," Oeffling said. "When we're doing sprints, she's always the fastest, so much so that (sophomore) Jamie Swanson tries to stand by her in practice so (Liles) will push her to run harder."

Wauconda continues impressive season

Fresh off of big RL victory, the Bulldogs have their eyes set on North Chicago

By Dan Patrick
Sports Editor

The Wauconda boys basketball team has been on a roller coaster this season, that is, a roller coaster that has yet to plunge from atop its initial peak. The Bulldogs currently sit at 15-6 on the season and 7-2 in the North Suburban Conference Prairie Division. Wauconda has been battling

North Chicago for the NSC-Prairie crown throughout the year and the Bulldogs still have the trophy within reach.

The Bulldogs' newfound success can be attributed to a strong stable of steady players. However, one attribute cannot be measured by mere numbers: heart. Early on in the season, Wauconda was able to rack up victories, but had trouble with burying teams.

"It's been a pattern for us allowing teams to get back into the game," Wauconda coach

'We can't just sit back and relax when we're having a year like this. We need to cut down on the little errors that can cost us the game and we should be able to do some things in the tournament.'

Rich Wolf
Bulldog coach

Rich Wolf said early in the season. "It's one of the things we've got to get better at."

The Bulldogs have certainly improved in that aspect notching multiple double-digit victories in the last month of competition and show few signs of slowing down their impressive start.

During Wauconda's game against Round Lake last Friday, the Bulldogs controlled after a strong second quarter, outscoring the hosting Panthers 18-10 in the stanza. Wauconda never looked back from their halftime lead to take the eventual 60-50 victory.

While the Bulldog headlines have been ruled by Tim Schwarz, Steve Bilisko stepped up in the recent game, netting a career-high 24 points in the Round Lake win. Not to be outdone, Schwarz notched 14 in the game and senior Kris Gehrke finished with 9. Consistent Bulldog scorer Jay Grooms did not play in the game.

With the win, Wauconda coach Rich Wolf has been happy with the progress Bilisko and his teammates have made over the course of the season. While the Bulldogs have traditionally been languishing in the .500 range, Wauconda's become a force to be reckoned with on the basketball court.

"I think we've done a great job this season, but we need to keep our heads on our shoulders," Wolf said. "We can't just sit back and relax when we're having a year like this. We need to cut down on the little errors that can cost us the game and we should be able to do some things in the tournament."

While the IHSA tournament stands at about a month away, teams have already begun positioning themselves for good seeding. With the 71-percent winning rate, Wauconda is on the short list of area leaders.

"Every team is fighting for a good seed these days and every game counts, now more than ever," Wolf said. "We've still got some important games left on our schedule and we need to be ready for every one."

The importance of Wauconda's games in the coming weeks is evident as the Bulldogs have to lock horns with NSC-Prairie foes Vernon Hills, North Chicago and Antioch. The Warhawks should provide the biggest test for the hard-charging Bulldogs as the two teams have been competing for the division title all season long.

The high-powered North Chicago team features a strong offense that has buried the likes of the Antioch Sequoits by 48 points in a recent game. The Warhawks are led by the dangerous trio of Deandre Moton, Brandon Smith and Tracy Thomas, which should provide an interesting match-up against Wauconda's stable of playmakers.

"They've got a good team this season, there's no doubt about it," Wolf said. "North Chicago is the team to beat in the conference right now and we have to tools to beat them. It's just a matter of whether or not we're in the right mindset to pull out a victory."

With one of the best starts in recent memory, Wauconda has a real chance to

Bulldog brilliance

After struggling to an 11-14 mark last season, the Bulldogs have already surpassed their 2004-2005 win total with games left in the regular season.

The Wauconda boys basketball team is off to its best start in years, but do they have what it takes to make a run deep into the IHSA tournament? Here's look at the Bulldogs' remaining schedule.

Feb. 3 at Vernon Hills
7:30 p.m.

The Cougars are a dangerous team that has handed Wauconda rival North Chicago a tough loss earlier in the season.

Feb. 10 vs. North
Chicago 7:30 p.m.

The Warhawks and Bulldogs are locked in a close race for the NSC-Prairie title, will home court advantage be enough for Wauconda?

Feb. 14 vs. Westminster Christian 7 p.m.

This non-conference match-up should provide some rest from NSC rivals.

Feb. 17 vs. Antioch
7:30 p.m.

Antioch could be dangerous with the return of Matt "Behm Machine" Behm to the lineup. If all goes to plan, Wauconda should have the conference wrapped up by then.

Feb. 21 vs. Lake Forest
7 p.m.

Momentum is everything in basketball and ending the season on the right foot can mean the difference between a deep IHSA tourney run and a huge disappointment. The Bulldogs should be ready for a challenge.

Antioch controls in final NSC Tournament while Warren, Grant, Libertyville, Lakes turn in respectable performances

Chalk up yet another sport with North Suburban Conference excellence as 10 area teams locked horns at the Brunswick Deer Park Lanes last Friday. The NSC meet showcased some of the best teams the area had to offer with Antioch and Zion-Benton going the distance in the conference finale. However, you didn't have to be a Sequoit or a Zee-Bee to enjoy the action.

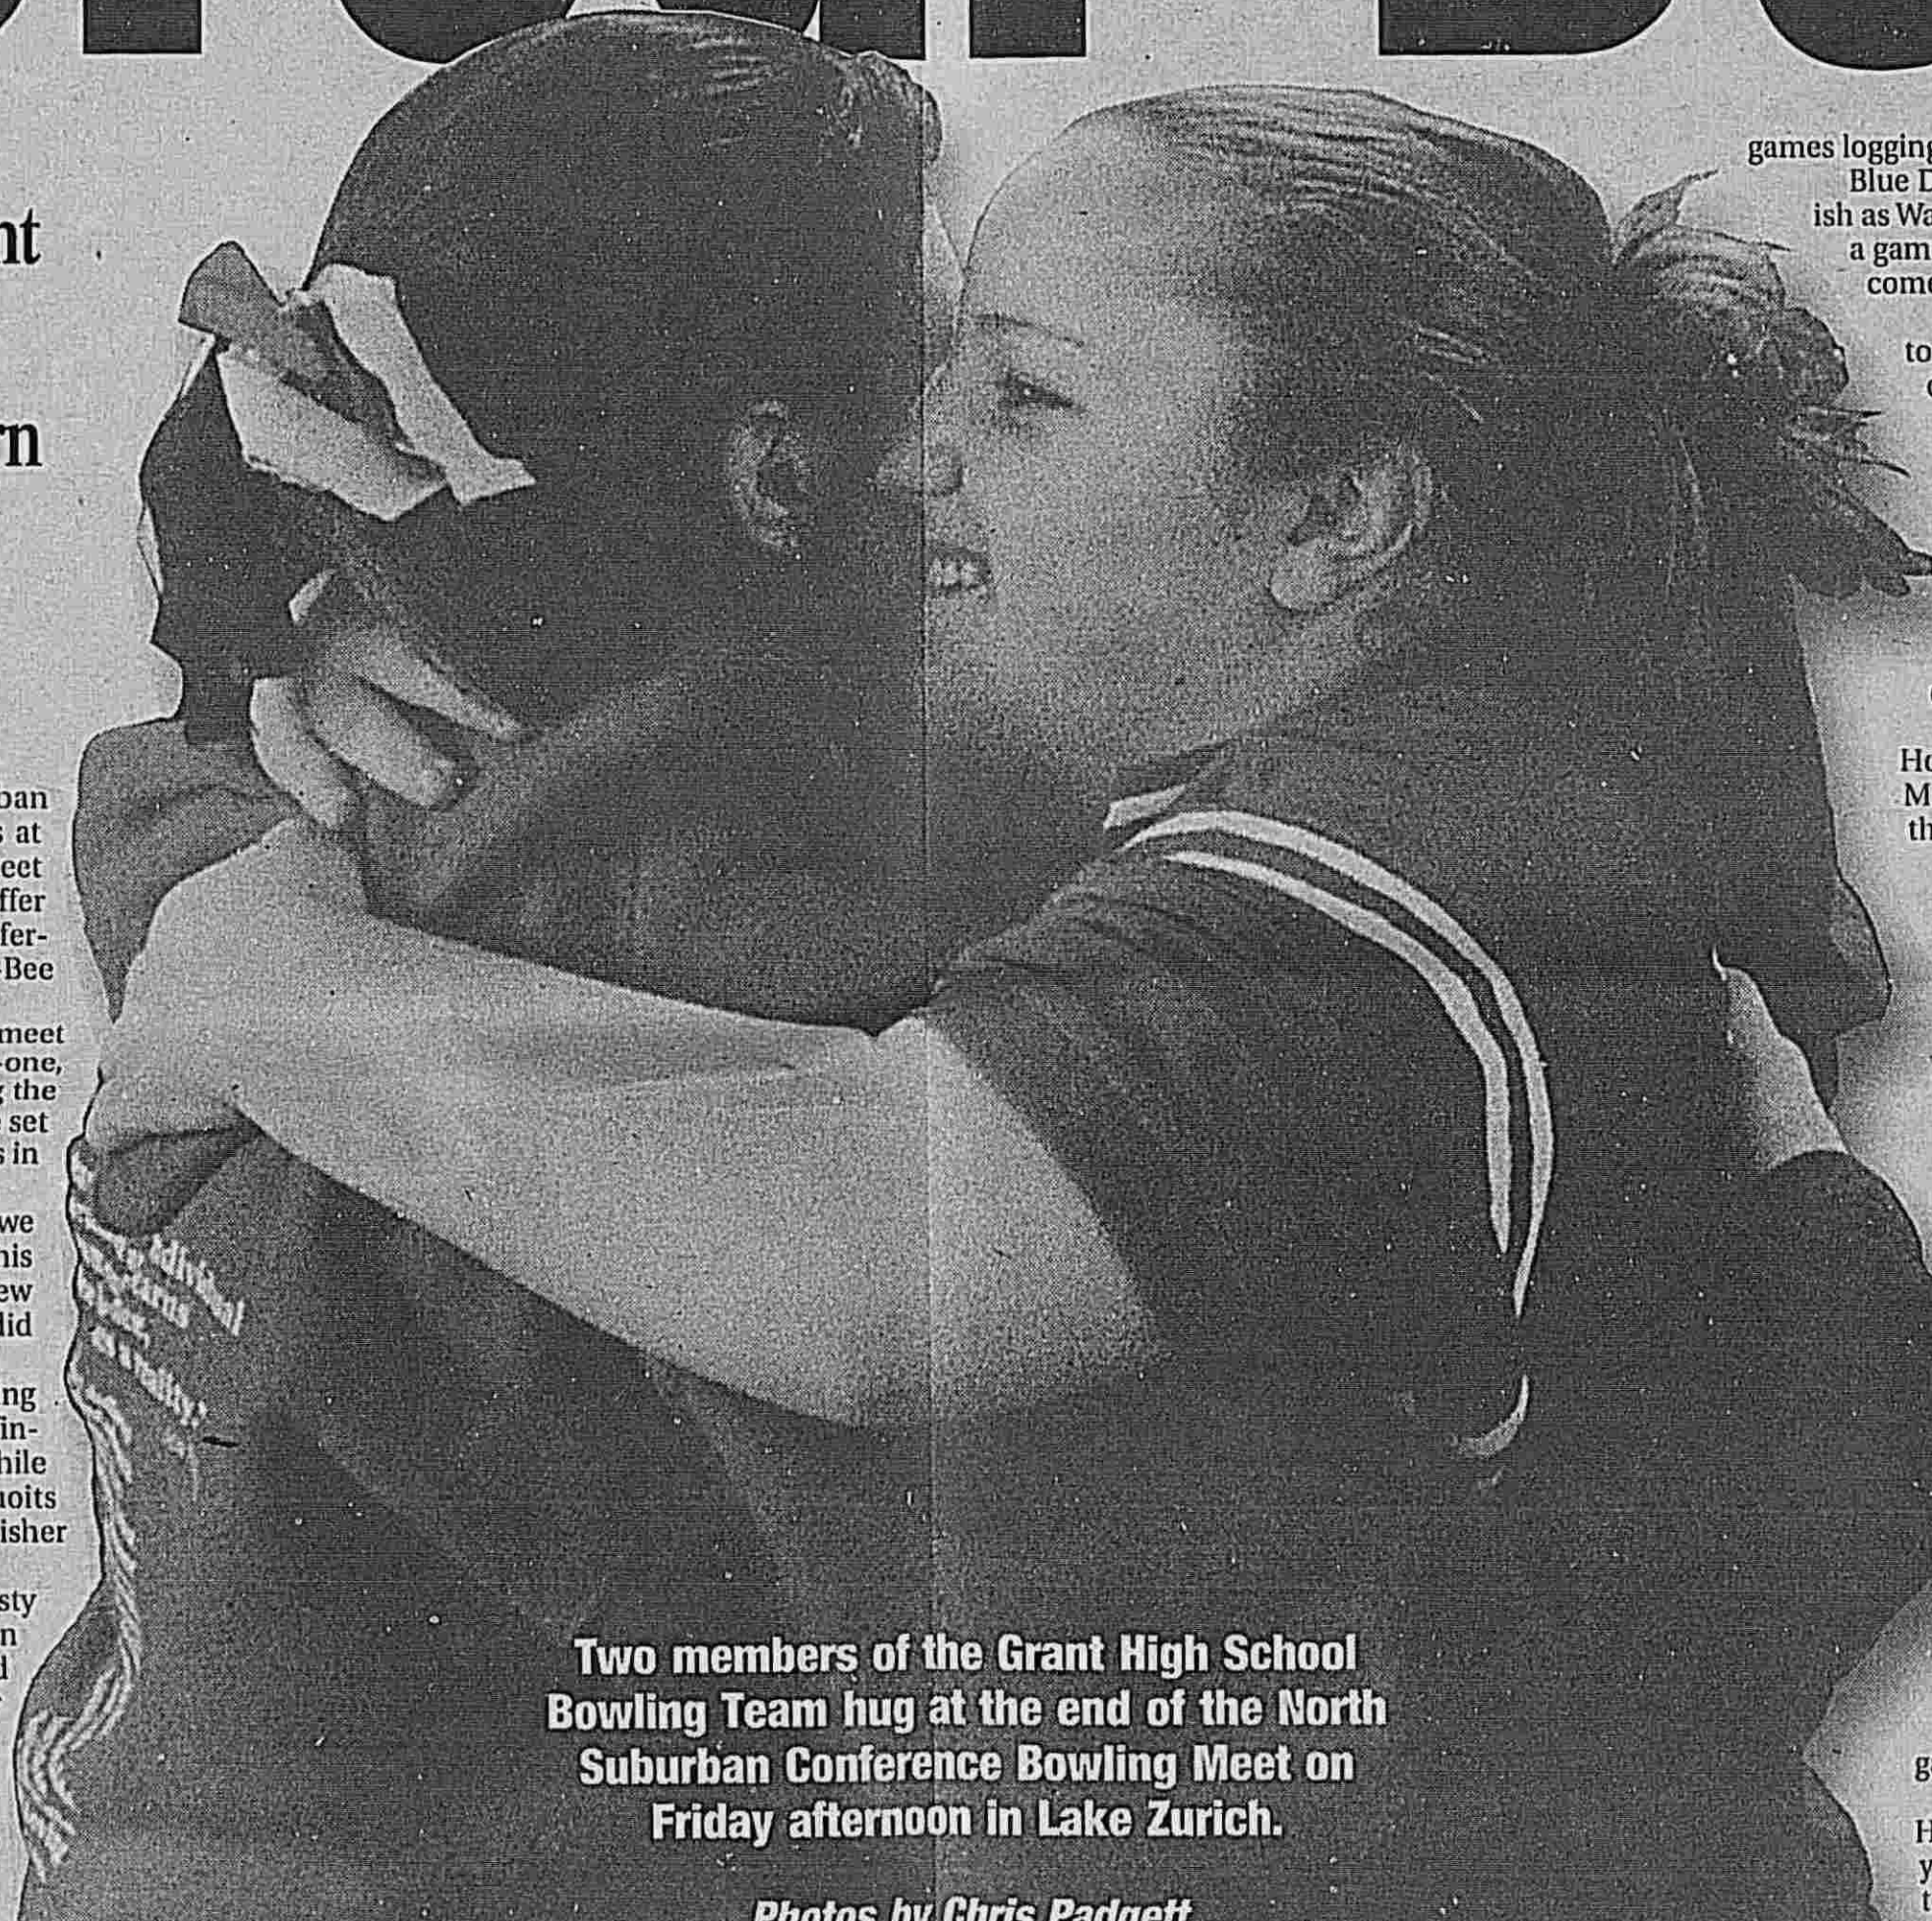

The Sequoits were caught in a dogfight with eventual meet champion Zion-Benton throughout the tournament. One-on-one, Antioch and Zion split games 3-3, with the Zee-Bees winning the first game by only three pins. The close finish in the first game set the stage for the rest of the meet as the two teams traded blows in subsequent games.

"I'm very pleased with the way we played today, I thought we bowled with a lot of poise considering the importance of this meet," Antioch coach Steven Haenchen said. "For the last few weeks, we haven't been bowling our best game and I think we did a good job today."

An outsider's perspective on the action had Antioch playing much better than Haenchen would let on as the Sequoits finished second behind a nearly invincible Zion-Benton team. While Antioch's score was 85 pins off the champion's pace, the Sequoits destroyed the rest of the field, outscoring third place finisher Vernon Hills by nearly 300 pins.

Individually, the Sequoits were unstoppable with Christy Sternberg, Kim Schmit, Jen Schreiber and Danielle Hartmann all finishing in the top ten. Even Antioch's final bowler cracked the top 20 as Candice Schmidt finished with a 1,026 score for a no. 20 spot. Sternberg's 234 in the first game was also the best individual score of the meet.

Antioch wasn't the only Lakeland team in the hunt during the meet as Warren, Grant and Libertyville were fighting in the middle of the pack all day long. All three teams' performances were marked by peaks and valleys with some games logging 900 scores while others dropped into the mid-700's.

Blue Devil fans had a lot to be proud of with their fourth place finish as Warren, led by Laquechia Rogers' 1118 score, averaged 840 pins a game. Coach Rick Novak was impressed by Rogers' game, but has come to expect as much from his senior leader.

"She's been great and I think she bowled a good game today," Novak said. "She's the one all the girls look up to and she did well."

Rogers was the lone Blue Devil in the top 20, but Heather Shaw and Dani Thul placed at no. 21 and no. 23, respectively. Thul was the last competitor to break 1,000 pins in the tournament.

Grant had good days from Amy Salee (1,073) and Jenn Pearson (1,046) all breaking into the top 20. The Bulldogs also received solid efforts from Emily Caballero (998) and Jami Crouch (981), but they weren't enough to overtake Warren.

Libertyville was led by Rita Lichamer (1,030) and Christie Hoffman (987), but according to Libertyville coach Gwen Markson, the sixth place finish was due to open frames late in the contest.

"I thought we were consistent in the morning, but we made some mistakes that just cannot be made at a meet like this," Wildcat coach Gwen Markson said. "Four of our girls did not mark in the tenth frame and that cost us in the meet."

Libertyville's day was finished off with an exclamation mark as the Wildcats scored a 917 in the final game after logging two straight games in the 700's. Prior to the final set, Libertyville was averaging 802 pins per game. If the Wildcats would have continued with their pace, they would have dropped behind Stevenson in the final standings.

"They just kicked it up in the last game. Everyone had their highest scores of the day in that game," Markson said. "It was a good team effort and that last game showed what we can do when we play together as a team and not just try and get good individual scores."

Lakes was unable to make it into the top half of the competing teams, but had respectable efforts from Amanda Pischke (914) and Claire Seaver (874), who finished at no. 35 and no. 41, respectively. Despite the low finish, the Eagles were able to easily overpower the North Chicago Warhawks, to the tune of 125 pins.

With Antioch's strong finish in the meet, the Sequoits have all but secured a valid shot at the state title this season. Haenchen was proud of his team and his conference with so many NSC competitors bringing their best game to the final tournament.

"I'm absolutely glad to bowl against so many good teams," Haenchen said. "If you're going to prepare for the IHSA tourney, you might as well do it with the best and I'd bet one of these teams is going to make a run for the state title."

GRAPPLING

Trey Ayala and Ted Strychalski.

"I thought the NSC meet was very encouraging," Eggert said. "The best thing we gained from this tournament was experience against good wrestlers. Looking from an individual standpoint, we did well. Hopefully this week we can follow that up on into the regionals."

Warren's day was punctuated with a big win by Brennan Drew (145), but the Blue Devils were able to secure their third place spot with runner-up finishes from Justin Carlson (160) and Willie Brooks (171). Warren was also able to garner points from four wrestlers logging third or fourth place finishes.

The Round Lake Panthers had a truly impressive outing, logging three championships Dillon Pousson (112), Josh Terrell (160) and Chris Larsen (215). Dillon's brother Derrick also logged a second place finish in the 119 while Ray Bryant and Ryan Barnard scored third place finishes.

"I think we've been a sleep all year long and we're finally getting some respect with how well we did at the NSC tournament meet," Round Lake coach John Jobst said. "We wrestled really well, we had three champs, one second place and two thirds for the day, so I'm proud with the way we did."

Larsen's big win in the 215 came as a surprise to the Panther coaching staff while Dillon Pousson took home his second straight conference title.

"I thought Chris (Larsen)'s win in the 215 was pretty unexpected because he pinned the no. 1 seed to take the title," Jobst said. "Hopefully he can carry this momentum on into the regional."

Sixth-place Mundelein benefited from strong runner-up performances from Joe Winberg (135) and Jason Hensgen (152). Unfortunately, Hensgen was injured in his title bout.

Wauconda logged third place finishes from Scott Carlson, Nick Swanson, Rob Champion and Scott Hoy. The upstart Lakes Eagles also had nice finishes from Tyler Hall and Homes, who finished second and third in their respective weight classes.

With so many fine wrestlers in the area, many coaches hold the NSC conference meet as a sort of junior IHSA tournament. Hopefully, all of the teams can continue their momentum into the future.

"This meet is a great way to tune up for the state tournament," Jobst said. "There are some of the best wrestlers in the state up here and the only way you're going to compete with teams of that caliber is by facing them."

SIDELINES

In terms of the Polar Plunge itself, you may even see me in my most prized Halloween costume: Hulk Hogan. As the Hulkster would say, "Whatcha gonna do when a good cause comes calling for you?"

Speaking of wrestling, the Libertyville and Grant wrestling teams have made names for themselves as they were both ranked amongst the state's top 20. Amongst wrestlers ranked in the top ten of their respective weight classes were Grant's John Deneen (119), Jimmy Kennedy (130) and Libertyville's were Ted Strychalski (125), John Henslee (130), Ryan Manning (189) and Jack Danilkowicz (Heavyweight).

I guess if Carmel's 30-1 275-pounder Dan Clinton can't make that list, it must be pretty prestigious.

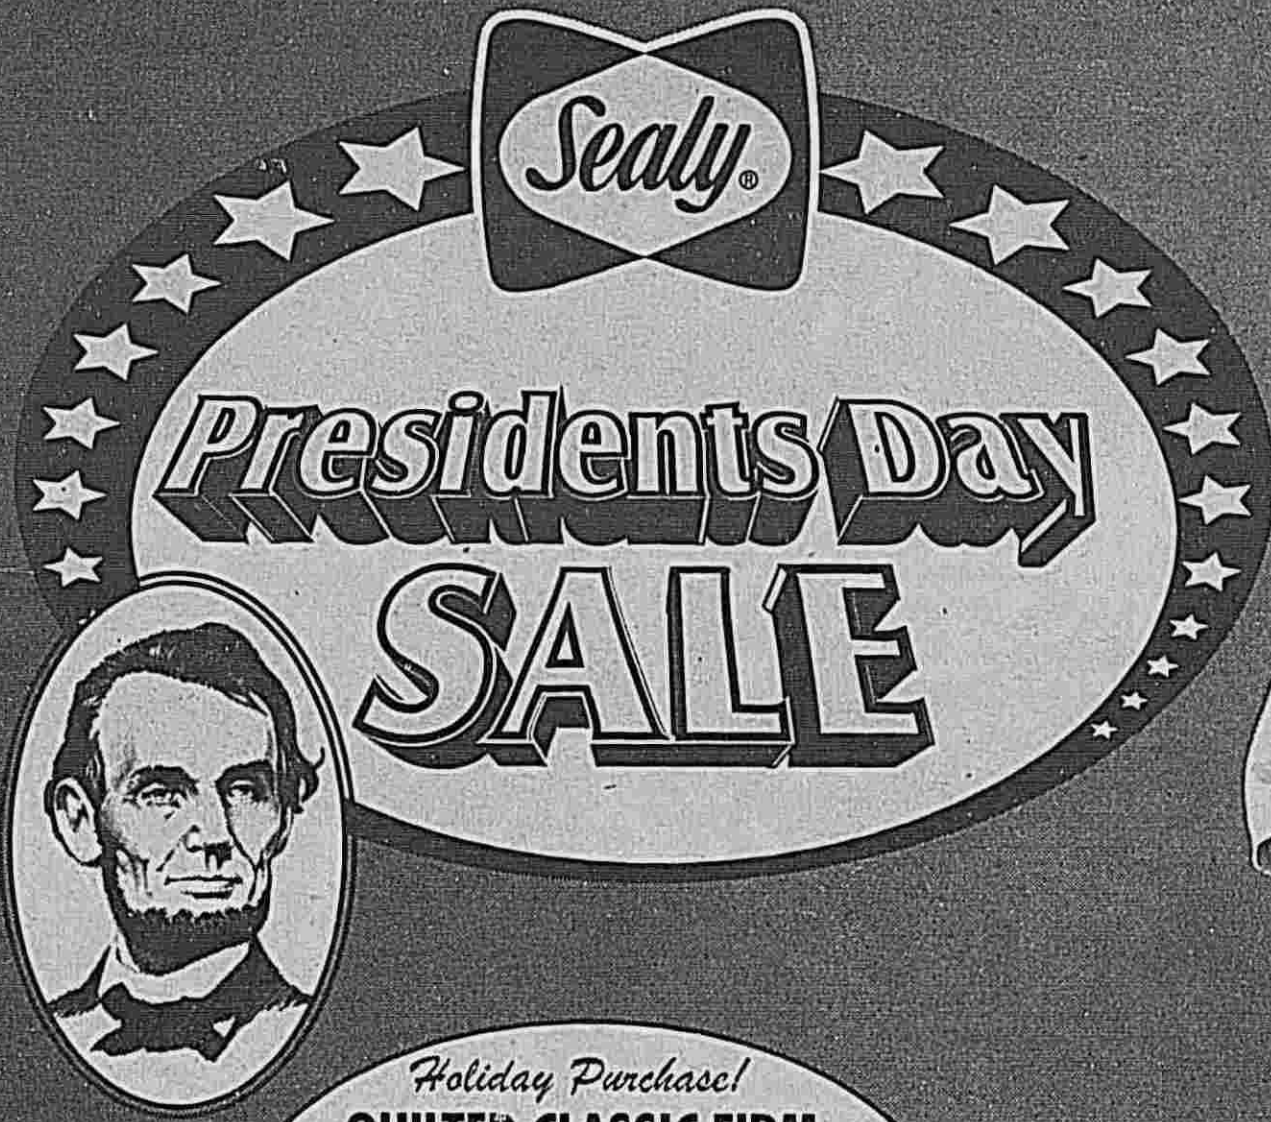

Former Antioch gymnast Angel Simonini has made a big name for herself at the University of Wisconsin. The former Sequoit turned Warhawk was a big part of a vault team that notched one of the best scores in her college's history. Simonini's five-person vault team logged a score of 44.15, the 18th highest score since Wisconsin-Whitewater started gymnastics competition.

Two more Corsairs will be throwing their hats into D-1 football action next season. Sean McGrath, a 6-foot-5-inch 215-pound tight end has verbally committed to the United States Military Academy at West Point. McGrath's teammate Sean Murnane, a 6'2" 240-pound defensive end will be attending Central Michigan to play for the Chippewas.

Murnane was a first team All-Lakeland defensive player while McGrath was named to the All-Lakeland offensive second team. Congratulations and good luck to them both.

ATTENTION PET OWNERS
We Do Not Knowingly Accept Ads For Free/Giveaway Animals
If you must give up your beloved pet, please consider these suggestions:
*Free animal ads suggest that there is something wrong with the animal, or that it has no value.
*Some people who respond to these free animal ads are imposters and are only concerned about making a profit and not the animal's welfare.
*Charging a fee to a potential pet owner confirms the responsibility of pet ownership for an entire lifetime of that pet. For more information, please contact the Humane Society.

The Tora-Bora of our Animal Health Manager! This handsome gentleman is another cat that shares her office and of course doesn't complain about his living arrangements at all. While he wonders why there aren't more people visiting him, he is always at the door, meowing hello to everyone that walks by, and of course tries very hard to get some petting too. He totally lives up to his Siamese roots and always has long conversations with the Manager, just keeping her in check and trying to teach her some cat talk. She reports that he will let you do anything to him and loves nothing more than being a little ragdoll, hanging over her shoulder. A totally super sweet guy!

He is hyperthyroid and needs meds every day, nothing expensive. As a senior gentleman, he would prefer living with mellow cats. Tora is of course up-to-date on all shots, tested for feluk and FIV, neutered and microchipped.

HOROSCOPE

ARIES - March 21/April 20
Don't get caught up in the moment when reminiscing with an acquaintance. He or she is trying to distract you from something important, so pay attention to what's going on. That special someone asks for your advice. Be honest with him or her, even if what you have to say won't be appreciated. Gemini plays a key role.

TAURUS-April 21/May 21
Try to keep your temper under control when having a discussion with a close friend. He or she isn't ready to hear your opinion. Speaking your mind only will cause friction between the two of you. A loved one offers you some romantic advice. Take it.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21
Take your time when it comes to finishing an important project this week. A lot of people are counting on you to do this right. So, don't rush through it, and be sure to check your work. Your diligence will be rewarded.

CANCER - June 22/July 22
You're in for a big change this week, Cancer. Don't be nervous; this is something that you've been wanting to happen. Share your excitement with those closest to you. An acquaintance asks to speak with you. He or she really needs someone to talk with. Sagittarius plays an important role on Thursday.

LEO - July 23/August 23
When it comes to your career, don't be afraid to ask the higher-ups for something that you really need. Just stay calm, and present your case logically. If you can do this, they're sure to be on your side. You meet someone interesting late in the week. This could be the one.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22
Don't worry about a loved one who gets into trouble early in the week, Virgo. This person needs to handle the situation on his or her own. The person whom you've been seeing wants to intensify your relationship. Think about what you really want.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23
Don't let an argument with an acquaintance spoil your good mood this week, Libra. He or she is trying to get you upset. Don't let that happen. Just try to ignore this person. A loved one asks you for advice about a personal matter. Be honest.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22
Try to be more attentive to a loved one this week, Scorpio. He or she is going through a difficult time and needs someone to talk to. Be there for him or her. Your efforts will be appreciated. A business acquaintance wants to get to know you better. Don't get involved with this person, because he or she has an ulterior motive.

SAGITTARIUS-Nov 23/Dec 21
You get blamed for a problem at work. Instead of getting upset and going on the defensive, just help to rectify the situation. The higher-ups know the truth and won't reprimand you for something that you didn't do. A close friend reveals his or her true feelings for you. Let this person know how you really feel, too.

CAPRICORN-Dec 22/Jan 20
You have a lot to do this week, Capricorn. So, try not to let others distract you. Stay focused, and work diligently. That's the only way to get things done. You'll have plenty of time to relax and enjoy yourself this weekend. Cancer plays a key role on Wednesday.

AQUARIUS-Jan 21/Feb 18
Don't bite off more than you can chew early in the week. You already have several things that you need to get done. Don't take on more responsibility. A loved one needs your help with a family matter this weekend. Do what you can for him or her.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20
Go after what you want this week, Pisces. If you don't, you'll never get it, because no one is going to give it to you. Don't be nervous; you deserve this. A good friend turns to you for help. Be there for him or her. Leo plays an important role.

NOTICE OF SALE
PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that pursuant to a Judgment of Foreclosure and Sale entered in the above cause on September 14, 2005, an agent of The Judicial Sales Corporation will at 11:00 AM on February 28, 2006, at the front door of the Lake County Courthouse, 18 North County Street (East Door INSIDE), WAUKEGAN, IL, 60085, sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, as set forth below, the following described real estate:

THE NORTH 8 1/3 FEET OF LOT 35 AND ALL OF LOTS 36 AND 37 IN BLOCK 7 IN WASHBURN PARK, BEING A SUBDIVISION OF PART OF THE SOUTHWEST 1/4 OF SECTION 33, TOWNSHIP 45 NORTH, RANGE 12, EAST OF THE THIRD PRINCIPAL MERIDIAN, ACCORDING TO THE PLAT THEREOF RECORDED JUNE 25, 1891 AS DOCUMENT 45834, IN BOOK "B" OF PLATS, PAGES 50 AND 51 IN LAKE COUNTY, ILLINOIS.

Commonly known as 1527 GLENN DRIVE, North Chicago, IL 60064
Property Index No. 08-33-306-041
The real estate is improved with a single family residence. The judgment amount was $83,581.34.
Sale terms: 25% down of the highest bid by certified funds at the close of the auction; the balance, in certified funds, is due within twenty-four (24) hours. The subject property is subject to general real estate taxes, special assessments, or special taxes levied against said real estate and is offered for sale without any representation as to quality or quantity of title and without recourse to Plaintiff and in "AS IS" condition. The sale is further subject to confirmation by the court.

If the sale is set aside for any reason, the Purchaser at the sale shall be entitled only to a return of the deposit paid. The Purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Mortgagor, the Mortgagee or the Mortgagee's attorney. Upon payment in full of the amount bid, the purchaser will receive a Certificate of Sale that will entitle the purchaser to a deed to the real estate after confirmation of the sale.

The property will NOT be open for inspection and plaintiff makes no representation as to the condition of the property. Prospective bidders are admonished to check the court file to verify all information.

For information, contact Plaintiff's attorney: The Sale Clerk, CODILIS & ASSOCIATES, P.C., 15W030 NORTH FRONTAGE ROAD, SUITE 100, BURR RIDGE, IL 60527, (630) 794-9876 between the hours of 1 and 3 PM only and ask for the sales department. Please refer to file number 14-05-6658.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice of Filing of Request for a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity and Approval of Rates for Water Service

To: PATRONS OF AQUA ILLINOIS, INC.

AQUA ILLINOIS, INC. ("Aqua") hereby gives notice to the public that it has filed with the Illinois Commerce Commission ("Commission") a request for issuance of a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity ("Certificate") authorizing Aqua to provide public water service to a 209-unit residential subdivision being constructed by United Land Development Company ("Developer") in the area of Lake County, Illinois, that is adjacent to Aqua's Hawthorn Woods service area ("Hawthorn Area") and known as the Kemper Lakes Development Area ("Kemper Area"). Aqua is also requesting certain changes to its tariff for the Hawthorn Area, as set forth in ILL. C.C. No. 47, Sec. 10, Revised Sheet Nos. 1-4 ("Hawthorn Tariff"). The Commission is considering Aqua's request in Docket 06-0043.

Aqua proposes to apply the water service rates for the Hawthorn Area, as provided in the Hawthorn Tariff (as now in effect or as subsequently revised), to service within the Kemper Area. No change in the Hawthorn Area rates is proposed. Application of the Hawthorn Area rates to the Kemper Area would result in changes of approximately 440 per month for water service provided to a residential customer using 7,000 gallons of water per month. These rates include a customer charge for metered service of $15.00 per month (plus an additional charge of $2.00 per month when a separate Irrigation Service/Meter is installed) and a usage charge of $2.85 per 1,000 gallons. In addition, all other applicable water charges of the Hawthorn Area, such as returned check charges, public and private fire protection, late payment fees, and/or State add on taxes or fees, would apply.

Kemper Area customers should note that, pursuant to a court order settling litigation among the Village, the Developer and various other parties (not including Aqua) ("Court Order"), certain fees, permits or authorizations may be required to be paid to and/or received by the Village prior to customers in the Kemper Area requesting water service from Aqua. The Court Order was adopted by the Village on October 18, 2004 in Village of Hawthorn Woods Resolution No. 10-18-04-3. The Court Order does not affect customers in the Hawthorn Area.

Aqua is also proposing changes to the Hawthorn Tariff. The area to which the Hawthorn Tariff applies has been changed to read "Village of Hawthorn Woods, Illinois and Kemper Lakes Development Area" in order to apply to the Kemper Area, which is outside the corporate limits of the Village. In addition, the Language of the Hawthorn Tariff has been changed to reflect the Court Order described above.

Aqua will submit evidence to the Commission supporting its request for a Certificate for the Kemper Area. A copy of Aqua's Certificate filing and related evidence may be inspected by any interested party at the business office of Aqua, 1000 South Schuyler Avenue, Kankakee, Illinois, 60901. Customers should be advised that the Commission may alter or amend the rates or conditions of service in Aqua's proposal after hearings held pursuant to 83 Ill. Admin. Code 200, and may increase or decrease individual rates in amounts other than those requested by Aqua. Customers are entitled to seek to intervene in proceedings conducted by the Commission in accordance with the Commission's Rules of Practice, 83 Ill. Admin. Code Section 200.200.

All parties interested in this matter may obtain information with respect thereto either directly from Aqua or by addressing the Chief Clerk of the Illinois Commerce Commission, 527 East Capitol Avenue, Springfield, Illinois 62706.

ESTATE OF STYLON BOWERS
Deceased. No. 05 P 1012

CLAIM NOTICE and
NOTICE TO HEIRS AND LEGATEES

Notice is given of the death of STYLON BOWERS, of Zion, Illinois. Letters of Office were issued on December 16, 2005, to Juanita Bowers, as Executor. Juanita Bowers' address is: 2703 Gilead, Zion, Illinois, 60099, and her attorney is Daniel K. Sinclair, 4170 Old Grand Avenue, Gurnee, Illinois 60031.

Claims against the estate may be filed in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court at 18 North County Street, Waukegan, Illinois 60085, Room C-104, or with representative, or both, on or before July 20, 2006, which date is not less than six months from the date of the first publication of this notice and any claim not filed within that period is barred. Copies of any claim filed with the Clerk must be mailed or delivered to the representative and to the attorney within ten days after it is filed.

Notice is also given to: SWEETNESS BOWERS, RUNNY EARL BOWERS, STYLON BOWERS, JR., and UNKNOWN HEIRS OF STYLON BOWERS who are heirs or legatees in the above proceeding to probate a will and whose name or address is not stated in the petition to admit the will to probate, that an order was entered by the court on December 16, 2005, admitting the will to probate.

Within 56 days after the effective date of the original order of admission you may file a petition with the court to require proof of the will by testimony of the witnesses to the will in open court or other evidence, as provided in section 6-21 of the Probate Act of 1975 (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1989, ch. 110 1/2, par. 6-21).

You also have the right under section 8-1 of the Probate Act of 1975 (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1989, ch. 110 1/2, par. 8-1) to contest the validity of the will by filing a petition with court within 6 months after admission of the will to probate.
